TAKES REFUGE WITH ARGENTINE ENVOY IN MADRID

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 25.—Manuel Azana, president of Spain, has taken refuge in the Argentine embassy at Madrid.

BULLETIN.

MADRID, Sept. 26—(Saturday).—(AP)—Reports received here early today said Fascist rebels were attacking the village of Bargas, only five miles north of Toledo, the goal of insurgents seeking to free their fellows besieged for more than nine weeks in the old Alcazar fortress. The Madrid government hurried reinforcements to the sector.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said tonight Argentine officials in Madrid had informed the Buenos Aires government that President Manuel Azana of Spain had asked refuge aboard an Argentine cruiser off Spain.

These sources, close to the government, said the Argentine foreign office was told the situation in Madrid, harassed by Fascist insurgents, was chaotic.

President Azana was quoted as asking for a haven on the Argentine cruiser 25 De Mayo, now at Alicante, on Spain's southeast coast. Other members of the Spanish government also were reported to have sought refuge there.

Leader of War on Fascists.

Azana, a left wing Republican who became president of Spain on May 10 for a six year term, has been a leading figure in the Madrid government's attempt to throttle the Fascist uprising. He and Francisco Largo Caballero, the Socialist premier, have directed the government's fight.

A rebel radio broadcast in Spain Wednesday said Azana wanted to yield to the Fascists but was opposed by Caballero, who believed there still was reason to resist.

On Monday a Fascist radio station declared Azana was held a prisoner in Madrid.

Two weeks ago Madrid police announced they had thwarted a plot to kill the president and other government officials. The next day it was reported seven persons were executed for the plot.

EXECUTE 60 HOSTAGES

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

BILBAO, Spain, Sept. 25.—Roaring mobs slaughtered 60 Fascist hostages tonight and ran through the streets screaming for more executions after hundreds of citizens were killed or injured in an insurgent aerial bombardment.

"Kill all the rightists!" the infuriated mobs cried as they stormed government buildings and howled for their leaders to bring out all of the 4,000 hostages held here.

Rage stifled terror as the shouting men, women and children ran through the streets that for more than two hours had roared with explosions of 500 pound bombs from eight Fascist tri-motored planes, flying so low that the features of the pilots were clearly discernible from the ground.

Search Ruins for Bodies.

More than 100 inhabitants of the city were either blown to pieces or crushed to death under piles of flaming wreckage.

Nobody knew or ventured a guess as the actual toll of dead and wounded. One entire block of homes was razed by the heavy Fascist bombs.

Firemen and militiamen counted 56 dead, but they were still dragging more bodies from blasted homes. Women and children dashed wildly to and fro to claim their dead, but most of the bodies were so mangled that identification was impossible.

The governor's palace, provincial parliament building and railway station were among the structures partly wrecked.

As the Fascist planes, their deadly mission accomplished, droned off into the distance, mobs milled around the FAMINE AND UNEMPLOYMENT BY PLAN.

Mr. Roosevelt planned a meat shortage. He ordered the destruction of 6 million pigs and sows in 1933. On Jan. 1, 1933, there were 62 million hogs on American farms. He commanded the removal of almost 10 per cent of this number and to make the shortage last he required that in future the number of hogs on American farms be held down. One of his devices for achieving this result was a forced reduction in the acreage devoted to hog feed.

In 1929 the killing, dressing, and curing of meat provided 122,500 jobs for men and women working in packing plants in Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City, and other centers of the packing industry. Thanks in large part to Mr. Roosevelt's planned scarcity, the index of employment in the packing industry had fallen, by August, 1935, to 79.4 per cent of the 1923-'25 average. Pay rolls were still further reduced. These are the government's own figures. They show that thousands of men and women who formerly worked in the stockyards have been thrown on relief, and many more are working on part-time schedules because Mr. Roosevelt planned it that way.

And that is only the beginning of the damage. Other thousands of truckers and railroad men who might have earned an honest living transporting hogs to market and meat to consumers have been deprived of work. Their misfortune is shared by all who work in the industries which provide the packing plants with paper and twine, salt, barrels, boxes and cartons, cans, bottles, and a multitude of other supplies. It can be estimated conservatively that Mr. Roosevelt's hog program has deprived 50,000 men and women of a chance to earn a decent living. Probably the number is much larger.

All this unemployment is only the beginning of the suffering which Mr. Roosevelt's ill considered scheme has produced. Pork chops which sold for 17 cents a pound when Mr. Roosevelt took office now cost the housewife 35 cents a pound. And the advantage of the high price goes largely to farmers in Poland, Lithuania, Hungary, Argentina, Denmark, Japan, Russia, China, and other countries which are unloading meat daily at American ports. A meat famine is being avoided in the United States by bidding more for fresh, cured, and canned meats in European markets than Germany and other hunger stricken nations are willing or able to pay.

As the winter approaches the specter of hunger confronts a larger number of people in the civilized world than in a long time. And in the United States the workingman's dollar buys less food than at any time in five years. On Nov. 3 there will be an opportunity to retire Mr. Roosevelt, whose planning produced these conditions.

GUNMAN RAIDS LOOP THEATER AND GETS $2,000

A daring bandit stole nearly $2,000 last night in a raid on the first floor offices of the State-Lake theater, 190 North State street, while hundreds of patrons were inside the theater watching the show.

The gunman first pounced upon Thomas Montgomery, 5427 Indiana avenue, colored porter, who was standing outside the manager's office. He backed Montgomery into the office. Samuel Levin, 7146 Ridgeland avenue, the assistant manager, who was counting part of the day's receipts—which included $600 in dimes and $100 in nickels—looked up.

The gunman tied up both men with shoe strings after warning them against making any alarm. Then he picked up the money on Levin's desk. Backing out, he warned them not to call for help for at least five minutes, threatening that his partner would blow them apart if they did. They were a half hour in freeing themselves from the shoe lace bonds. Then they called police. The gunman, the police said, made no effort to open the safe. He was about 40. He worked alone.

PEDESTRIAN RUNS INTO TRAFIC LAW ON MANY FRONTS

Policemen John Kelly and Anthony Schneider of the Chicago park district were standing at Argyle street and Sheridan road last night when an acquaintance, Milton Gross, 27 years old, 4934 Sheridan road, happened along. They arrested him and took him to the Summerdale police station.

"Book this man," they directed Desk Sergeant John Martin. "We have seven trafic warants for him, issued after he ignored arrest tickets."

"You fellows aren't unique," Sergt. Martin replied loftily. "I have six warants for him myself."

Gross was booked on the 13 warants, which charged him with miscellaneous trafic violations during the last two years, and was locked up pending his arraignment before Judge John Gutknecht in the Trafic court today. He told the policemen that the numerous arrest slips he picked up had discouraged him from driving his car in recent weeks.

ROME, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Dino Alfieri, Italian minister of press and propaganda, left Rome for Berlin today on a trip describer as a "private mission."

Frank Learns the Pitfalls of College Study

The police came to the conclusion last night that a college education may be a dangerous thing. A high school education, they agreed, seemed much safer.

For subjects they cited Frank Hnilo, 22 years old, and John Hnilo, 17 years old, his brother, both of 1853 Throop street. Frank, who is known as "Red" because he has red hair, went to college for three years. John, who is known as "Beets" because he used to blush when reciting in class, went to high school for one year.

In Trouble with Mr. Tack.

The causes that led police to a study of the values of higher education began last month when Frank and John were arrested in Dixon, Ill., in a stolen car driven by a friend, one Joe Tack, also of Chicago. Tack made the mistake of firing a shot at pursuing policemen. The brothers denied knowing that the car was stolen or that Tack was armed. They spoke most willingly against him. Tack, too, generously supported their story. They were innocent of everything, he insisted.

The Dixon police freed Frank and John. They returned to Chicago. However, their minds were on Tack, being held in the Dixon jail. They decided to write to him.

John Pens Simple Thanks.

John, with the benefit of only one year of high school, penned a simple note, thanking Tack for clearing him in Dixon.

"You were very white doing what you did," wrote John. "Many thanks. Sorry we had to prosecute you in our statements."

Frank's letter showed the collegiate influence. It was longer, more fluent.

"We attempted a job on Archie—you know, the cleaner," Frank wrote. "Most unfortunately, C—— and another stupid partner of his bungled the job. It would have meant 500 crackers. They got away, minus the money, and there went a perfect setup—all for naught. Such stupidity!"

Frank's Letter Backfires.

Dixon police passed High School John's letter, but stopped Collegiate Frank's. They sent it to the Chicago police. Sergt. Patrick McShane recalled an attempted robbery of A. Cohn, owner of the Art Quality Cleaners in the Kimball building at Wabash avenue and Jackson boulevard on Sept. 5.

Then he arrested Frank and John in their home. He found a pistol in their room. According to McShane, the brothers admitted acting as lookouts in the attempted holdup. Neither cared to talk much about their predicament last night, but John had this comment:

"Frank always thought he was a better letter writer than I. He went to college."

Presents Omaha Warants of 1857, Territorial Era

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A. Rochestein of Sierraville, Cal., today presented for payment $175 worth of city warants signed by Mayor Jesse Lowe of "Omaha City, Nebraska Territory" in 1857. The interest rate guaranteed was 10 per cent.

"If compounded, this would bankrupt the city," Deputy City-County Treasurer Armburst said.

DOG ENTERS CLINIC, APPEALS FOR AID AS SHE AWAITS PUPPIES

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Lady—black and white foxhound—will have her pups in a clinic operated by Washington university medical school.

She walked in a few days ago, wagged her tail, lay down, and mutely appealed for aid.

Attendants quickly noted her condition. Dr. J. V. Lawrence, clinic operator, was called. He instructed his aids to take the dog to the roof and care for her until the blessed event, expected in two or three days.

The dog was dubbed Lady by clinic employés as she bore no collar tag with identification.

Dr. Lawrence said tonight Lady was not the first dog to seek aid at the clinic. Two years ago, he said, a dog came in with a broken leg. It was set. Two months later the dog returned with the same leg broken.

PREPARE TO DEVALUATE; U. S., BRITAIN O. K. PLAN

Roosevelt Agrees, Fearing for Own Policies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Fearing a French monetary crisis that would result in further devaluation of the British pound sterling, the collapse of his own financial policy, and the attendant injury to his campaign for reëlection, President Roosevelt tonight authorized the United States treasury to enter into a "gentlemen's agreement" with France and England for international coöperation during the period of French devaluation.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., tense with excitement, made his announcement looking toward international stabilization at the close of the most hectic day in the treasury since the New Deal abandoned the gold standard on April 19, 1933. Simultaneously Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the British exchequer, and Vincent Auriol, French finance minister, made similar announcements in London and Paris.

Delays Active Campaign.

It was disclosed tonight in official quarters that the crisis confronting the French franc, of which he had knowledge, prompted President Roosevelt to delay his active campaign for reëlection, particularly his projected trip to the Pacific coast. It was the situation of the franc, and not the fear of a military crisis in Europe, that the President had in mind on Sept. 15 when he declared at a press conference that conditions abroad impelled him to remain close to Washington, officials revealed.

This revelation led to the conjecture, which officials would not confirm, that the Roosevelt administration had a hand in engineering the "gentlemen's agreement" announced tonight. With the election approaching, the President was confronted with the possibility of French devaluation which would have played havoc with the already devalued Roosevelt dollar.

Meant Rough Sea for Dollar.

Further devaluation of the pound sterling, the Dutch guilder, and the Belgian belga would have been the natural consequence, and the 59 cent Roosevelt dollar would have been buffeted on the sea of international finance. The foreign exchange and world trade of the United States would have been jarred from their foundations, and Mr. Roosevelt might

Slash in Franc's Value Will Be 'About Third.'

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

PARIS, Sept. 26.—[Saturday]—France, which has long been the leader of the gold standard countries, early today summoned parliament for what officials said would be "approximately one-third" devaluation of the franc—the result of a "monetary equilibrium" accord with the United States and Great Britain.

VINCENT AURIOL. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

In a night and early morning crammed with dramatic, fast breaking, developments, the popular front government sought to solve its grave financial troubles with these measures:

1. Parliament, meeting at 9 a. m. Monday, will be asked to set the gold content of the franc, now 65 milligrams, between 49 and 43 milligrams.

Dollar, Pound, Franc Deal.

2. France, the United States and Great Britain will act in concert for "equilibrium" of the franc, the dollar, and the pound sterling, as a result of this realignment. Other nations are expected to join.

3. With the aid of a ten billion franc stabilization fund, the franc is expected to find a level somewhere between the two gold content points proposed.

4. The government will propose to parliament the requisition of all gold at its present value.

5. Debtors, owing sums which are scheduled to be paid in gold or foreign currencies, will have the immediate right to hold up payments until further decree.

6. The bourse [stock market] will be closed for several days; the franc market will be strictly controled.

Plans to Aid "Losers."

7. The government will move to spend millions of francs to aid towns, departments, mortgage holders, cooperatives, business interests, and individuals that may be hurt by the franc's realignment or the resultant increase in prices.

The new monetary bills, under emergency procedure, will be pushed through parliament in perhaps one day. Already the new council of administration of the Bank of France was in session, discussing application of the government's decision. One of its duties will be to smash speculation which might impede the government's plans.

Three months of secret negotiations, spurred by an immense outflow of gold shipments abroad in the last few weeks, led up to completion of the tripartite accord, which Finance Minister Vincent Auriol called "a declaration of an economic and monetary entente between three democracies—the start of monetary peace."

What Value Change Means.

The text of an official communique said the new gold value of the franc "ought to be between 49 and 43 milligrams gold of .900 fineness." The franc's gold content now is 65.5 milligrams. [The change would give the franc a value of between 4½ and 5 cents in place of its recent value of about 6 2-3 cents.]

The general council of administration of the reorganized Bank of France was called into special session early today to study the consequences of the dramatic decision.

M. Auriol, in announcing the council of ministers had decided to submit the proposal to the parliament, appealed both to that body and to the French nation to accept the monetary action. The chamber of deputies finance committee will meet Sunday to ratify the devaluation of the franc, officials said.

Spurred by Gold Drain.

Hours of ministerial consultation, spurred by the unstemmed drain of many millions of francs in gold from the Bank of France reserves, was climaxed by M. Auriol's announcement of the accord between France, the United States and Great Britain.

Auriol, in explaining the move, said, "the entente we have concluded constitutes the start of monetary peace, a condition of economic peace, of human peace.

"The monetary situation reported in parliament last June 16 threatened to lead us toward some autarchy or isolated devaluation. The entente of three Democratic governments, which other countries will join soon, Belgium notably, I am convinced, will be completed by the action of our three great credit institutions.

Aids Economic Situation.

"It will result in equilibrium of the economic situation. For that we had to adjust our money to the level of other moneys. National consequences will be resumption of our economic activity.

"The government wishes to avoid social injustices. It desires to consolidate social peace. In response to this moral care, the government will propose that parliament requisition gold at current rates, as well as take measures to relieve small bond holders, war veterans, small pensionnaires, by the adaptation of salaries to the cost of living. It will do everything to prevent unjust increases in prices, employing, particularly, its customs powers.

"We shall aid also the towns, departments and coöperatives. For those who have contracted mortgage loans we shall propose an agreement with the landbank, limiting to 5 per cent the interest rate on loans contracted at a higher rate. For the towns we shall ask a fund of two billion francs, loaned at 5 per cent."

British Stand Announced.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The British treasury, in a prepared statement announcing that the French government proposed "readjustment" of its currency, asserted tonight that the British and the United States governments welcomed this decision.

The statement said:

"His majesty's government, after consultation with the United States government and the French government, joins with them in affirming a common desire to foster those conditions which will safeguard peace and will best contribute to the restoration of order in international economic relations, and pursue a policy which will tend to promote prosperity in the world and improve the standard of living."

GOLD FLIGHT SETS RECORD

While the Blum cabinet was meeting yesterday the outflow of gold from Paris continued in record volume. American engagements of gold in France amounted to $43,532,000, the largest single day's purchases this year. Since the present drain on the gold reserves of the Bank of France began more than a month ago a total of $197,700,000 of the metal has been purchased for shipment to this country.

An effort to check the flight of capital was made by the regents of the Bank of France on Thursday when they voted to raise the rediscount rate from 3 to 5 per cent. The heavy engagements yesterday showed this action had little effect. It had been predicted by financial experts that if the manipulation of the bank rate failed to produce the desired result the government would be forced to take more drastic action.

Exchange Market Unsettled.

The developments of the day were reflected in the uncertainty of the foreign exchange markets in New York, London, and Paris. While the spot quotation on the franc was comparatively steady it was virtually impossible to get a quotation on the franc future. In the London market the franc closed at 76.56 to the pound, while francs for delivery thirty days hence were quoted nominally 7½ francs under that figure. There were few transactions in franc futures.

A sharp break developed in sterling early in the day in the New York market with the price dropping to $5.01¾ from its opening price of $5.05¾. Later the pound rallied slightly. The early break in the pound was attributed to the heavy transfer of funds from London to the United States.

Foreigners Buy Dollars.

Foreigners were reported to be selling pounds and buying dollars not knowing what the next few hours would bring in the way of revaluation. Despite the reported agreement between France and Great Britain many speculators believed that the pound would be devalued along with the franc. The rally in British funds appeared to dispel these fears.

The franc was nominally quoted in the New York market at 6.58¼ cents, off 3-16 point from the opening price and the preceding day's final quotation. The comparative steadiness in the dollar-franc exchange rate was believed to be due to exchange control operations. In recent weeks both the British equalization fund and the United States two billion dollar stabilization fund were reputed to have been used to support the franc.

Financial Circles Uneasy.

Developments yesterday climaxed a week of uneasiness in financial circles over the French situation. Although it has been believed for months that devaluation of the franc was inevitable, the political obstances within France have been regarded as nearly insurmountable. While there is an ardent inflationest bloc in the French parliament, the majority of the people is believed to be opposed to devaluation. The middle class, including a large number of persons with fixed incomes, were the principal sufferers in the post inflation which led to the 1926-'27 franc stabilization.

The opinion was expressed yesterday that the contemplated realignment of the franc would result in no grave consequences in this country. Stock prices fell sharply yesterday on the New York exchange because of the nervousness over the international situation, but the outright devaluation of the franc is expected to be a stabilizing factor.

Economists believe that franc revaluation would result in a gradual repatriation of the French capital that has come to this country in recent months. Part of this money has gone into the American securities market and part has been placed on deposit with American banks. The latter type can be easily withdrawn, but the withdrawal of funds from the American securities market would likely be more gradual.

Markets Prepared for Action.

The markets have been preparing for the action for several weeks. Since gold began to flow out of Paris about Aug. 1 there has been a general agreement that the Blum government would eventually have to take drastic measures to protect its gold stocks.

The disturbed political situation in Europe has made it necessary for France to prevent its gold reserve from dwindling too far. The free gold reserve of the Bank of France is 52,691,000,000 francs. The limit beyond which it is believed the reserve cannot safely go is 50,000,000,000 francs [$3,250,000,000].

FRENCH LABOR CHIEF CHARGES RIGHTISTS PLOT 'FALL REVOLT'

PARIS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Leon Jouhaux, head of the General Confederation of Labor, charged today rightists were planning to overthrow the popular front government "in October or November."

Jouhaux told an extraordinary meeting of the labor organization's national committee, government opponents were "exploiting all workers' movements to create an atmosphere of panic."

"In October or November," he said, "our adversaries hope to overthrow the people's front government and replace it with one more docile to the interests of the capitalistic oligarchy. I believe the masses are not ready to allow this to be done."

A collective contract was signed ending the "sit down" strike of 40,000 textile workers in the Vosges department. The agreement, signed at Epinal, set a minimum wage scale and the workers promised to return to their posts Monday.

Jimmy Walker Buys 20 Acre Estate at $50,000

Northport, Long Island, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—James J. Walker, former mayor of New York, has purchased a 15 room house and 20 acre estate three miles south of this village, it was learned today. The price is believed to have been about $50,000.

have found it necessary to devalue the dollar still more on the very eve of the election.

Conversely, the "gentlemen's agreement," holding out the promise of international stabilization, is construed by fiscal experts as a shrewd political gesture, since Mr. Roosevelt has been severely criticized for not moving toward stabilization and for deliberately wrecking the London economic conference of 1933 when he refused to tie the dollar to foreign currencies.

FIVE POINT PROGRAM.

The program enunciated by Secretary Morgenthau "by authority of the President" embodied five general points as follows:

1. The United States, Great Britain, and France join in the restoration of order in international economic relations.

2. The United States declares that in its policy of international monetary relations internal prosperity comes first.

3. The United States and Great Britain sanction the French devaluation plan and promise to use available resources to help carry it out successfully.

4. The three governments are convinced that the policy is linked with the development of international trade.

5. The three governments will invite other nations to coöperate in the stabilization of currencies.

Asserts U. S. Is Protected.

"America's position is fully safeguarded while our action should encourage peace and commerce," declared Morgenthau. "This will, in my opinion, be the turning point for general peace in the world. Stabilization of world currencies is the foundation that had to be first built before we could look forward to lasting peace, and real recovery in world trade."

It was pointed out to Morgenthau that he had repeated the word "peace." Was there something more than the money question involved in this agreement?

"The basis of peace is first economic security," he replied. "A stable currency is a firm foundation."

Morgenthau did not comment on whether the United States would be forced by the agreement to debase her currency any further than the 59 cent dollar now in existence.

In so far as the 2 billion dollar stabilization fund, which was created by the writing up of gold profits by the government, was concerned no "better insurance" could be found, said Morgenthau.

Is "Gentlemen's Agreement."

The unique feature of the agreement of the three governments, Morgenthau said, was that "nothing was signed." He asserted that a "gentleman's agreement" was better than a document any day. This brought up the question of what would happen should the agreement be broken.

"The minute one country breaks the agreement," he answered, "we would step out. By this we express our confidence that the British are acting in good faith and the French are doing the same."

The negotiations here were carried on principally through the treasury secretary, V. A. L. Mallett, counselor of the British embassy here, and Jean Appert, financial attaché of the French embassy.

The quiet, solid atmosphere of the treasury corridors was disrupted during the day as aides dashed back and forth, bringing in new communications on the French situation to Morgenthau's office. Trans-Atlantic telephone and cable were in constant use between Washington and the two European capitals during the day.

While the announcements were to have been made at the same time the treasury here lagged behind London and Paris by a few minutes. Morgenthau made the announcement public shortly after 7:30 p. m., which was early in the morning for the European capitals.

Will Rogers' Widow Buys His Live Stock at Tax Sale

OOLOGAH, Okla., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The horses that Will Rogers used to ride, the cattle that grazed in his pastures, and the implements used to farm his homeplace were purchased today by his widow, Mrs. Rogers paid $2,000 for the stock and tools at a tax sale. She was the only bidder. Tomorrow the Rogers property, consisting of a 20 acre tract near Claremore and the Oologah ranch of 1,600 acres, will be auctioned in Claremore.

GERMANY TO TRY U. S. SAILOR FOR TREASON MONDAY

Simpson to Be Defended by a Nazi Lawyer.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 25. — Lawrence Simpson, American sailor, who has been imprisoned for 15 months in a German concentration camp, will be tried Monday morning for high treason. The sailor is the first American born citizen to appear before it.

American authorities hope, in view of Simpson's long detention without trial, the German court will be lenient. As far as American officials know, Simpson had only communistic leaflets and toy balloons in his possession when he was arrested. Nevertheless, German authorities are attempting to establish that he was in touch with a secret communist group which is banned in Germany.

Round Up 70 "Marxists."

In an effort to prove this, they arrested more than 70 "Marxist" men and women in the Hamburg district. Many of the prisoners have been tried and examined in secret sessions in recent weeks. This rounding up of alleged fellow conspirators is the excuse Germany has made to Washington, D. C., for delaying the trial.

German authorities have informed the American consul general in Berlin that Simpson would be tried publicly, that is to say, the American consul and persons receiving special permits will be allowed to attend the proceedings.

The American consul saw Simpson today and found him in good spirits despite his long detention. He speaks German better than most Americans because he has visited Germany frequently as a sailor. He is a small man with a tiny head, broad shoulders and spindly legs. He is extremely slow in speech and thought, his movements creating the impression of helplessness.

German to Defend Sailor.

Simpson will be defended by Werner Amthor, a German lawyer appointed by the People's court. Amthor was able to move from the poor district of east Berlin to a more important business section near the city hall after the elimination of Jewish lawyers created a boom for "Aryan" lawyers.

Gifford Cochran of the American National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners was in Germany several weeks ago and offered money to obtain a private lawyer for Simpson. Simpson refused the offer of assistance, saying he would accept a lawyer appointed by the court.

NATIVE OF OAK PARK.

Lawrence Simpson is a native of Oak Park, Ill. He was born at 226 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, in 1902. He received his early education there and then moved to the state of Washington with his father, John G. Simpson. Mr. Simpson, a retired architect, now lives at Kirkland, Wash. Young Simpson became a sailor about eleven years ago.

ACTRESS RAPED IN LOOP HOTEL; MORON HUNTED

Girl Is Seriously Hurt by Blows; Room Set Afire.

Police were searching last night for the moron who slugged and raped Miss Alda Deery, 25 years old, a vaudeville actress, early yesterday morning in her room at the Washington hotel, 167 West Washington street. The police investigation was spurred on by the fact that three women have been murdered in other Chicago hotels in the last few months under similar circumstances.

Miss Deery was assaulted about 4:30 a. m. Afterward the attacker tied one of her stockings around her neck, apparently to strangle her. As she lay unconscious he tossed a lighted cigaret into her clothes closet, setting it afire. Then he fled. Police believe he used a fire escape running near Miss Deery's fifth floor room to enter and depart.

Victim in Serious Condition.

At the County hospital last night, Miss Deery's condition was said to be serious. She is suffering from a severe concussion of the brain, but the blows did not fracture the skull. Pneumonia set in because of her exposure after the attack.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, who questioned Miss Deery at the hospital, said she told him she had no idea of the identity of her assailant. Miss Deery said she had been drinking earlier in the evening and her mind was a blank from the time she left a tavern to go to her hotel in a taxicab until she woke up in the hospital. She refused to name her companion at the tavern beyond saying he was "a darling chap whom I have known for five years."

Member of Joe Morris' Troupe.

Miss Deery, whose home is in New York City, is a member of a vaudeville troupe which played at a loop theater a week ago and was to open at a west side theater yesterday. The troupe is headed by Joe Morris and the other members are Miss Dorothy Ryan and Lawrence Jason.

Miss Deery and Miss Ryan roomed together, occupying room 515 A in the Washington hotel. Morris had an adjoining room, 515, which connects by an inner door with the girls' room. Jason's room was on the tenth floor.

Miss Ryan told the police she was home alone Thursday night. About 3 o'clock in the morning she was unable to sleep, she said, and went into Morris' room, where she sat by his bedside and talked to him. About 4 o'clock in the morning she heard Miss Deery putting a key in the door of room 515 A. Miss Ryan went through the connecting door and opened the door of 515 A for her roommate.

Hears Door and Finds Smoke.

"She told me she had had a swell time," Miss Ryan said. "I went back to Joe's room. I had dozed off about a half hour later when I heard a noise in the other room. It seemed to me the outer door was opening and closing. I ran into the room and was nearly stifled by the smoke from the closet. I yelled to Joe and he came running."

Miss Ryan and Morris found Miss Deery lying unconscious on the bed. Her street clothes—she had not undressed—were in disarray and her dress was torn. Her stocking was knotted around her neck. They loosened the knots. Miss Ryan gave an alarm to the hotel desk clerk. Sergt. Ralph McKenna of the Central station, who was eating in a restaurant nearby, helped to extinguish the fire in the closet.

Brick Hidden Under Mattress.

Later the police found a brick, presumably carried by the rapist as a weapon, under the mattress of Miss Deery's bed. Since the brick was unstained, police inferred it was not used in the attack.

It was discovered the brick had been taken from the remnants of a building which had been torn down just east of the hotel to make room for a garage. On the west ramp of the garage, near the hotel, was found a piece of paper which police believe was dropped by the rapist in his flight.

The fire escape running near Miss Deery's room could be reached from the top of the ramp, and police said it appeared the assailant used it to enter and depart.

Three Similar Cases Studied.

The first of the murders which police are considering in their investigation of the assault on Miss Deery was that of Mrs. Lillian Guild, 54 years old. She was beaten to death with a brick in her room in the former Y. W. C. A. hotel at 830 South Michigan avenue on May 29. Thomas Starr, 31 years old, colored, confessed the crime and was sentenced to 199 years in prison.

On June 29, Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, night club hostess, was fatally attacked with a brick in her room in the Devonshire hotel, 19 East Ohio street, while her son, James, 7 years old, lay beside her. The case has not been solved.

Mrs. Mary Louise Trammell, bride of a railroad dining car steward, was raped and beaten to death in her room in the State hotel, 553 South State street, on Aug. 6. Rufe Swain, 37 years old, colored, confessed the crime, saying he struck her with a water pitcher. Later he repudiated his confession and is awaiting trial on murder charge.

HUNT 2 CHINESE FOR QUESTIONING IN CAFE SLAYING

The police were searching last night for two Chinese for questioning about the slaying of John Eng, 60 years old, wealthy Chinese, in his restaurant, the Paradise inn, 4007 West Madison street, early yesterday.

The two men sought were named by police as Eng Won, 30 years old, part owner of the New Paradise restaurant at 18 South Pulaski road, just around the corner from the Paradise inn, and Eng King, about 35, said to have been educated in an American university.

Police are working on the theory that the killing was motivated by business rivalry. John Eng, they were told, had opened the Paradise inn two years ago in competition with the other Paradise restaurant on Pulaski road which had been in operation eight years. It is said the Chinese have an agreement to avoid such competition. Seven employés of the Pulaski road place are being held as witnesses. Almost all are interrelated, including the slain man.

VISITOR FALLS ASLEEP AND 15 FEET FARTHER

Frederick Falk, 45 years old, of Red Wing, Minn., went to sleep early yesterday on a narrow concrete stair rail leading from the upper level of Michigan avenue to Illinois street at the south side of the Medinah club. Some time later police went to the location in response to a message that "a man jumped out a window of the Medinah club." Falk had fallen 15 feet to the lower level from his concrete mattress. At Passavant hospital it was found his injuries were limited to scratches and bruises.

Manager Co-Operates

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. George Emlen Roosevelt complained, and the manager of a New York night club agreed, that her children were keeping too late hours.

So Medora Roosevelt, 20, and George Roosevelt, 18, hereafter will be refused entrance to the club. Their mother is by marriage a distant relative of President Roosevelt.

Mrs. Roosevelt declared the children enjoyed the club so much they stayed out too late at night.

Sherman Billingsley, the club manager, agreed with regret. Medora, who is known as "Dody," and George were a pleasant source of revenue and always, said Billingsley, well behaved. It was just a question of late hours.

A check for $500 was given yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. William Alberts, 4240 Clarendon avenue, because their new baby was the 15,000th to be born in the Ravenswood hospital. The hospital was established 29 years ago. The baby, a boy weighing 6 pounds 10 ounces, was born at 10:07 a. m. yesterday. William Lill, a member of the board, gave the $500 check to the parents in the afternoon.

Redston Is Found Guilty in Texas Slaying Case

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 25.—(AP)—George W. Redston, former vice investigator in Chicago, was convicted today of murder without malice in the fatal shooting of A. B. Farrow, liquor tavern operator, Aug. 4. The jury recommended a prison sentence of five years. Prosecutor Charles A. Pippen had demanded the death penalty. Redston pleaded self-defense.

SEEK TO INDICT ZINTAK AGAIN; BONDS MISSING

Reveal Motive for Safe Deposit Raid.

A second indictment is being sought against Frank V. Zintak, deposed clerk of the Superior court, charging him with the larceny of $3,000 in government bonds, it was reported yesterday.

The new indictment, it is understood, was the motive for the raid Thursday on the safe deposit box which Zintak maintained in the Trust Company of Chicago, 33 North La Salle street.

Investigators who opened the box under a search warant issued by Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher were seeking the missing bonds which were listed on the books of the clerk's office as having been deposited in the trust company vault.

Witnesses Before Jury Again.

Following a conference yesterday at the Criminal court building of Assistant State's Attorneys Robert Wright, Wilbert Crowley, and William J. Tuohy, and Eugene O'Connor, investigator for the state's attorney, two witnesses who testified in the first grand jury investigation of the Zintak shortage were again taken before the jury.

The witnesses are Frank Witkowski, who was Zintak's bookkeeper, and Anton Valonis, an employé of the Metropolitan State bank. Zintak had one of his official bank accounts in that institution and maintained his personal account there as well.

Witkowski and Valonis were reported to have told the jury that Zintak took $3,000 in United States treasury bonds, which he held in escrow in his official capacity, and posted them as collateral on a personal loan at the Metropolitan bank. The bonds were deposited in the suit of Clara A. Crozier against the Freeman Coal Mining company.

Want Zintak Off Ticket.

While the wish may have been father to the thought, several Democratic leaders expressed confidence yesterday that Zintak will shortly withdraw as nominee of the party for reelection to the clerk's office. His successor on the ticket has already been picked, it was reported, in the person of Victor L. Schlaeger, chief deputy coroner.

Schlaeger is of Polish descent, as is Zintak. He is a party leader in South Chicago. Another candidate mentioned for the post is Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski [32d].

Zintak's assertion that efforts to force him off the ticket would be viewed by members of his race as evidence of Democratic prejudice against the Poles were met in part by a meeting of thirty Polish Democratic leaders at the Illinois Athletic club. They agreed to join in the demand that he withdraw.

Attorney Denies Reports.

Reports that Zintak would withdraw drew a reiterated denial from his attorney, Stephen Love, who said Thursday that he had advised his client that "his best interests would be served by remaining on the ticket."

Brig. Gen. Edward H. White, appointed clerk pro-tem to succeed Zintak by the executive committee of the Superior court, called employés of the office together and raked them over the coals for an hour. He announced that he had already marked several of their number for dismissal within a few days, and declared that he found the court files "in abominable condition."

"Some of you political appointees come to work with the idea of playing all day," said Gen. White. "But it's the public who hired you and the public is entitled to a full measure of service."

Orders "Kickback" Inquiry.

State's Attorney Courtney Yesterday assigned Assistant State's Attorney Tuohy to investigate the other current County building scandal, growing out of the statement of Edward J. Walton, court reporter, that in 1934 he "kicked back" $15,458 to two county officials for the official business of their offices.

Tuohy said that his instructions were to make an investigation and report back to his superior. Other business, he said, prevented him from interviewing witnesses yesterday. He arranged a conference, however, with Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board.

Smith was considering a plan to set up a central stenographic bureau for all county offices, manned by full time employés. This would do away with the practice of hiring outside court reporters.

Discuss Transfer of Funds.

County Treasurer Gill announced yesterday that he has called a meeting of county officials for Monday to discuss the transfer to the treasurer of all trust and escrow funds now held by other county officials. The transfers were ordered by a statute passed by the legislature following the Sweitzer scandal, but the law has been largely ignored for fifteen months.

Treasurer Gill said that the transfer act was hastily drafted, and may conflict in some parts with other laws governing the handling of funds in the treasurer's office. The conference is for the purpose of working a way out of these difficulties, he said.

KILLS SELF; 2D TRAGEDY OF DAY FOR LOOP HOTEL

Charles Gallagher, alias Charles O. Long, 45 years old, who has an eight year police record as a confidence man, shot and fatally wounded himself with a .22 calibre rifle yesterday morning in his room on the eighth floor of the Washington hotel, 167 West Washington street. Gallagher's room was three floors above that of Miss Alda Deery, vaudeville actress, who was raped early yesterday, but police were convinced last night that there was no connection between the suicide and the attack.

Gallagher died at the County hospital. He left two notes. In one to his estranged wife, whom he married under his alias of Long, Gallagher wrote he would save her the trouble of a divorce and told her his insurance policy would provide for her and their adopted daughter, Patricia. Mrs. Long is now living at Sarasota, Fla. The other farewell note was addressed to Gallagher's sister, Mary, a high school teacher, who lives with her mother, Mrs. Winifred Gallagher, at 6458 Dante avenue.

COUNTY OFFICERS FACING JAIL WIN A SECOND DELAY

A second stay of mittimus to keep County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill and his predecessor in office, Thomas D. Nash, from being committed to the county jail for contempt of court was issued yesterday by Judge Daniel P. Trude in the Circuit court.

The officials were ordered jailed on June 20 for failing to pay the village of Broadview $11,550 on a judgment. That amount represented 50 cents per item on 23,100 delinquent special assessments collected for the village which was withheld by the late Joseph B. McDonough when he was county treasurer.

The stay of mittimus was granted to Sept. 30 to allow Assistant State's Attorney Jacob Shamberg to perfect an appeal from the contempt order.

STRAUB WIDOW ADMITS EFFORT TO BALK POLICE

Conceals Ownership of .380 Pistol.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Mrs. Melba Straub nervously admitted from the witness stand before Federal Master in Chancery Jacob L. Grossman yesterday that she consciously concealed from the police a fact she thought was pertinent to the investigation of the murder of her husband, Louis.

That fact, elicited in the course of her cross-examination by Attorney J. Fred Reeve, was that she had formerly had in her possession a .380 automatic pistol, a type not now commonly sold. Knowing that the police were seeking a gun of this caliber as the one used in the murder of her husband in the Saddle and Cycle club basement on the night of Feb. 2, 1935, she "consciously concealed" her information, she testified, until the police learned of it from another source.

Testifies in Insurance Action.

Mrs. Straub, who, at 36, is 20 pounds heavier than she was at the time of her husband's mysterious murder, testified in a civil action to determine whether she or her late husband's brother, Ernest and his two nephews, should receive $20,410 of insurance on Straub's life.

Ernest Straub and his nephews are seeking to prevent the widow from collecting the insurance on the contention that she shot her husband. In a civil action such as this, Master Grossman can rule against Mrs. Straub if he believes there is a preponderance of evidence to show that she killed Straub. In a murder case, however, the state would have to establish proof beyond a reasonable doubt.

Questioned by one of her attorneys, Harold Levy, Mrs. Straub described the finding of her husband's body. During this examination, her answers, uttered in a thin voice, were rapid and easy, but, cross-examined by Attorney Reeve, counsel for Ernest Straub, she found her memory slipping on details to which she previously had testified glibly less than two hours before.

Recalls Selling Gun.

In October, 1934, she testified on direct examination, her father, Charles S. Springer, gave her a .380 automatic pistol to sell for him. She gave him $10 for the gun and turned it over to Peter Brickie, 51 year old electrician, an intimate friend of more than a decade, who bought it, she said, for a "friend who likes hunting." [Brickie on Wednesday denied that the gun was ever in his possession.]

She denied, in her shrill, rasping voice, that she had asked her father where to buy shells for the gun, or how to operate it. Nor, she said, did she tell him she had sold the gun to Brickie, as she didn't want her father to know of their relationship.

On cross-examination by Attorney Reeve Mrs. Straub admitted she knew how to load and unload a pistol, having had practice when vacationing in Wisconsin with her husband one summer. A retired police officer, she said, had given them a .32 automatic, and they shot at "birds and things."

"Are you a pretty good shot?" Reeve asked.

"Not so good," she replied.

Covers Up Brickie Affair.

Going back to Mrs. Straub's mention of Brickie, Reeve asked:

"Why didn't you want your father to know of Brickie?"

"I didn't want my father to know I was going with him," she answered quietly.

Q.—You knew Mr. Brickie was married?

Mrs. Straub's slight hesitation at this point was broken when Attorney Levy objected to the question.

"Well, were there any plans of a serious nature between you and Mr. Brickie?" Attorney Reeve amended.

"No sir," was the reply.

Q.—Did Louis know you were going with him? A.—Yes, sir. I mean [with some confusion] no, sir.

Memory Fails Her.

Q.—When did you first tell the police about Brickie buying the gun? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Don't you recall it was when the authorities told you they already knew about it? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Didn't you believe there was a connection between the gun and the murder? A.—No, I didn't.

Q.—Why did you conceal the fact that you had the .380? A.—I wanted to wait until I could see Brickie and tell him to get it for me so I could let the police examine it.

Q.—Weren't you trying to conceal the fact that it had been in your possession? A.—I wasn't trying to conceal, really, but I just didn't want them to know——

Q.—To know what? A.—[Confusedly] To know until I got the gun from Mr. Brickie.

Widow Becomes Nervous.

Mrs. Straub, her hands nervously clutching at her furpiece, was becoming more and more petulant in her answers. She talked hurriedly.

"You knew," Reeve persisted, "that the police would be gravely interested if you had such a gun, didn't you?"

The chamber became tense with silence as Mrs. Straub moistened her lips and made no answer.

Attorney Reeve repeated the question.

"Well, if it was the same make of gun," she finally replied, "I guess they'd be interested in that type."

"And realizing that, you consciously concealed that fact?" he persisted.

Another long pause.

"Yes, sir," Mrs. Straub said faintly.

On redirect examination Attorney Levy brought out that although Mrs. Straub made conflicting statements to the police concerning the hour she left a bridge party on the night of the murder, she corrected the statements before seeing four women friends who had been at the party.

Questioned About Mrs. Edlin.

Attorney Reeve then began recross-examination.

"But your closest friend at that party was Mrs. Billy Edlin, wasn't she?" he asked.

"Yes, sir."

"And you kept in touch with her before you saw the other girls, didn't you?" "Yes, sir," the widow repeated.

"Your association with this woman had been a source of quarrels between you and your husband, hadn't it?" he asked.

"Never," she replied quickly, jamming her hands into the pockets of her dark suit. "That's not true."

Q.—Did you see her every day? A.—No, two or three times a week.

Q.—She was your closest friend? A.—She was our [with emphasis] closest friend.

Q.—[In surprise] Our? A.—Meaning Mr. Straub and myself.

Q.—What was her [Mrs. Edlin's] business? A.—Oh, she was married. I was under the impression she was living with her husband.

The hearing then was adjourned until 3 p. m. Monday, when rebuttal testimony will be heard.

11 Workmen Hurt, Pupils Periled in School Blast

Los Gatos, Cal., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Eleven workmen were injured and 400 students were endangered by a terrific gas explosion at the Los Gatos Union High school today. It was believed escaping gas in the basement was ignited when someone turned on an electric light.

U.S. GOVERNMENT MOVES TO AVERT SHIPPING STRIKE

Pacific Coast Tieup on Oct. 1 Threatened.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Pacific coast maritime unions tonight asked employers to extend present working agreements for 15 days beyond the scheduled expiration date of Sept. 30. The unions also announced they were requesting the employers to agree to continue "peaceful and sincere negotiations" during the additional 15 days.

This action, approved at a meeting of the joint committee for the unions, came as the growing threat of another Pacific coast maritime strike drew the attention of President Roosevelt and other governmental officials.

The President announced he would discuss the matter Wednesday with his newly appointed maritime commission. Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, was en route here from Washington.

Agree to Conference.

Although waterfront employers remained silent regarding the extension of present working agreements, they agreed to meet representatives of the International Longshoremen's association in an effort to continue negotiations that were broken off originally when the union declined to submit certain fundamental questions to arbitration.

The agreements now about to expire are those which restored peace to the waterfronts after the bloody strike of 1934.

Waterfront employers have served notice terminating the agreement with the International Longshoremen's union and have informed other maritime unions of a desire to modify the terms of the current agreements.

The Sailors' Union of the Pacific has notified the employers it wants a new agreement.

Demand Hiring Halls.

Longshoremen and employers met to negotiate a new contract, but were unable to agree at the outset. The employers then announced temporary abandonment of the hiring hall for longshoremen, an important point in the 1934 contract. The longshoremen announced they would fight for retention of the hiring hall.

The ship owners planned to hire longshoremen directly at the piers after Wednesday, but announced they would shut down waterfront operations if sufficient men failed to appear.

In the event longshoremen failed to show up at the piers, as union leaders predicted, a stalemate probably would develop, since ships could not be loaded or unloaded without the stevedores.

An attempt was made in 1934 to move goods to and from the piers without union help and led to clashes between police and pickets in which two men were killed in San Francisco. The San Francisco general strike, a two day mass walkout of union labor followed.

AL SMITH PLANS FIVE SPEECHES IN ALL; ONE IS SET FOR CHICAGO

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith's tentative schedule of campaign speeches against the New Deal calls for addresses in Philadelphia on Oct. 8, in Chicago, Oct. 15, in New Haven, Oct. 22, and in Albany, Oct. 31, in addition to his New York speech next Thursday night, it became known today.

Except for the Philadelphia address, which was definitly announced today by Harry V. Dougherty, register of wills of Philadelphia, these dates are tentative, still dependent somewhat on the arranging of radio time and the hiring of halls. Confirmation of the reported schedule was refused at Mr. Smith's offices, where it was said that announcements would be withheld until the arrangements were definite.

Mr. Smith, who will speak at Carnegie hall under the auspices of the Independent Coalition of American Women, will be on the air from 9:30 to 10:15 p. m.

TRAGEDY BABY'S FATHER VICTOR IN PROSECUTION

Frank Carroll, 32 years old, 4227 North St. Louis avenue, business agent for the Auto Mechanics' union, local 701, was fined $300 by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the Des Plaines Street court yesterday on charges of assault and disorderly conduct. The complainant was Julian Tafel, 5012 Sunnyside avenue, whose infant son Julian Jr. died in the Danish-American hospital on Wednesday after an operation. A motion for a new trial will be heard on Oct. 10. Tafel and Arnold Sher, employés of a garage at 3527 North Ashland avenue, testified that on Aug. 13, while members of the union were picketing the garage, Carroll and another man struck Tafel.

LEWIS AND GLENN ASKED TO DEBATE BY UNION LEAGUE

Letters were sent yesterday to Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, and his Republican opponent, Otis F. Glenn, by E. L. Hartig, president of the Union League club, inviting them to debate under the auspices of the club on the question, "What the Outcome of the November Election Means to American Business."

The letter suggested a date between Oct. 12 and 28. The action was started by the club as a result of Lewis' challenge to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan to a debate, members of the club taking the position that the logical opponent for Lewis in such a debate should be the Republican nominee for senator in Illinois.

Quezon Spikes Reports Paredes Will Quit U.S. Post

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 25.—(AP)—President Manuel Quezon said today that Quintin Paredes would return to the United States next month to continue his duties as Philippine resident commissioner at Washington. The announcement settled rumors that Paredes had returned here to discuss the question of his resignation.

500 MILLERS IN MINNEAPOLIS TO SETTLE STRIKE

Fight for Closed Shop Is Won by Workers.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Hope for early settlement of the millers' strike which began a month ago was raised today by the decision of 500 union employés of the Archer-Daniels-Midland company plant here to return to work. The plant was the nub of the union dispute that led to the closing of 30 terminal elevators and several small mills.

Settlement of the Archer-Daniels-Midland strike was announced at about the same time that Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward in Chicago issued an unusual emergency order directing the United States marshal in Minneapolis to prevent strike damage to property of the Chicago Great Western railroad.

Will Convoy Cars.

The Chicago order was issued at the request of Luther M. Walter and Patrick H. Joyce, receivers for the railroad, who petitioned Judge Woodward to prevent strike rioters from hampering interstate commerce. The order instructed United States Marshal John J. Farrell here to furnish convoys for rolling stock of the railroad that enters the Archer-Daniels-Midland company grounds.

It is not ordinary for a federal judge to issue orders to a marshal in another federal district. Judge Woodward acted by virtue of his jurisdiction over all property of the railroad, which is being reorganized under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act.

Demand Union Recognition.

The millers' strike was called by members of the Flour, Feed, Cereal, and Elevators Workers' union, who demanded union recognition and salary adjustments. Today's agreement was worked out in conferences attended by Robert Mythen, federal conciliator; Gov. Hjalmar Petersen, and Shreve Archer, president of the company.

In it the company officials agree to meet at any time with elected representatives of employés, thus recognizing the right of collective bargaining. The men will return to work and then come to final agreement with the employers.

Mythen announced that similar proposals will be extended to the employés of other companies who struck, and declared that he is optimistic as to the outcome.

Today's accord will mean the disbanding of 400 National Guardsmen, mobilized by Gov. Petersen earlier this week, and who remained in their armories here and in St. Paul subject to call in the event of recurrence of previous violence. The mobilization call came after instances of gunplay and the injury of several persons.

There were minor disturbances today in the month old strike of wholesale grocery truck drivers.

BRIDGE IS DELAYED AS BUILDERS REFUSE TO RECOGNIZE UNION

Hennepin, Ill., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Failure to arrive at a compromise agreement in a conference of state officials and representatives of the Wisconsin Bridge and Iron company, called to settle labor troubles, resulted today in the continued suspension of work on the state highway bridge across the Illinois river here.

State highway officials announced they would meet with the union leaders, representatives of the bridge company, Putnam county officials, and possibly Gov. Henry Horner at Springfield Monday.

Representatives of the bridge company said their company would agree to the payment of union wages but would not recognize the union.

"Sherif Lawrence Ellena and I have talked with the office of Gov. Horner on the trouble," Lloyd J. Scriven, state's attorney, said. "As I see it the state administration will either force recognition of the unions—all honest workmen, not radicals—or allow the company to go on under nonunion conditions."

HOLD 4 YOUTHS IN STRIPPING OF SIX AUTOMOBILES

Four young men were in cells at the Homewood county highway police station last night, charged with the theft and partial dismantling of six automobiles in the last four days. They are William Carl, 17 years old, who lives on a farm near Mateson; Burl Bottorf, 30, of 156th street and Robey avenue, Harvey; Carl Foearete, 19, of 2304 Butler street, Chicago Heights; and Cecil Centers, 530 East 175th street, East Hazelcrest.

The four were captured by Lieut. Fred Mulhausen, who trapped Carl in a stolen car on his farm. Carl confessed and named his confederates.

The Carl farm was used as a dismantling station. After horns, mirrors, radiators, radios, and other easily removable parts had been taken, Carl said he and his partners drove the stolen automobiles in search of new cars to steal, eventually abandoning them.

13.4 PCT. OF '35 TAX LEVY IS PAID AS DEADLINE NEARS

County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill announced yesterday that up to Thursday night $18,747,817 in 1935 real estate taxes had been collected, 13.4 per cent of the total levy of $138,986,059. Personal property collections totaled $4,333,477, 9.35 per cent of the $46,350,587 levy.

The deadline for the payment of the first instalment of the 1935 real estate taxes and all of the personal property taxes is Monday night. The treasurer's office will be open for collections from 8:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. today, from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. tomorrow, and all day Monday and at night until the last taxpayer is gone. Deadline for payment of the second instalment of the 1935 real estate taxes is Feb. 1, 1937.

COMMUNIST TALK BILLED IN CHURCH STIRS OAK PARK

Red Candidate Due to Appear Tomorrow.

The First Congregational church of Oak Park, it was learned last night, will be host tomorrow to Samuel T. Hammersmark, communist candidate for governor of Illinois. This news caused a considerable amount of comment in Oak Park.

Hammersmark is to deliver an address tomorrow evening before the Colliquium, organization of the young members of the congregation. So far as could be learned, his appearance was not generally advertised. The Rev. Albert Buckner Coe, pastor of the church, assumed a neutral attitude as other residents of the village voiced protests.

"Chance for Information."

"I believe that if the young folks want to get information about communism first hand in the church they should have the chance to do so," the Rev. Mr. Coe said. "I am not a communist, and I know there are none in my church."

According to the Rev. Mr. Coe, Hammersmark is being brought to the church in line with a program arranged by the younger members to have one representative of each political party address them. Apparently no party was excepted, he said.

Women Leaders Opposed.

More emphatic stands were taken by Oak Park women who opposed the communist candidate's appearance. Among them were Mrs. Martin McGrath, wife of Judge McGrath of the Oak Park Municipal court, and Mrs. John K. Russell of 317 South Oak Park avenue. Mrs. Russell, leader of THE VOLUNTEERS in the west suburbs, is a daughter-in-law of John K. Russell Sr., founder of the church.

"I cannot understand how this address was arranged," said Mrs. McGrath. "It is a desecration of the church for such a man to appear before our congregation. There will only be bitter feeling all around.

"I feel this incident will prove to the public that communism is really here—strong enough to reach even into our churches."

Predicts Widespread Protest.

Mrs. Russell said she was surprised to hear that a communist candidate should be permitted to speak in a church.

"I never thought the time would come when we should see a man pledged to communist principles speak in the church," she said. "A lot of us are indignant. More will feel the same way when they learn about it."

A tea will be served at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow preceding Hammersmark's address, according to present plans.

REGISTER VOTERS TODAY AT POLLS IN COUNTY TOWNS

Citizens Will Sign Lists in 81 Communities.

Preparations were completed by County Clerk Flynn last night for the registration today, from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., of voters in eighty-one towns, cities, and villages in Cook county which are outside the jurisdiction of the Chicago election board and not under the new permanent registration system.

Judges and clerks of election in the 371 precincts in this territory have obtained their supplies and all those who intend to vote on Nov. 3 must register today or on Oct. 6, the second and final registration day for all voters in the county.

Heavy Registration Expected.

Clerk Flynn expects a heavy registration, commensurate with the record turned out in Chicago precincts last Saturday. The 1932 registration in the country towns was 218,000; in 1934, for the "off year" election, it was 174,000. Mr. Flynn believes that this year's registration, during the two days, will total almost 250,000.

Meanwhile, voters in Chicago and the nine suburbs under the election board's jurisdiction may have their permanent registrations taken today in the board's office on the third floor of the city hall from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. The suburbs are Berwyn, Cicero, Chicago Heights, Elmwood Park, Evergreen Park, Harvey, Morton Grove, Stickney, and Summit.

Beginning Monday and continuing through next Friday, the hours for registration in the city hall will be from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Permanent registration in the board office will close on Oct. 5, one week from next Monday. The following day, Oct. 6, will be the final precinct registration day. Persons not registered by that date cannot vote on Nov. 3.

Registration Places Today.

The country registration today will be held in precincts in the following 81 communities:

Alsip.	Markham.
Arlington Heights.	Matteson.

Only those who are absent from the county or are too ill to go to the polls may register by mail, Flynn said. They may obtain affidavits from his office and return them, properly filled out, on or before Oct. 5. None will be accepted after that date.

Civic organizations and service clubs in the country territory have been campaigning for a large registration much in the manner of the nonpartisan committee which has been functioning in Chicago and the election board cities.

Vote Registration

The record of voters' registration at the election board offices on the third floor of the city hall follows:

Yesterday's registration	4,199
Previous registration	154,270
Total at city hall	158,469

This figure, added to the precinct registration of 1,019,332 last Saturday, gives a total registration so far of 1,177,801.

CHARGE COERCION USED IN NO MAN'S LAND DRY BATTLE

Charges of fraud and intimidation of business men in No Man's Land, the strip of territory between Wilmette and Kenilworth, were made yesterday before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, where a petition for an election to incorporate the area as a village is pending. The charges were made by Attorney A. A. Pantelis, who represents the liquor interests in the area.

These interests are seeking the incorporation to allow the sale of liquor. Twenty-three residents signed the original petition for the election on Oct. 2. Nine of these persons have since withdrawn their names, leaving a total of 14 signers, one less than the required 15.

Referring to real estate owners and a "protect our home" group in the area, Pantelis declared: "They have used duress and fraud in getting these names withdrawn. They told these people their businesses will be boycotted, that they will be driven into the lake."

Attorney E. W. Roemer, representing real estate interests, objected to Pantelis' statements. Judge Jarecki continued the hearing to Monday and issued subpenas for the nine persons who withdrew their names to testify.

WRITING EXPERT TELLS EVIDENCE OF BALLOT FRAUD

Evidence of fraud in the marks on 92 Democratic ballots counted in the Fourth precinct of the Twentieth ward in the April primary was given yesterday by Mrs. Katherine Keeler, handwriting expert, before County Judge Jarecki. Five women who served as election officials in the precinct polling place are on trial on contempt of court charges arising out of irregularities in the vote canvass.

Mrs. Keeler said that there were embossings and indentations on the ballots, apparently caused by their being marked while lying in a pile, which would not be likely if they were filled out by individual voters.

The defendants in the case are Mrs. Edna Sulli, 1219 South Damen avenue, and Miss Dorothy Berger, 1038 South Damen avenue, Democratic judges; Mrs. Rose Amore, 1043 South Winchester avenue, Republican judge; Miss Nancy Delmonaco, 1038 South Winchester avenue, Democratic clerk, and Miss Katie Paldo, 1933 Taylor street, Republican clerk.

The hearing was continued to Monday after Mrs. Keeler's testimony.

SAVE WOMAN'S HOME FROM FIRE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Firemen called by neighbors to a fire at the home of Mrs. Louis Taylor, 1021 North Waverly place, today found Mrs. Taylor at home unaware that her house was on fire. The flames were confined to the roof and third floor. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

VOLUNTEER FIGHT WINS SUPPORT OF COLORED EDITOR

Robert S. Abbott Joins to Aid Landon.

Coöperation in the campaign THE VOLUNTEERS are making for Landon and Knox from the Chicago Defender, leading newspaper devoted to the interests of colored citizens, was offered yesterday by Robert S. Abbott, founder and editor of the influential journal.

Editor Abbott and his wife manifested their interest in THE VOLUNTEER movement by visiting headquarters and signing membership cards. After a tour around the busy offices, Mr. Abbott complimented the organization and made his offer of coöperation.

"Whoever thought of the organization of THE VOLUNTEERS performed a notable service," he said. "We will be glad to coöperate in every way possible and we will establish a VOLUNTEER recruiting station in the offices of our paper at 3435 South Indiana avenue."

VOLUNTEER enrollments in the south side wards where the Defender has a large circulation are already of impressive proportions. Headquarters said that more than 4,000 members have been signed up in the 2d, 3d, and 4th wards.

Ask Return of Signed Cards.

Headquarters made a request yesterday of all persons who have been recruiting VOLUNTEERS to send cards of new members to headquarters on the 17th floor of Tribune Tower as rapidly as possible. It is planned to issue new literature and other information to members and it is desired that this material be placed in the hands of members as quickly as possible.

Reports of VOLUNTEER activities outside the city continued to reach headquarters. One report attracted special attention. It was made by Mrs. R. E. Poindexter of Benton, Franklin county, whose Republican activities date back to 1888 and the Harrison-Cleveland campaign. In that campaign Mrs. Poindexter established and directed the first Republican Glee club in the history of Illinois.

Mrs. Poindexter has been working just as hard for the Landon-Knox ticket in 1936 and as proof sent in more than 500 VOLUNTEER pledge cards.

Florida Editor Helps.

From Jacksonville, Fla., generally considered Democratic territory, came word that W. G. Underwood, editor of the Florida Beacon, is coöperating in the establishment of VOLUNTEER units in and around Jacksonville.

The Downers Grove unit, Mrs. Ernest Fisher, chairman, is growing, with 600 memberships thus far.

Whiteside county sent a delegation to Miss De Young's office, headed by Mrs. O. J. Chamberlain of Lyndon; Mrs. Harry Bent, Morrison; Mrs. Myron Rogers, Morrison, and Mrs. H. L. Pettitt, Morrison, with 750 VOLUNTEER pledge cards signed in the county.

In Chicago, at a Thirty-ninth ward meeting held in the home of Mrs. Lila Travis, 4031 North Keeler avenue, a group of women pledged themselves to obtain 500 VOLUNTEER memberships in the ward within the next two weeks.

PROSPERITY IN UTAH TRACED TO NEW DEAL CASH

110 Millions Given State in Three Years.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Prosperity, credited widely to the New Deal, is making Utah safe for Roosevelt on Nov. 3.

There seems to be little doubt that the President will carry the state with its 4 electoral votes, but probably by nothing like the 32,000 plurality he won here in 1932. The Republican leaders admit they are up against a hard fight to reclaim the state, though they feel confident of electing the Republican candidate for governor, Ray E. Dillman, because of a Democratic party split on this office.

Conservative Democrats are supporting Gov. Henry H. Blood, regular Democratic nominee for reëlection, while the radically minded Democrats are flocking to Harman W. Peery, Democratic mayor of Ogden, who is an independent candidate.

Roosevelt Lead 2 to 1.

The Salt Lake Tribune is conducting a straw vote of one-fourth of the registered voters. With about 8,500 ballots so far tabulated, Roosevelt leads Landon more than 2 to 1, the Roosevelt vote being 5,753; Landon, 2,722. On governor, Dillman (Republican) leads 36 per cent, Peery (Ind.) has 34 per cent, and Gov. Blood trails with 29 per cent.

Utah is feeling prosperous for the first time in years. All classes of the population are feeling it. Employment has increased to such an extent that there are only 10,000 on the WPA rolls today. And the Democratic leaders find little difficulty in persuading the people that Mr. Roosevelt is the architect of their improved circumstances.

Principal cause of the better times is the 110 million dollars the New Deal has poured into this state of half a million people in three years. In federal income taxes the Utahans paid less than 2 millions last year.

Prosperity Artificial.

Republicans remind the electorate that prosperity produced by such distribution of government funds is artificial and must be paid for some time in increased taxes that will bear heavily on the wage earner. But there is little evidence that such arguments are exerting any widespread influence except among business men who, here as elsewhere, are overwhelmingly against the New Deal.

Utah, which suffered little from the drouth, also is benefiting from the high prices of farm products resulting from the drouth in other states. Farmers are getting the highest prices in years and are feeling well satisfied with everything, including the New Deal.

The growers of sugar beets, in which Utah is a leading state, received AAA subsidies. Crop farmers generally are Democratic this year, the live stock men Republican.

Labor is overwhelmingly pro-Roosevelt. In Ogden, principal industrial community, the newspaper poll shows Roosevelt leading Landon 3 to 1. In the coal mining districts the President is running 4 to 1. The coal miners are grateful for the New Deal labor legislation which enabled them to force unionization of coal fields theretofore nonunion. Eventually they won a wage raise.

Silver Policy Helps.

A big factor in the Roosevelt popularity in this mining state is the silver subsidy and other phases of the New Deal monetary policy. The rise of the prices of copper, lead, and zinc is widely attributed to the artificial manipulation of the price of silver upward by the silver purchase legislation, although mine owners admit that a more potent influence was the destruction of the gold standard and the devaluation of the dollar.

Not that the mine owners are going to support Mr. Roosevelt because of the policies. They are quite as numerously and as vigorously opposed to him as any other group of business men for the general reason that they fear his economic program is heading the country for disaster and for the special reason that the recently enacted prohibitive tax on undivided profits has dealt a staggering blow to mining in which the plowing back of profits is essential to extensive operations.

It is the mine employés whose support has been won by the Roosevelt monetary policies, particularly the silver subsidy, which is generally credited by the workers with the stimulation of mining with the consequent increase of employment.

Want Safe Silver Money.

The fact is that the silver subsidy is popular in Utah with all classes and would assure the President well nigh universal support were this factor not outweighed by the distrust and fear with which the conservatively minded view the continued colossal deficits, the waste in expenditures, and the warfare on business and the general collectivist trend of the Roosevelt administration.

The Utah mine owners and merchants want silver raised to the dignity of money, but they want it done under a safer régime than the New Deal. The Landon gold telegram to the Cleveland convention fell like a wet blanket on Utah and is cited by Republican leaders as a major disadvantage of the Landon candidacy in this state.

Republican leaders in the east are known to regard Utah as reasonably safe for Landon, this opinion being based on information that the Mormon church is swinging its influence against Mr. Roosevelt. Heber J. Grant, president of the church, is unquestionably opposed to the New Deal, although he is reputedly a Democrat. It is a question, however, how far the church hierarchy will be disposed to go to defeat Mr. Roosevelt and to what extent it could deliver the church vote anyway.

It is believed to be not without significance that for some months Mormon officials and Mormon organs have been dwelling on the sacredness of the constitution and the Supreme court, which the New Dealers from the President down are not renowned for venerating. The Deseret News, Mormon daily, not long ago placed at its masthead the following quotation from the Mormon prophet, Joseph Smith:

"The constitution of the United States is a glorious standard; it is founded in the wisdom of God. It is a heavenly banner; it is, to all those who are privileged with the sweets of liberty, like the cooling shades and refreshing waters of a great rock in a weary and thirsty land. It is like a great tree, under whose branches men from every clime can be shielded from the burning rays of the sun."

President Grant read this quotation recently to a meeting of Boy Scouts and he added the comment: "Some men are ridiculing today the idea that old men, old fossils, so to speak, are on the Supreme court bench. Well, I do not believe any member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints can consistently do that."

Church Rejects Dole.

The church has flatly rejected the institution of the dole as developed by the New Deal. It decreed that Mormons should be taken off the relief rolls and cared for by the church. The hierarchy had come to the conclusion that the New Deal relief scheme was breeding idlers. What the church proposed to do was to weed out the idlers of its faith. In explanation of the church viewpoint the Deseret News printed the following statement:

"Brigham Young once said in reference to giving of charity:

"'My experience has taught me, and it has become a principle with me, that it is never any benefit to give out and out to a man or woman money, food, clothing, or anything else if they are able bodied and can work and earn what they need, when there is anything on earth for them to do. This is my principle and I try to act act upon it. To pursue a contrary course would ruin any community in the world and make them idlers.'

"History records that this was not only the policy but the practice of Brigham Young, and it is a restoration of this ideal that prompts the church leaders today in their new relief efforts."

Warns Against Communism.

In another organ, Improvement Era, the church has moved in no uncertain manner to check the growth of communism in its ranks. A "warning to church members" says:

"With great regret we learn from credible sources, governmental and others, that a few church members are joining directly or indirectly the communists and are taking part in their activities.

"The church does not interfere and has no intention of trying to interfere with the fullest and freest exercise of the political franchise of its members, under and within our constitution.

"But communism is not a political portion nor a political plan under our constitution; it is a system of government that is the opposite of our constitutional government, and it would be necessary to destroy our government before communism could be set up in the United States."

Mrs. Roosevelt Leaves Capital for Hyde Park

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been confined to her room at the White House for more than a week with the grippe, was sufficiently recovered today to leave for Hyde Park, N. Y., to join the President at their home. Mrs. Roosevelt expects to be inactive for a week or so before resuming her personal engagements.

First New Street Sign Up at Michigan and Monroe

The park district yesterday began putting up new street name signs on its 200 miles of drives. The first was put up at Monroe street and Michigan avenue. The signs are white against a brown background. All of the signs are to be in place within thirty days, said Otto K. Jelinek, traffic engineer of the park district.

WOODRING GIVEN RECESS POST AS WAR SECRETARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt announced the recess appointment of Acting Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Secretary George H. Dern of Utah. Under federal law the vacancy must be filled within thirty days.

The recess appointment does not mean that Woodring will permanently hold the cabinet post, as Mr. Roosevelt may submit the name of a permanent secretary early in the next session of congress.

Woodring, who was Gov. Alf M. Landon's predecessor in office in Kansas, has been acting as head of the department since Dern died a month ago.

Prominently mentioned for the permanent position are Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana and Frank Murphy, United States commissioner to the Philippines, who is running on the Democratic ticket for governor of Michigan. If Murphy wins in Michigan, McNutt is expected to have a clear road to the cabinet.

Under the laws governing appointments of officials during recesses of congress, they may hold office and draw salaries until congress again meets, but their service and pay thereafter awaits approval of their appointments by the senate.

WPA Seeks to Get Its Money Back from Town

Newark, N. J., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The town of Kearny, N. J., was notified today by William H. J. Ely, state WPA administrator here, that it would have to reimburse the WPA for $11,556.43 spent on repair and renovation work during the last year for the West Hudson hospital there. The project had been almost completed when it was found the institution was not public property.

LANDON MOVES INTO WISCONSIN ON 2 DAY DRIVE

G. O. P. Forecasts Victory in Minnesota.

LANDON ON RADIO.
Gov. Alf M. Landon's address from Milwaukee will be heard over station WMAQ at 9:30 o'clock this evening.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.] Gov. Alf M. Landon arrived in Oshkosh tonight after a day of rear platform campaigning from Minneapolis in which he spoke at seven Wisconsin cities and was greeted by about 300,000 people. The governor enjoyed an evening football game here between the Oshkosh and Milwaukee Technical High schools.

He was to spend the night here and travel to Milwaukee tomorrow, speaking at Fond du Lac, Watertown, Madison, and Waukesha on the way. Tomorrow evening he will give one of his major campaign addresses in Milwaukee on the subject of social security.

The governor found Wisconsin in friendly mood. Crowds of five thousand and upwards met him at the station stops from Minneapolis, where he spoke last night on a subject close to the interests of the Wisconsin farmers, that of the Canadian reciprocity treaty. They gave him roses, sunflowers, and cheese as he journeyed through the state, and met him with bands and parades of welcome.

Talks on Conservation.

The reciprocal trade agreements and the subject of conservation formed the text of the governor's talks today. He talked with Wisconsin political leaders on the train and was told that he had a fighting chance of carrying this state. Alexander Wiley of Chippewa Falls, Republican candidate for governor, traveled with the presidential nominee and introduced him to the people. He will also present him to the Milwaukee audience tomorrow night.

"Alf Landon is a man just like ourselves," Mr. Wiley told the Wisconsin folk. "He is a man of the common people. And he knows the kind of deal we have been getting from the present administration."

"With your typically energetic spirit you people of Wisconsin have tackled effectively your conservation problem," Mr. Landon said. "Your method of conserving timber by methods of taxation was a step forward. It is heartening to discover in this state the first and largest project which demonstrates practical conservation methods as a correction method of early mistakes in land use. The work of your state planning commission has not alone been an inspiration to other states. It is a concrete demonstration of the soundness of the conservation policies that are foundation stones of our Republican platform.

Save Timber and Game.

"In Wisconsin you are maintaining your lakes and streams and restoring your forests not only to safeguard your timber, but to preserve wild life and those recreational advantages which you so generously share, for vacation purposes, with the people from other states.

"Conservation is a subject as close to my heart as it is to yours. Wisconsin has never shown its leadership better than in planning methods for retrieving its natural and wild life resources. Your farmers also have been among the first to appreciate the importance of preserving soil fertility.

"Your state university too has been a leader in providing technically trained men who best know how to restore a normal population of upland game, fish, birds, wild life, and fur bearing animals.

"Human conservation as well as conservation of natural resources has been your objective. You have given nature a chance to restore what man has exhausted.

"Land planning is insuring the future of your dairy and general farming. Timber restoration is protecting your other great industries. You have been doing a fine work in maintaining the things on which Wisconsin prosperity basically rests.

"Our Republican platform insures the nation the successful completion of such a conservation program as your state has already so effectively launched."

The governor's trip through Minnesota and his visit with Republican leaders in Minneapolis has left a definite expectation of Republican victory in that state in November. The vitality of the Republican organization was demonstrated in the night rally, which was one of the best that Landon has had.

Expect Minnesota Victory.

The labor situation in Minnesota, while possibly having a bad effect on some of the state and congressional candidates, may react to the benefit of the Republican national ticket. The Farmer-Labor party is said to be disorganized and the Republicans are aroused as they have not been in six years. They expect to carry the state for Landon by a minimum of 40,000.

John B. Chapple, Ashland editor and former Republican candidate for governor, had this to say of the Landon speech in Minneapolis and its effects in Wisconsin: "There has been a very marked swing to Landon all over Wisconsin in recent weeks, due in greater part to the antagonism among Wisconsin farmers to the Canadian reciprocal trade agreement as it has worked out, particularly in relation to the butter and cheese provisions.

"Even as late as two weeks ago I still felt that Roosevelt might have a slight edge. But now I am firmly convinced, after a county to county survey, and this survey included Milwaukee county, that Landon is at least a 6 to 5 choice in Wisconsin."

10,000 Out at Eau Claire.

Gov. Landon's progress through the state was attended by large and interested crowds. Hundreds came out as his train passed slowly through the smaller stations to wave at the governor. At Eau Claire, where the first stop was made, the crowd at the station was estimated at 10,000 by the police there.

"It has been a joy to me today to travel through this fine Wisconsin dairy country," said the governor. "We have had a dairy development in Kansas, of which we are properly proud. A good part of it I admit frankly came from our importation of good Wisconsin breeding stock."

"There is reason why we in Kansas share the concern Wisconsin feels over the way the present administration has sold the dairy and live stock industries literally down the river. It was bad enough for the administration agricultural program to lose us our foreign markets for meat and dairy products. But it was nothing short of economic crime for its ill advised system of reciprocal trade treaties to toss away our home markets like so much rubbish.

State Handed "a Package."

"Last night at Minneapolis I cited figures to show what had happened to the domestic market for American cheese, of which Wisconsin produces a larger share than any other state. These trade agreements on cheese have handed your state a package.

"I want to stress again today also the pledges of our party—I quote—'to impose effective quarantine against imported live stock, dairy and other farm products from countries which do not impose health and sanitary regulations fully equal to those required of our own producers.

"I admit frankly that in the past our party has overlooked this point. Today, however, we see the necessity of it. Our opponents, in contrast, have yet to give any indication of their realization of its importance. High standards of sanitation are required in the production of dairy and meat products in this country for the benefit of the American consumers. Our consuming public is entitled to the same protection on such products brought in from abroad.

A Leader in Quality.

"The American dairy farmer has been a leader in producing high quality sanitary products. He is entitled to proper protection for his efforts in protecting the health of consumers.

"You Badgers and we Jayhawkers know the answer to the handicap under which present administration policies have placed our farmers. And we also know the answer to the appalling waste of federal funds that is now going on. What we need is more of that sane management for which the farmers of this state of Wisconsin are famous. They are as determined on the one hand that not a single necessary duty shall be unperformed as they are on the other that not one cent shall be wasted in doing it.

"Your Wisconsin type of management of an individual farm or home appeals to me as a good type of management for the nation. It is the type of management to which our Republican platform pledges itself. It is the type of administration of our national affairs which must be restored if our Democracy is to survive."

Expert Confers with Him.

William Moscrip, for many years president of the Minnesota Live Stock Breeders association and also president of the Twin Cities Milk Producers association, said today after a talk with Gov. Landon in Minneapolis last night:

"He is the most amazing personality I have ever met, with an understanding of the farm problem such as I was not prepared to expect in any one not actually farming in these times." Mr. Moscrop in 1929 declined appointment by President Hoover to the federal farm board.

"Landon is just the type of man we need to reëstablish some of the things we've got to have in government," he said. "He is inspiring. It was a remarkable experience for me.

"Landon is right on every point. His speeches at Des Moines and here covered all the major questions involved in this whole farm problem. I told the governor that there really was no need for me to take up his time talking to him. He had answered all my questions before I could ask them."

Sincere About Pledges.

"He is sincere when he says that the pledges contained in the farm plank of the Republican platform will be kept. Two of those sections are absolutely essential to the live stock and dairying interests. He sees the logic and the fairness of what is needed and pledged. He amazed me with his grasp of the needs of agriculture in all its phases. He's got it all."

"His knowledge assures the dairymen and live stock men that they will be protected against dangers that arise when other farmers think they would like to try out dairying or the live stock game. A lot of them do, and they only make things worse for all of us, including themselves."

CAUGHT WITH OPIUM STOCK.
Lee Moy Duck, 54 years old, 2240 Wentworth avenue, a Chinese dope seller, was arrested yesterday. Opium valued at $10,000 was found in his possession.

Blind Husband Complains; Wife's Friend Fined $200

Leo Weber, 45 years old, 2126 Fremont street, who has been blind for three years, complained yesterday to Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Town Hall court that his wife and Edward Primm, 40 years old, 948 Lill avenue, a WPA worker, have been seeing each other frequently during the last year. Judge Graber fined Primm $200 on a disorderly conduct charge. Mrs. Weber said she has separated from her husband.

LANDON HOLDS 3 TO 2 LEAD IN DIGEST'S POLL

503,509 Ballots Counted from 21 States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican presidential candidate, maintained a lead of more than 3 to 2 over President Roosevelt, with a total of 503,509 votes from 21 states counted, in the fourth weekly announcement of the Literary Digest poll, released today.

Gov. Landon is shown receiving 293,972 votes to 185,495 for President Roosevelt, with 19,632 going to Lemke and the remainder divided among minor candidates.

Returns tabulated from 21 states so far give Gov. Landon a total of 214 electoral votes, 266 being required for election, and President Roosevelt 92.

Pivotal States Not Included.

The eight states carried by Roosevelt in the early returns are all in the south, where he is leading overwhelmingly.

The thirteen states giving Gov. Landon 214 electoral votes in the early returns do not include the pivotal states of Illinois and Michigan, the borderline states of Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland, and West Virginia, nor the eastern normally Republican states of New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Delaware.

Gov. Landon leads in five of the eight states from which returns are included for the first time in this week's announcement, these being his home state of Kansas, California, Colorado, Nebraska, and North Dakota.

Lemke's Percentage Declines.

Roosevelt leads in Alabama, Georgia, and Florida, which are included for the first time this week.

The percentage of the total vote going to Representative William Lemke of North Dakota, the Union party candidate, continues to decline and is now below 4 per cent, the magazine announces. His largest state ratio is in Minnesota, where it is less than 10 per cent. An analysis of how the same voters voted in 1932 shows that Lemke is taking 12,993 from the Democrats to 3,790 from the Republicans.

The analysis also shows that Gov. Landon has received a total of 53,071 votes from 1932 Roosevelt supporters to 28,149 received by Roosevelt from 1932 Hoover supporters. Thus the trend in vote shifting is almost 2 to 1 in Gov. Landon's favor.

How Candidates Stand.

The standing of the three principal candidates by states in the Digest poll to date is shown by the following table:

State—	Landon.	Roosevelt.	Lemke.
Alabama	527	2,247	9
Arkansas	1,391	4,342	64
California	17,006	16,018	1,053
Colorado	844	543	31
Florida	1,525	2,548	45
Georgia	927	4,520	12
Indiana	26,290	17,087	1,368
Iowa	19,618	11,843	1,738
Kansas	1,112	884	33
Louisiana	993	2,878	216
Maine	8,649	3,915	318
Minnesota	18,803	12,899	3,337
Mississippi	418	3,256	18
Nebraska	1,675	1,372	52
New Jersey	38,706	19,709	1,751
New York	63,897	22,409	3,984
North Dakota	367	306	56
Ohio	34,311	20,777	3,443
Oklahoma	4,501	5,690	69
Pennsylvania	48,802	20,630	1,876
Texas	3,619	11,582	124
Totals	293,972	185,495	19,632

"For the first time, the west appears, represented by California and Colorado," the magazine states.

1,426 Ballots from Colorado.

"Only 1,426 ballots have trickled in from Colorado, and Landon gets 844 of these, Roosevelt 543. In the gold state, the race is close. With the score at 17,006 votes to 16,018, the elephant is ahead of the donkey by considerably less than the length of its trunk.

"Ever since the 1916 campaign, California has been a 'pivotal state.' In 1920, it reverted to Republicanism by an almost three to one margin.

"In 1924 veteran politicians shook their heads when the state gave Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin 300,000 more votes than it gave John W. Davis—and still remained in the Republican column. In the last election it gave Roosevelt almost as big a plurality as it had given Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Both Parties Claim State.

"This year Democrats and Republicans alike claim California. In the mid-term elections of 1934 Frank Merriam, Republican, beat Upton [End Poverty in California] Sinclair, the Democratic candidate, by a margin of 259,000 votes and won the governorship.

"Three new farm states also appear in the poll this week, Landon's own Kansas being one of them. The Sunflower state goes to its favorite son by a score of 1,112 to 884, and he takes Nebraska and North Dakota by comparable margins.

"In Nebraska the score stands: Landon, 1,675; Roosevelt, 1,372.

"More amazing, the home bailiwick of William Lemke gives only 56 votes, 7 per cent of its total, to the Union party candidate. This is another doubtful state which the Republicans call 'sure,' and the Democrats 'safe.'

"In 1920 it went to Harding by a four-to-one margin. In 1924 Coolidge had a meager 5,000 plurality over La Follette, while Davis lagged 'way behind.' Hoover won the state by a substantial margin over Smith in 1928.

"Then, in 1932, North Dakota voters flocked to Roosevelt along with the rest of the middle west. Republicans say the political drift has been back to their side during the last four years, but patently the fight will be close."

HAMILTON IS RAISING FASCIST ISSUE IN U. S., SAYS NORMAN THOMAS

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the presidency, declared today that John Hamilton, Republican campaign manager, had brought the Fascist issue into the campaign by attacking David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, for aiding the radical Spanish government against the rebels.

"John Hamilton, who frequently acts as though he were the Republican candidate for the presidency and not the campaign manager," said Thomas, "has brought the Fascist issue into American politics in a left-handed fashion.

"He thinks that he is bringing the communist issue before the public when he demands that President Roosevelt repudiate, as a Democratic elector, David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

"He charges that Mr. Dubinsky was a Socialist and is aiding communists today. In point of fact, Mr. Dubinsky was a Socialist and now is raising in his own union, with the cooperation of Socialists and other unionists, a fund for the Spanish Red Cross, his union having previously sent $5,000 to help the Spanish government through the International Federation of Trade Unions, which is not a communist body."

GIRL, 10, BARES BIRTHDAY NOTE FROM CANDIDATE

Chatham, N. J., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Lucille Smith, 10, today proudly made public some intimate correspondence between herself and Alfred M. Landon.

She wrote on Sept. 13:

"Hon. Alf M. Landon: Today is my tenth birthday. I went to Mr. Kennedy's [we call him papa John]. He sent you the letter about the sunflowers in Hakettstown. I call him my twin. You see we were born the same day but in different years of course.

"My mother and daddy are voting for you and so are most of the people around here and so would I and my playmates if we were old enough. Best wishes for your election. Sincerely, L. S."

This is what he replied Sept. 19:

"My dear Lucille: I was happy to receive your letter written to me on your tenth birthday. I am always glad to hear from my young friends. It is pleasing to know that your mother and father are going to vote for me. I trust all your days may be happy ones and feel sure that you will grow into a useful woman.

"Very truly yours,

"ALF M. LANDON, Governor."

AL SMITH GETS CURT THANK YOU FROM PRESIDENT

Secretary Acknowledges Radio Surrender.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Twelve words as chilly as autumn dawns along the Palisades of the Hudson were President Roosevelt's answer today to the message last night of his most bitter political enemy, Alfred E. Smith, yielding time on the air to "My old potato" on Oct. 1.

Mr. Roosevelt did not acknowledge the surrender of half an hour by a personal message to the man he twice nominated at Democratic conventions—at Madison Square Garden in 1924 and Houston in 1928. Instead the curt wire, although addressed to the tower office of the "Hon. Alfred E. Smith" in New York's Empire State building, bore the signature of Marvin H. McIntyre, assistant White House secretary.

"The President asks me to thank you very much for your telegram," it read.

Smith Surrender Has Barbs.

Smith's surrender was not without barbs. It carried the implication that Mr. Roosevelt had sought to blanket him by speaking from 9 to 9:30 p. m. at Pittsburgh next Thursday when Smith had previously concluded negotiations to make an address that evening from 9 to 10 o'clock against the New Deal. The message also carried the implication that if Smith persisted in holding on to his rightful time the President would be deprived of a nation-wide audience.

"In deference to the high office you hold, I do not desire to interfere with your having a nation-wide audience," Smith wrote last night. "Therefore I have canceled that portion of my contracted period which would conflict with your half hour and shall not begin my address until 9:30 when you will have finished."

Smith is to speak from Carnegie hall in the first of a series of attacks against the man he made governor of New York in 1928. The breach between the two men came shortly thereafter and has widened ever since, except the Democratic face saving meeting at Albany in the 1932 campaign when on a public platform and Smith gave the "My old potato" greeting.

Smith is also to carry his warfare against the New Deal in speeches at Philadelphia and Boston early in October.

Withholds Speaking Dates.

Mr. Roosevelt released the White House telgram at a press conference this morning at which he shied from revealing his stumping plans made at a conference with more than two dozen Democratic leaders yesterday. He said his itineraries will not be released until a day or two before he starts out.

The President has a political speech scheduled before the New York state Democratic convention at Syracuse Tuesday and another at Pittsburgh the following Thursday.

From Pittsburgh he will go to Jersey City for a public building dedication, continue on to a world's series game in New York City and return to Hyde Park for one or two days.

He revealed that he will go from Hyde Park or Washington to Denver for his first avowedly political invasion of the Rocky mountain states. The same trip may bring a speech at Omaha and another in Alf M. Landon's home state, probably Wichita, although Democratic leaders are divided on the advisability of an invasion of the Republican candidate's home country.

Doubtful About West Coast.

He reiterated his statement that he does not believe he will be able to go to the west coast because of the tense international situation. He does not feel, he said, he should get too far from first base.

Later tours will carry Mr. Roosevelt to Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati, Springfield, Mass., and Boston and probably Rochester, Albany and New England cities. Mr. Roosevelt was not prepared to reveal the dates on his swings but said along the routes to be selected he might stop at other cities for "non-political" visits to various federal projects.

One definite political date is a speech in Madison Square Garden on the last Saturday before election day the time and place of the windup of the 1932 campaign. He has a definite engagement to participate in the 50th anniversary of the Statue of Liberty in New York City Oct. 28.

Following his Syracuse speech Mr. Roosevelt will return to Washington for a few hours for a meeting with power officials, the inauguration of the Peru-Ecquador boundary dispute commission's deliberations and his first meeting with the newly created maritime commission to discuss the serious waterfront situation on the west coast.

DECLARES NEW DEAL IS LOSING STRENGTH IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Anti-New Deal sentiment on the part of New York City Democrats because of alleged administration influence in the party split which led to the independent mayoralty candidacy of Joseph V. McKee and the resulting election of Mayor La Guardia in 1933, will cut substantially into the vote here for President Roosevelt, Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., eastern campaign manager for the Landon-Knox ticket, predicted today.

"If Jim Farley could bolt the regular Democratic organization in 1933 there are many old line Democrats who feel they can bolt the Democratic campaign sponsored by President Roosevelt and Mr. Farley in 1936," Mr. Martin declared. "The New York City vote is going to be quite surprising to the New Deal leaders in the greater city."

THOMAS SCORNS NEW DEAL TALK OF 'DEMOCRACY'

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, started a campaign for votes in Illinois yesterday with a luncheon address before the Chicago Bar association in its quarters at 160 North La Salle street.

"It is fantastic hypocrisy for the New Dealers to talk of their love for democracy in view of the record of Democratic governors," he said. "I cite the Hoosier Hitlerism of Gov. McNutt of Indiana, who invented military law without the military in Sullivan county and later in Terre Haute. I draw your attention to the epidemic of floggings and kidnapings in Florida and the revival of the Ku Klux Klan there.

"In eastern Arkansas there is a veritable reign of terror morally endorsed by Senator Joe Robinson, who received the support of President Roosevelt."

Jury Attends Political Rally; New Trial Asked

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Because a Circuit court jury in a murder trial was allowed to attend a Democratic rally in the courthouse here, attorneys for the defendant today argued that he should be granted a new trial. The case is that of Le Roy Hunter, indicted on a charge of murder and convicted of manslaughter. There was no decision today, arguments being continued for a week.

HELD TO GRAND JURY IN KILLING.

Angelo Patti, 31 years old, 1807 North Winchester avenue, was held to the grand jury for manslaughter yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of Kurt Kothe, 13 years old, 2114 Belmont avenue. Kothe was fatally injured during a scuffle on Sept. 15.

IN QUEST OF THE BEAUTIFUL

By CALEB

IF men know what they claim, the earliest plants of the earth were not the most beautiful. Nature was busy and intent with her endless evolving. Life was the thing! Just so plants were hardy and could live tenaciously through changes of climate and conditions; that's what was needed.

Beautiful and delicate flowers were for a day when there was a flowering of appreciation. And the same is true of the other evolving material things which surround us.

At Greenfield Village, Dearborn, or at Botsford Inn, near Detroit, one may see the American kitchen of a hundred years ago. Life in those days was no pink tea affair. A husband of 1836, just in from a hunt in the woods or a stiff brush with the Indians, would look out of place in today's dining room.

Today's housewife would look equally out of place in a kitchen of that period — what with heavy utensils, open fires, corn drying from the ceiling, unpainted wood walls, wide-plank floors, and home-made furniture.

Then the lady of the house did all her own washing and her own baking. She dressed the meat her husband butchered, she churned her butter, and she usually made many of her own and her family's clothes Decoration was no necessity when food and shelter were a problem. It was useless to be arty in the rub-a-dub days of frontier making.

Nowadays, however, the quest for beauty is on. Beauty—simple, satisfying beauty—in the living-room, the dining-room, and the bedroom are already taken for granted. And now great corporations and little ones have spent endless effort in combining utility with beauty in the kitchen!

All this has had its effect on merchandise and merchandising. Once a pot or skillet, a pot holder or a carving knife were implements of utility and no more. Now they have been wooed by the muse of beauty, and have yielded. They have become part of the ensemble—part of the effect of the whole.

A buyer of kitchenware or household utilities must know design and color as well as his confreres in furniture and lingerie know them. Department stores not only try to sense the trend toward beauty—they promote and help it. We move forward by trying to bring new usefulness and new beauty into the most humble and most practical merchandise.

HORNER CHARGED WITH FAILURE TO ASSIST SCHOOLS

Schnackenberg Lashes at Governor's Record.

BY LLOYD WENDT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner and his state Democratic administration have failed to carry out pledges to aid the schools of the state and have piled an unfair and unprecedented tax burden on the people of the state, State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg charged today in a series of addresses in central Illinois. Schnackenberg has been touring the state with Otis F. Glenn, Republican candidate for United States senator, who left the caravan today and will rejoin it in southern Illinois on Monday.

Schnackenberg vigorously assailed Horner's record as governor, citing broken pledges, and accusing the governor of shamming a political fight with "his Chicago bosses" for the gain of downstate votes.

Calls Governor "Hypocrite."

"The governor now poses as a friend of the public schools," said the house minority leader. "The facts in the record demonstrate that he is a hypocrite in his stand on schools. He has expressed more sympathy and shed more tears about the schools, and has done less for them than any governor we have ever had.

"The governor promised to protect the teachers and the school children. Yet he vetoed the teacher tenure bill and he vetoed another measure to raise the qualifications for teachers.

"The governor tells you he has saved you money. How? By collecting, in 1936, a depression year, 152 millions of dollars, 93 millions more than were collected in 1929, a boom year.

"He says he has saved you money. Look at your state property tax bill on the average home before Horner. It totaled about seven dollars. Compare that with the average thirty-six dollars a year you pay under the sales tax. How does that save you money?

"Funds for Pay Roll Army."

"The governor tries to defend his sales tax, not with the plea that it is a fair tax but by saying that the money is well spent. How is it spent? One cent, added on orders from Harry Hopkins, goes to relief, but you don't get it until you put on a property tax. From the rest of the sales tax money come funds to maintain Horner's huge pay roll army."

In the absence of Senator Glenn, Congressman David Hogg of Indiana joined the caravan late today. Arthur J. Bidwill, Republican candidate for state auditor, attacked his Democratic foe for mismanagement and waste of funds in the liquidation of closed banks in the state.

The Glenn caravan today visited Macoupin, Bond, Montgomery, and Christian counties, ending the week's tour in Springfield tonight.

TAKE BODY FROM RIVER.

The body of an unidentified man about 45 years old was taken from the north branch of the Chicago river at Grand avenue yesterday.

CO-OP COMMISSION IS BACK, BUT REPORT WON'T AID CAMPAIGN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The commission which President Roosevelt sent to Europe last June to study the so-called consumers' coöperative, a nonprofit communistic system long advocated by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, has secretly returned to Washington, but it was learned today that their report will not be submitted in time for the President to use it for campaign purposes.

While members of the commission, headed by Jacob Baker, former assistant WPA administrator, refused to discuss their views on the consumer coöperative movement in Russia, Denmark, and other European countries, there were reliable reports that Mr. Roosevelt's original enthusiasm for the subject as a campaign issue has cooled off considerably, due primarily to fear of arousing suspicions among the farmers.

The appointment of the commission on June 23 was announced by the White House with much ballyhoo, and shortly after the members departed the Democratic convention in Philadelphia adopted a plank written by the President, as follows: "We will act to secure to the consumer fair value, honest sales and a decreased spread between the price he pays and the price the producer receives."

This was represented as meaning the consumer coöperative, and the President's advisers said he would make it a major campaign issue in an effort to soften increasing resentment against the rising cost of food which economists attribute to the AAA scarcity policy.

But now the commissioners who made the study say they have not begun the preparation of their report and that it will require "several weeks."

TAXES IN STATE AT RECORD PEAK, BROOKS ASSERTS

Monmouth, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for governor, speaking here tonight charged the New Deal administration at Springfield with levying the heaviest taxes upon the people of Illinois 'n the history of the state.

Earlier in the day he spoke in Warsaw, Hamilton, La Harpe, Biggsville, and Aledo.

Brooks declared here that the present administration had tried "to draw a veil of secrecy" around the manipulation of taxes and said that it is time that the "Illinois tax payer knows what is going on behind that veil and how his tax money is spent."

"In one case alone," he said, "5,000 miles of farm to market roads could have been built with the $21,200,000 that Springfield diverted into other channels from the gas tax that was collected in the last three years from Illinois motorists."

He flayed the administration for trying to "bunk" the tax payers into believing their taxes were reduced when the state property tax was removed.

In reality, Brooks declared, they replaced this tax that annually brought $22,000,000 into the state coffers each year with three new taxes which last year took almost four times as much as the property tax from the tax payers of Illinois.

GLENN PICTURES COMMON SENSE AIMS OF G. O. P.

Appeals to All Americans to Shelve New Deal.

Some of the pros and cons which a Republican national administration would advocate or fight, in the event of its election, were listed yesterday by Otis F. Glenn, Republican nominee for United States senator, who returned to the Chicago headquarters after another week of campaigning downstate.

"The only effective agency to put an end to the New Deal is a Republican administration," Mr. Glenn said. "The Republican party presents to the nation a program which is substantially different from the program and practices of the present administration. It is a common sense program, and one which can be understood by the average citizen.

Pledges Action on Wide Front.

"We appeal to all Americans for support, pledging ourselves that if placed in power our administration will stand for sound money and a stable dollar; against inflation; against repudiation of our national obligations; for drastic economy in federal expenditures; against bureaucracy; for the reduction of the number of government employés, and for the return of the relief administration to the communities where the dependents live."

In the matter of security legislation, Mr. Glenn stated the Republican pros and cons as follows:

"For unemployment insurance and old age pensions, with as much as is reasonably possible, the most thereof to be paid by employers and employés, and as little as possible by the taxpayer. These to be matters for the various states, encouraged by the federal government.

Against Government Ownership.

"The Republicans," Glenn continued, "are for honest observance of civil service laws. They are against excessive and unreasonable governmental inspection, regulation, investigation, and inquisition. They are also against government ownership of business in competition with private enterprise.

"We are against old world entanglements and our participation in the league of nations and the world court. And we are for the upbuilding of our domestic rather than our foreign trade. We are for the abandonment of all thought of a far-flung empire but we are for the cultivation of the great South American territory as the most valuable region in which to expand the trade of the United States.

Urges Rights for Labor.

"We are also for the steady and substantial improvement in the conditions of those who labor and for the right of labor to organize unhampered by the domination of employers or exploiters."

In other pros and cons in his statement, Mr. Glenn declared that the Republicans are "for the continued exercise, without limitation, of the authority of the United States Supreme court."

ELECTION NOTE: FDR IN FLAG CODE MEANS 'GOING TO DRYDOCK'

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Searching through the international code of flag signals employed by all navies and merchant marine fleets in the world, Commander Eugene F. McDonald of Chicago, president of the Zenith Radio corporation, found that the initials of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and of Gov. Alfred M. Landon stand for something in the code. He revealed their meaning at a meeting of directors of the Radio Manufacturers' association here today.

The President's initials, FDR, mean in the flag code:

"I must go into dry dock."

Gov. Landon's initials, AML, mean:

"I am adjusting compasses."

HORNER CHARGES TRIBUNE WANTS TO "RUN ILLINOIS"

Brooks Is Candidate of Paper, He Says.

Belvidere, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner, in a reëlection campaign speech here today, attacked THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, asserting the newspaper wants to "run the state of Illinois." The governor said that Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for governor, is THE TRIBUNE candidate, "the creation of this metropolitan newspaper which is trying to run everything."

"I would like the support of THE TRIBUNE," Gov. Horner said, "but I wouldn't want it if it meant I would be only a fountain pen for that newspaper. No newspaper has the right to express political opinions in news columns. The people are entitled to the facts."

Earlier in the day the governor spoke at De Kalb. Tonight he went to Chicago to observe Yom Kippur.

Charges Pension Delay.

In addressing a crowd of 500 persons at De Kalb Gov. Horner declared that Republican counties in Illinois are holding back old age pension applications to discredit the present state administration.

"My opponents are trying to destroy everything decent in this state in their anxiety to attain office," the governor declared.

"In De Kalb county, 773 pension applications were filed, but only 360 have been forwarded to Springfield. If the officials won't do the job here, we'll come up from Springfield and take charge."

Figures for 10 Counties.

The governor is citing old age pension application figures in all counties where he speaks. These figures, for ten counties, are:

County	Applications Filed.	Applications forwarded to Springfield.
Boone	312	76
Champaign	1,319	1,113
De Kalb	773	360
De Witt	719	312
Du Page	1,446	230
Grundy	423	167
Jo Daviess	387	230
Kane	1,874	740
Kankakee	1,203	940
Logan	1,458	392
Totals	9,014	4,258

These figures, the governor explained, are as of Sept. 19.

G. O. P. SPEAKERS MEET VIOLENCE; BLAME NEW DEAL

Cite Incidents Following Farley Forecast.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republican national headquarters declared last night that New Deal Chairman James Farley was not talking through his hat when he announced this would be one of the "dirtiest" of campaigns. A. K. Barta, director of G. O. P. sound trucks, reported that some of his speakers out on the road are meeting with violence.

"The violent tactics by New Deal strong arm artists," said Mr. Barta, "range all the way from concerted efforts to break up Republican meetings to actual physical attacks on speakers and from tearing down Republican microphones to attempts to smash the trucks themselves."

Republican Speaker Slugged.

"In Detroit last week, Preston Estep, a Republican speaker from Missouri, was slugged in the face while conducting a street meeting. Estep continued his talk.

George Bender, candidate for congressman at large in Ohio, reported that a disgruntled listener at a street meeting grabbed the microphone from him, tore off the wires and hurled the 'mike' into a vacant lot. Mr. Bender finished his talk without it. Clyde Lee Fife wrote in from Earlville, Ill., that a gang of boys had rammed his truck as he was leaving town, damaging the rear end.

"All our trucks are insured and the speakers have instructions not to prosecute trouble seekers unless absolutely necessary. So far the thirty trucks have traveled 90,000 miles, the speakers have addressed more than 375,000 persons, and as the caravan rolls along reports come in of steady gains for Gov. Landon. For instance, after a meeting in Iowa, three-fourths of a gang of WPA workers donned sunflowers."

The sound trucks are now operating in twenty western states, and each speaker holds an average of eight meetings a day.

Claims Nebraska for Landon.

A report that Nebraska is headed toward the Republican column was made at Republican headquarters by Hugh A. Butler of Omaha, national committeeman of his state.

"Gov. Alf M. Landon's address in Des Moines Tuesday," said Mr. Butler, "was the turning point in all of the middle western farm states. Our farmers have been getting samples of the Argentine corn that has been flooding into the United States. These kernels of corn are more stirring to our farmers than all the pamphlets the New Deal party can distribute and more potent than all the honeyed phrases President Roosevelt shortly will pour over the granary states. Nebraska corn raisers resent Argentine corn in this country."

A declaration that the New Deal is operating the greatest pork barrel political machine in history was made by Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war, yesterday in a noonday address before the Executives Club of Chicago at the Hotel Sherman.

"While President Roosevelt," Mr. Hurley said, "was saying 'taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors' and 'liberal governments are wrecked on the rocks of a loose fiscal policy,' he also was getting rid of Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, who was opposed to the pork barrel system.

"In the New Deal the pork barrel system has been substituted for the merit system of civil service. The pork barrel brigade now has direct access to the pockets of the taxpayers.

Cites Many Instances.

"The New Deal committed itself to a pork barrel project of planting a belt of trees across the nation. The brain trusters said this would change climatic conditions. That project was abandoned. The New Deal started the pork barrel project of Passamaquoddy in Maine. That project has been abandoned, but the cost has been charged to the taxpayers. The New Deal started the pork barrel trans-Florida ship canal. That project has been abandoned, but the taxpayers are still paying the bill.

"We can sympathize with President Roosevelt when he says of his own administration that it made the mistakes of inexperience, but that cannot be said of the pork barrel artists who work with his administration. They got the taxpayers' money. They are still getting it. The pork barrel brigade of the New Deal is experienced.

"There never has been in the history of this republic a greater spoils system than that which has fed upon the taxpayers' money during the Roosevelt administration."

BUSES WILL LINK CRIMINAL COURTS AND COUNTY BLDG.

Benjamin Weintraub, executive vice president of the Chicago Motor Coach company, announced yesterday that the Illinois commerce commission had authorized bus service between the county building and the Criminal Court building at 26th street and California avenue. Service on the new route will start next Monday.

The service was advocated by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court in the interest of speedier transportation for jurors, defendants, and attorneys in criminal cases.

The buses will leave the Washington boulevard entrance of the county building at 9:15, 10:30, and 11:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m., and will leave the Criminal Court building at 10 and 11 a. m. and 12:25 and 4:20 p. m.

SPIKE O'DONNELL GETS BEHIND IN HOLC PAYMENTS

Edward [Spike] O'Donnell's bungalow at 8145 South Honore street was ordered sold yesterday as a result of a foreclosure suit brought by the Home Owners' Loan corporation. O'Donnell, however, has 15 months to redeem his home by paying what he owes the HOLC, plus court costs.

Harry A. Quinn, attorney for the HOLC, told Judge Michael Feinberg in the Circuit court that the former south side beer runner had paid back only $59 of $8,400 he borrowed from the HOLC on Jan. 7, 1935. With interest, O'Donnell's debt is now $9,183. His home cost him $16,500 back in prohibition days.

Both O'Donnell and his wife, Elizabeth Agnes, were named defendants in the suit. When neither appeared Judge Feinberg issued the decree of sale.

E. B. LLEWELLYN OF SYMPHONY IS KILLED IN AUTO

Wife Critically Hurt in Texas Accident.

Edward Beach Llewellyn, 57 years old, 6615 North Fairfield avenue, personnel manager of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, was killed and his wife, Josephine, was critically injured yesterday in an automobile accident at Monahans, Tex. Details of the accident were not learned.

Mr. Llewellyn and his wife left Chicago by automobile a month ago for a vacation trip to California. They were en route to the Texas Centennial exposition in Dallas when the accident occurred.

Born in St. Louis, Mr. Llewellyn began his musical career in 1908 as a cornet soloist with the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra. Later he played in the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra and in the United States Marine band. He joined the Chicago orchestra in 1913 and was appointed personnel manager several years ago.

Woman Pedestrian Killed.

Mrs. Anne Cormack, 35 years old, 3106 North Neva avenue, was killed last night when she was struck by an automobile driven by Policeman William F. Kenney, 33 years old, 6056 South Peoria street, as she was crossing Harlem avenue at George street with her husband, Edwin, an inspector for the city board of local improvements. He told police that his wife stepped into the path of the policeman's car. Kenney is attached to the Englewood station.

Adolph Larsen, 52 years old, 5335 Cuyler avenue, was killed and Roy Smith, 29 years old, 3842 North Lockwood avenue, was seriously injured last night as they were crossing Irving Park boulevard at Lockwood avenue when they were struck by an auto driven by Edward Pontarelli, 31 years old, 5125 Cullom avenue. Smith was taken to the Swedish Provident hospital. Irving Park police held Pontarelli for questioning.

Killed in Headon Crash.

Daniel Hegedus, 49 years old, of 1662 West 10th place, Gary, was killed and Bert Snenyak, 18, of 725 West 15th avenue, Gary, and Steve Gabriel, 20, of 432 Maryland street, Gary, were slightly injured early today when their automobile collided head on with a Buchanan street car at the entrance of the Gary Sheet and Tin Plate company in Gary. Several passengers in the street car were jarred but not hurt. Snenyak and Gabriel were taken to Mercy hospital.

In a head-on collision of two automobiles early yesterday in the outer drive at 34th street two men and a woman were seriously injured. They are Jesse Hogg, 5477 Dorchester avenue; Miss Cecilie Armdt, 17 years old, 930 East 54th place, and Charles De Long, 1129 South Whipple street. Hogg, who was driving a borrowed car, admitted to the police he and his companion, Miss Armdt, had visited a loop tavern just before the accident. De Long, driver of the other car, was unaccompanied. All three were taken to the Chicago Memorial hospital.

Police booked Hogg on a charge of reckless driving and he was released on bond of $100.

Young Woman Killed.

Hermina Josefsky, 20 years old, 2389 West 9th avenue, Gary, was killed Thursday night when the automobile she was driving stalled on the New York Central railroad tracks at the 153d street crossing in Indiana Harbor, and was hit by a freight train. Her companion, Margaret Krejci, 22 years old, 3627 Black Oak road, Hessville, was critically injured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday the coroner's office reported 709 persons killed in traffic accidents since Jan. 1 in Cook county. Of this number 548 were killed in the city. In the same period 13,762 persons were injured within the city limits.

HORNER ANSWERS POLITICS CHARGE ON STREET WORK

Insists City Resurface "Arterial Routes."

BY HAL FOUST.

Belvidere, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner, before retiring from his campaign this evening for the 24 hour observance of Yom Kippur, replied in part to a charge that he is playing politics in blocking Mayor Kelly's program to resurface between 225 and 250 additional miles of Chicago streets.

"If Chicago will comply with the statute," said the governor, "it can get its money from the gasoline tax. The law doesn't permit revenue from the motor fuel excise to be spent on side streets. If Chicago will make a proper proposal for the expenditure of its gasoline tax money on arterial routes, it will have no trouble with Springfield."

Six Efforts of City Fail.

Lying idle now in the state treasury is $2,350,000—Chicago's one-third share of the revenue derived from Illinois' 3 cent gasoline tax. Six times the city has tried to draw on this fund. In the first five instance, the state highway department raised technical objections.

After Chicago complied with all technical suggestions of the department, Ernst Lieberman, state highway engineer rejected the city's sixth application on the ground that different streets should be resurfaced from those chosen by the city council.

Mayor Kelly has a promise of $11,750,000 of WPA money for this paving work if the city will finance a sixth of the cost. The $11,750,000 is part of a $32,000,000 "easy money" allotment obtained last year. Last fall and this spring the city used vehicle tax revenue to cover its sixth of the cost, but this source was exhausted.

"Plenty of Bad Arterials."

"There are plenty of arterial streets that could use some of this money," said the governor. "They don't have to resort to side streets to find worn out pavements. There isn't any reason why some of the money shouldn't go onto state highway routes within the city."

"Maybe Chicago feels that it is an obligation of the state to rehabilitate the state routes," his interviewer suggested.

"More likely," Horner replied, "it is because the state really is working on the state routes in Chicago."

Regardless of whether this stymie in the paving program is a hangover from the political quarrel between the mayor and the governor, motorists have a complaint. Chicago automobile owners continue to pay gasoline tax and continue to jolt and bump over rutted streets while repair funds lie idle in Springfield.

City hall officials, not wishing to be quoted for fear of being accused of party disloyalty, charge that politics is the sole explanation for Springfield's attitude.

WOMAN SPEAKER HITS WRITING OF ROOSEVELT'S KIN

Calls It White House Commercialized.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The literary labors of members of the Roosevelt family were attacked as "commercialization of the White House" in a speech today by Miss M. Pearl McCall, former assistant district attorney, in an address before a group of Republican clubwomen at Takoma Park a suburb of the capital.

Miss McCall asserted that the authors in the President's family were "the real beneficiaries of the New Deal." She named Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President; Mrs. Delano Roosevelt, his mother; Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Boettiger, his daughter; and Elliott Roosevelt, a son, as those who had coined money from writings and talks.

No Message for G. A. R.

The President's failure to address the Grand Army of the Republic, after a virtual promise to do so had been made by the White House, was also touched upon by the speaker. Resentment by members of the G. A. R. was freely expressed during the last week when the President departed for his summer estate at Hyde Park without even a message to the civil war veterans.

It was rumored that the President feared he might offend the "solid south" by honoring the northern veterans with an appearance only a few weeks before the election.

"There were crocodile tears and a garden party for the incorrigibles of the National Training school," Miss McCall remarked, referring to a party given by Mrs. Roosevelt for some reform school inmates recently. "But no White House invitation for the G. A. R. and other affiliated groups encamped in Washington in the last week."

No Vacant Places.

Miss McCall declared the place of the money changers whom President Roosevelt said had been driven from the temple with his advent into office had been taken by members of the Roosevelt family.

"At each vacancy a member of the Roosevelt family moved in," she said. "Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President of the United States, was the first of the tribe to become snugly domiciled in the temple that the President assured us was vacated upon his advent into office.

"Mrs. Roosevelt, a financial wizard, saw the advantage of such a strategical location and got the jump on all other family contestants. She immediately capitalized her White House connections and entered into contracts for large sums for radio talks, magazine and newspaper articles, and for the writing and publication of a book."

Two Books by President.

The President himself has written two books which have been given the advertising back of his office, she added.

The President's mother, daughter and son have also cashed in on the value of the White House prestige by making talks and writing articles, she said.

"The only contributions now lacking in the White House are masterpieces from the pens of Sistie and Buzzie," Miss McCall concluded.

FOUND GUILTY IN SLAYING OF WIFE'S FRIEND

Thomas Spado, 24 years old, 903 North Lawndale avenue, was found guilty of manslaughter in the slaying of Jack Byers, 25 years old, of Mendota, Ill., by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Robert O'Connell last night. The penalty is one to fourteen years in prison. A motion for a new trial will be heard on Oct. 2.

Spado shot and killed Byers in front of the Spado home on July 1. He pleaded self-defense and accused Byers of carrying on a romance with his estranged wife, Mrs. Jennie Spado.

YOUTH, 19, ADMITS WANTON SLAYING; SEEK COMPANION

Capt. John Egan of the Maxwell street station announced early today that the murder of Martin Damamiskis, 42 years old, of 2024 Ruble street, and the wounding of Louis Rolanec, 50, of 1521 West 18th place, on Sept. 20, had been solved. According to Egan, Frank Tallach, 19, of 2004 Throop street, confessed that he and another man, now being sought, shot the two men during holdups.

Tallach's arrest was brought about by his brother-in-law, Stanley Miller, 22, of the Throop street address. Miller a few days ago found a revolver in Tallach's room. Tallach had disappeared. Miller took the gun to police. He told them Tallach had gone to Bannister, Mich.

A wire to the sheriff there resulted in Tallach's arrest. He was brought back last night by Sergt. Albert Woodrick. After questioning by Capt. Egan and Assistant State's Attorney John Phillips he told about the shootings, Egan said. Damamiskis was killed in the rear of his home by a shot through the head. Rolanec was shot in the chest at Laflin and 19th streets. He is in St. Anthony's hospital.

CHIEF OF SPAIN SEEKS TO FLEE ON A WARSHIP

provincial government buildings and demanded hostages to kill.

Government leaders brought out 60 hostages and turned machine guns loose on them as the mobs shrieked for more.

Frenzied women plunged their handkerchiefs in the pools of blood where the prisoners had died.

As the mobs around the government buildings grew in size and violence, Eliadore De La Tore, Basque Nationalist chief, came to a balcony and shouted that they would have the satisfaction they demanded.

During the bombardment a heavy bomb exploded in the Alameda De Recalde, ripping a huge hole in the pavement in front of the French consulate. Windows were smashed, and the office of the French consul, Rene Casteron, was peppered with flying bricks and mortar. The consul, the only representative of the great powers remaining in Bilbao, was uninjured.

Loyalists Hit Rebel Line.

Before the aerial bombardment loyalist forces were reported to have driven 31 miles southeast or Bilbao in a desperate effort to cut off insurgent communications at the strategic highway city of Vitoria. It was at Vitoria in 1813 that a Napoleonic army was defeated by English, Spanish, and Portugese troops under Wellington.

If the government forces should capture Vitoria they would be able to drive a wedge through the San Sebastian-Burgos highway. San Sebastian is in insurgent hands, and the seat of the Fascist junta is in Burgos. Hence, the highway is of the utmost importance to the insurgents.

The government forces, the reports said, in a sudden offensive, drove a column of Fascists under Gen. Emilio Mola back almost to the gates of Vitoria. Other units pounded at the center of the insurgent line, menacing Escoriaza.

Push Forward Near Maqueda.

MADRID, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The government tonight poured fighting men and steel in the wake of a flood loosed on the Fascist troops marching on Madrid.

Three divisions of government forces waded after the Fascists, whose attack was reported to have been quenched by 20,000,000 cubic meters of water spilled over the lowlands north of San Martin de Valdeiglesias from a dam on the Alberche river.

Government military leaders ordered a threefold advance.

One column marched northwestward on the Toledo-Maqueda highway. A second column marched southwestward on the Madrid-Maqueda highway. The third column was to attack the Fascist rear guard units at Talavera de la Reina.

Within Madrid, the minister of interior ordered the creation of a new women's police force, open to all women between the ages of 23 and 40.

Rebel Side Admits Setback.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

CACERES, Spain, Sept. 25.—Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel commander-in-chief, rushed forward to Talavera de la Reina today to take personal command of the situation created yesterday when the Madrid government opened the Alberche dam, swamping his main line of communications just east of Talavera.

The government forces followed this action with a counter attack in force today upon Maqueda. As a result the rebel attack on Toledo has been delayed.

The rebel command says the attack at Maqueda was successfully beaten off with heavy losses to the loyalists.

The actions of the loyalists make it apparent that they are trying to threaten Gen. Franco's long thin line from Caceres eastward in order to make him draw back his picked troops from the Toledo sector under the threat of having his advanced guards cut off. Delay of the rebel advance has the immediate advantage of giving the leftists time to entrench themselves along the whole Toledo front.

Rebels Call in New Commander.

To open his lines east of Talavera again, Gen. Franco put engineers feverishly to work building pontoons to meet the bridge over the Alberche river, part of which was swept away by the flood. Most of the flood waters have now passed away, but the river is higher and the low country is still oozing water for miles around.

Gen. Varela, considered a brilliant tactician, who has been commanding the rebel forces on the Malaga front in the south, was rushed here by plane today to take the place of Col. Juan Yague, who has commanded the Foreign Legionnaires and Moors in the field during the entire advance toward Madrid. Col. Yague, who is the idol of his troops, is officially reported to be ill.

Report Alcazar Women Freed.

RABAT, French Morocco, Sept. 25.—(AP)—An insurgent radio broadcast from Seville said tonight the besieged Fascists in Toledo's Alcazar fortress had released all their women and children, but elected to die themselves rather than surrender and face government firing squads.

BRITAIN SPEEDS WAR PLAN; FEARS FASCIST LINEUP

Sees Spain as Ally of Germany and Italy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Every advance of the Spanish Fascists has increased British nervousness over reports that Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel commander, has promised the Balearic Islands and Ceuta to Italy and the Canary Islands to Germany in event of a rebel victory.

Well informed circles said tonight that a Fascist victory is virtually certain, but added that even if reports of territorial deals are true they believed that not only Great Britain but France would refuse to countenance a change in the Mediterranean status.

See Danger to Britain.

It is belived, these circles said, that both would fight rather than allow Italian bases in the Balearics or Morocco, which would nullify Gibraltar and cut British routes to the orient and French routes to Morocco in case of a conflict. The Canaries in German hands could cut the alternative South African route to the orient.

Fascist Spain, coöperating with Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany, could present an intolerable threat to Britain's empire if it wished.

The feverish pace of British preparation for any eventuality seems accelerated more than ever. The warning by Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, of British determination to maintain the Mediterranean status is interpreted as being aimed as much at Spain as at Italy.

Check Up Air Defense.

Sir Philip Sassoon, British undersecretary for air, left today to inspect the air force in Egypt, Kenya and the Sudan. Hoare, who recently toured the naval bases in the Mediterranean, is to tour the home fleet ships and bases within a month.

Hoare also was appointed spokesman for the cabinet to inform the Conservative party conference at Margate Tuesday of vast defense plans and to reassure them that the government does not intend to consider yielding its territorial mandates.

A spy hunt is apparently accompanying rearmament activities. Walter Butterfield, engineer attached to the air ministry, was given a suspended sentence yesterday after pleading guilty at a secret hearing to the charge of divulging confidential information likely to be useful to the enemy.

CHICAGOAN TELLS DECLINE IN NAZI LIVING STANDARD

Utley's Impressions Given at Luncheon.

The standard of living in Germany is steadily declining and almost no hope is felt for its recovery, Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, told a capacity crowd at a luncheon meeting that opened the council's fall season in the Palmer house yesterday.

More than 1,500 members and guests of the club were present. The crowd filled all available seating and standing space in the hotel's grand ballroom and overflowed into the corridor where a loudspeaker was set up.

Relating his impressions of "Germany in 1936," gained on a three months' European trip from which he just returned, Mr. Utley said that the German people's morale is being sustained in the face of poor economic conditions by a national pride based on their government's colossal military program.

Tells First Impression.

The first impression of a tourist in Germany is that there is unbounded prosperity on every hand, he declared, and although it appeared genuine "as far as it went, it was very shallow." He said he found real economic production prosperity but none on the consumption side.

"The German people on the whole approve the military program very strongly," Utley said. "There are a few pacifists left but sooner or later most of them find their way into concentration camps.

"Although there are many factors that build up the impression that the German people are more satisfied, and that there is a definite atmosphere of increasing normalcy in the country, I believe it lies to a substantial degree in the strength of the military forces.

Extent of Armaments Cited.

"One is amazed and somewhat terrified by these colossal efforts. I knew Germany was rearming, but I had never realized before to what extent. One can't drive out in the country without seeing numerous trains of military cars and an airdome seemingly every few miles. The omnipresence of militarism in Germany is a distinct shock, even compared to the sights I saw last year."

Even with this huge military program before them, it is necessary to keep giving the people "psychological shots in the arm to boister the public morale," Utley said. He cited the "march on the Rhine; the Olympic games, which some said served as well psychologically as a war, and Hitler recently turning on the oratory about soviet Russia."

BRITISH TROOPS AND WARPLANES KILL 54 ARABS IN HOLY LAND

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Fifty-four Arabs were killed by British soldiers and flyers during a battle near Jenin, official figures disclosed today. Machine gun bullets from the scouting planes accounted for 41 of the Arab victims, the figures showed, while the remainder died from infantry rifle shots. One British plane was shot down. The pilot was taken to a hospital. The troops suffered no fatalities.

STOP MEDDLING AND AVERT WAR, EUROPE WARNED

Mind Own Business, Nations Told.

GENEVA, Sept. 25. — (AP) — Two youthful foreign ministers warned the league of nations today the only way to preserve peace in Europe is for each nation to mind its own business.

Although they represented opposite extremes in political color, both exhorted the assembled statesmen to remember the nations must view the political régimes of their neighbors with toleration and must keep "hands off" one another's internal affairs.

One of the speakers was dapper Capt. Anthony Eden, Great Britain's foreign secretary, a conservative. The other was Socialist Julio Alvarez Del Vayo of Spain, just as much a fashion plate.

Attacks Germany, Italy.

Del Vayo warned the world the civil strife in Spain forbode a future war, not between states, but between political concepts.

"The bloodstained soil of Spain already is the battlefield of world war," he contended in what other delegates construed as an attack on Germany, Italy and Portugal for allegedly arming the Spanish Fascist insurgents.

Del Vayo was applauded when he concluded his address after assailing the European nonintervention agreement as "direct and positive intervention in behalf of the rebels" and as a "blockade of the lawful Spanish government."

What Britain Stands For.

Eden painted a pessimistic picture of Europe's future, but said "there need be no fatal seeds of war." He cautiously advanced revision of treaties as a possible remedy for international grievances. He reaffirmed Britain's faith in the league and said it stood for an amendment to the league covenant to enable the league to intervene in the early stages of a dispute. He also proposed:

Negotiation of regional pacts, separation of the league covenant from postwar treaties, measures to restore international trade; inquiry, under league auspices, into the question of access to raw materials, and reduction and limitation of armaments and publicity for armaments expenditures.

The league council voted to authorize Brazil, Germany and Japan to cast ballots both in the council and assembly when justices of the world court are being elected, despite the fact all of those nations have resigned from the league. They were granted a voice as a matter of equity because all are members of the court.

Italy Calls Ruling an "Error."

ROME, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Italy has concluded the league of nations decision to seat the Ethiopian delegation was "an error," it was stated tonight, but not "an affront" which would warant Italy's withdrawal.

Well informed sources said Haile Selassie, whose realm Italy claims as a colony, was adversely affected by the vote because it gave him "false hopes."

JAPAN RELAXES MILITARY GRIP ON SHANGHAI AREA

Withdraws Marines from Chinese Chapei.

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26 [Saturday].—Japanese naval authorities today withdrew most of their marines from the Chinese section of Shanghai, and curtailed sharply their military patrols in other areas of the city.

With these moves tension in Shanghai, which had increased hourly since the shootings of three Japanese marines Wednesday night, eased off abruptly.

The Japanese naval commanders were unwilling to admit that their apprehension for the lives and properties of their nationals in Shanghai had lessened, but they kept armed patrols mainly in the Japanese section of the international settlement.

Let Police Resume Duties.

The international settlement police, ousted when the Japanese declared martial law over most of the district, were permitted to return to their duties, although the Japanese bluejackets were still much in evidence. The white Russian police force and reserves which had been ordered out for emergency duty were dispersed.

After Chinese authorities had repeated their protests against Japanese patrols in the Chapei section the marines were withdrawn, except for a handful of bluejackets stationed at the most strategic points within the district.

In a proclamation the Chinese authorities in Greater Shanghai announced that their bureau of public safety had undertaken to provide the "utmost possible safety" for all foreigners.

Cause of Curtailment Mystery.

What caused the sudden curtailment of Japanese military measures in Shanghai was not officially made known, but the city heard reports that China's military dictator, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, was flying back to Nanking personally to direct settlement of the Shanghai and other incidents.

The Japanese officials have indicated that they desired the troublesome incidents to be settled by Chiang himself rather than through his subordinates at Nanking.

Efforts to fix blame for the actual shootings which caused the Japanese marines to occupy Shanghai appeared to have made little progress. One of the marines was wounded fatally and the other two were recovering in hospitals. Three Chinese suspects today were given a preliminary hearing in a Chinese court, but detailed charges were not made public.

[At Peiping Japanese authorities said they did not consider the death of a Japanese who fell off a train was an "incident." The death was accidental, they agreed.]

WALLACE, ACTING FOR ROOSEVELT, ANSWERS LANDON

Fears Farm Plan Fate Would Be Like AAA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace tonight delivered the Roosevelt administration's reply to Gov. Alfred M. Landon's Des Moines farm speech with a tirade against the bankers, the munitions makers, the Liberty league, and "the forces which have been behind the Republican party since the great war."

Secretary of State Cordell Hull simultaneously issued a statement replying for the administration to Gov. Landon's Minneapolis speech on the reciprocal trade treaties, accusing the Republican candidate of assuming a "disingenuous rôle."

Calls Landon Plan Futile.

"After paying lip service to the principle of foreign trade and tarif reciprocity," said Hull, "he declares his support of principles and methods for carrying out a reciprocal trade program which would render it completely sterile and make it thus a sham and a fraud.

"I am deeply sorry to see the governor's discussion descend to such a level of partisanship and to see him thus part company with the ablest and wisest leaders of his party who have been supporting the trade agreements program.

"What the governor is in effect now proposing is a direct and automatic return to Smoot-Hawleyism."

Speaking for Roosevelt.

Speaking under auspices of the Democratic national committee, Wallace said Gov. Landon's farm speech consisted of "platitudes and golden apple promises," which would "bring the farmers back to 1931 with the greatest possible speed." He spoke with an authority transcending his office, for he was summoned to Hyde Park by President Roosevelt for the preparation of an answer to Gov. Landon.

Wallace laments that "of course there would be no production control" under Gov. Landon's program and declares that the soil conservation act would be done away with after payment of the 1936 obligations. The major proposal of paying a tarif equivalent subsidy on the domestically consumed part of the farmer's crop, Wallace says, would "end in a smash worse than 1932."

330 Bushels for Export.

"Let's assume a year or two of normal weather and see how it would work with wheat," he said. "Average yields on this year's wheat crop would produce a crop of 960 million bushels. Of this, we could consume at home only about 630 million bushels. This would leave 330 million bushels for export to the foreign markets, which Mr. Landon admits are gone.

"With a 960 million bushel crop, domestic prices would drop to about 55 cents a bushel. To lift farmers' return, Mr. Landon would pay a 'tarif equivalent' presumably of 42 cents a bushel on two-thirds of each farmer's crop. The cost to the treasury for wheat alone would be about 265 million dollars."

Wallace said the Republicans were trying to lead the farmers into "the trap of producing in expanding quantities for a foreign market which Republican tarif policies in large measure destroyed." With regard to crop insurance, Wallace said Gov. Landon felt that private companies would do all that was necessary. He also accused the Kansas governor of slighting the "ever normal" granary plan, authorship of which he credits to himself and the biblical Joseph.

Fears Constitution.

As chief proponent of the unconstitutional AAA, Mr. Wallace suggests that Gov. Landon's proposed system of federal warehouse receipts, on which farmers could borrow money from the banks, "is probably unconstitutional."

"Ninety-eight out of 100 big bankers are for Landon," he said. "Ninety-eight out of 100 big corporations are for Landon. No man big enough to run for President can be a complete ingrate. Landon will not and should not let the big contributors to his campaign funds suffer from his ingratitude. The state campaign in Maine tells us who some of these men are. The Liberty league roll gives us the names of others. The munitions makers, oil men, power magnates, big packers, and grain gamblers are the men who have always attacked farm programs and who are now fighting Roosevelt."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Sunflowers Give Show

September 25, 1936.

ALTHOUGH the show provided by the hundred of sunflowers on the Wheaton farm is almost over because the big flowers have drooping heads and faded colors, yesterday we found one plant in the test plot still laded with flowers. But the wild sunflowers, the "Landon button" that Kansas recognized as its state flwer some time ago, still are lifting heir heads defiantly and daring ol Jack Frost to do his worst. So i looks as if we were going to have rilliant splashes of yellow along he hedges and fences and in the corner of the fields for some time.

Yesterday we noiced one particularly beautiful stad of these wild sunflowers near a gte on the Wheaton farm. The plnts are tall and sturdy. Near themare asters and the colorful leaves of vnes rambling over the fences.

"Injun" Sumner Touch.

Green wigwams now stand in one of the test plot at the Wheaton farm. They're mde of the tall hemp plants that were cut the other day. The workers hve "shocked" the hemp like the farmer shocks his corn . . . wigwam style.

Thus the hemp, standing like tall teepees, give us a hint of the way the cornfields will look very soon when the brown, wigwam-shaped shocks march across the fields beneath the October moon.

Turkey Hen Starts Fights.

The poultry yard saw a little excitement this week. The wild turkey hen that has been living with the ducks and geese near the pond all summer came back home. Her arrival stirred up a few fights in the poultry yard, but now all is quiet.

The return of this wild hen [she originally came from the south] was a casual sort of affair. A flock of turkeys foraging for insects in the woods happened to get near the pond where they joined the wild hen that has been on her own all summer. That evening the whole flock traveled to the poultry yard where the birds roosted for the night. The next morning the turkeys struck out for the woods again. But this wild hen refused to leave civilization. No more wandering and living in the "wilderness" for her. She now is staying close to the guinea hens, turkeys and chickens in the poultry yard.

Cider Is Scarce:

The drouth this season has struck a rather hard blow at one of the by-products of the farm that all of us associate with this season of the year. One of the pleasures of farm life during the month of September is to be able to lift a filled cider jug and pour out a drink of the sweet, golden brown apple juice.

This season there are few apples compared to the crop of last season so there will be little if any cider in the little brown jugs. We hiked through one of the orchards on the farm the other day. We found a few apples to munch on but no amount of fruit that could be called a real crop. The summer of 1936 brought too much heat and too little rain for the fruit.

Sheep Mopping Up.

The sheep that have been turned into the old cornfields since the corn binders did their work are gleaning many a good meal from the secondary growth of vegetation. The way they make the grass and weeds disappear is amazing. Weedy corners that might harbor noxious insects and field mice have been mowed down by the animals which constitute a regular mop-up brigade.

GOV. LANDON RENEWS THE OFFENSIVE.

Gov. Landon's speech at Minneapolis completed for the present his discussion of agricultural policies. At Des Moines he told what the farmers may expect of him and his administration. The Republican objective he explained is the promotion of the family type of farm. He told how this goal was to be reached.

At Minneapolis he presented the other side of the picture. He told what he would not do. He laid emphasis upon the monstrous absurdity of the administration's reciprocal trade program. It was a most effective speech. It exposed one of the most glaring contradictions in policy within an administration distinguished for its desire to ride in opposite directions at the same time.

Mr. Roosevelt deliberately planned a scarcity of food and fibers. He ordered the destruction of 6,000,000 pigs and sows, the plowing under of growing crops and the reduction in the acreage planted to corn, wheat, cotton, and other staples. It was an exceedingly rizky policy because it invited hunger and a sharp increase in the cost of living, but Mr. Roosevelt took no account of the dangers.

No sooner had he started on his planned scarcity than he obtained from congress the authority to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements with foreign nations. As Gov. Landon well said, these were tarif arrangements made without consulting congress and commercial treaties made without consulting the senate. They provide for a reduction in the tarif on many agricultural products, of which cheese may be used as an example. The tarif on American type cheese was reduced from 7 cents to 5 cents. Within four months the imports of cheese increased sevenfold. The price in this country dropped from more than 17 cents to 12 cents.

The government had created an artificial scarcity of feedstuffs and to that extent had increased considerably the American dairy farmer's costs. Then it opened the doors to foreign dairy products produced under no such disadvantage. The American dairy farmer was caught in a trap.

Our live stock farmers got the same treatment. Imports of beef cattle have repeatedly broken the prices for cattle in American stockyards.

The explanation for these cruel jokes at the expense of our farmers lies in the fact that Mr. Roosevelt naturally and instinctively follows Prof. Tugwell toward regimentation, restriction, and communism, but wants, at the same time, to hold the support of the old line Democrats with their free trade traditions. To keep this wing of his party quiet he puts Secretary Hull in the cabinet and has let him go to work on his reciprocal treaties.

There is no possible compromise between Hull and Tugwell, but Mr. Roosevelt has accepted the contradictory policies of the two men and put them both into operation at the same time.

Naturally there is confusion, frustration, and injustice to the farmers. That is what must be expected as long as the White House is occupied by an impulsive reformer who is also an unprincipled political opportunist.

The contrast presented by Gov. Landon at Minneapolis is striking. Gov. Landon is sincere, not glib. He is patient, thoughtful, careful, not impulsive. He is practical, not visionary. The difference can be summarized in a sentence: Mr. Roosevelt knows what he wants the American farmers to do for him; Gov. Landon knows what he wants to do for the American farmers.

GESTURES AND SHIPS.

Under certain ancient contracts between the department of commerce and the United States Lines, bids are being received for the construction of a new "ocean queen" which will enable these operators to advertise weekly service in ships of the Manhattan and Washington type. Essentially, the vessel is to be a duplicate of these ships, which, with an overall length of 705 feet, displacement of 33,500 tons, accommodations for 1,204 passengers and a crew of 533, represents the largest liners ever built in the United States.

While the present ships are among the most popular in trans-Atlantic passenger service, the same was true of Henry Ford's model "T" in its day. To say that no advance has been made in ship designing, power or equipment since the Manhattan and Washington were conceived prior to the depression is heresy. To admit that the operators have found nothing to improve in four years of operation confirms the impotence of subsidized enterprises. To properly appreciate the difference between a moribund and a vital industry it is merely necessary to compare automobiles of the '28 and '29 vintages with modern types. The same striking contrast may be found in railway equipment.

There is an opportunity here to construct something that will be the last word in nautical research, but the result will be a political ship with no merit—another copy of archaic European models.

LLOYD GEORGE'S EFFORTS TOWARD A BETTER UNDERSTANDING.

Disgruntled old Lloyd George has started something.

Some one will point out that because the British army was not put under command of Gen. Joffre in 1914 it was routed at Mons and Le Cateau, left the French flank uncovered, and compelled the retreat of the French army; that when the French Gen. Joffre resumed the offensive at the Marne the English Gen. French hung back and allowed the Germans to escape.

Again, partly because Haig and Petain disobeyed orders, the English were routed in 1918. French and American divisions had to be rushed across France to save Amiens.

It was at this time that Lloyd George wanted to mix American soldiers into English regiments and Pershing refused because he did not want the high morale of the Americans to be corroded by contact with the routed Britishers, nor was it conceivable that the Americans be put under English generals who had led the retreat of their forces until stopped by peremptory orders from Gen. Foch.

Franco-American relations offered another problem.

The difference of language obviously prevented any mingling of American and French soldiers in the same companies or regiments.

Foch wanted to continue to sandwich American and French organizations, by battalions or by divisions. First a battalion of Americans, then a battalion of French, then a battalion of Americans, etc., as he had done so successfully with battalions of the 42d division at the second battle of the Marne, or a division of Americans, a division of Moroccans, and a division of Americans with which he had won the decisive battle of Soissons.

This would give a battle line the virility of the Americans tempered by the experience and war wisdom of the French.

The scheme was feasible because the Americans were armed with French machine guns and were drilled in French tactics. The vital objection to this plan was that any reverse would lead to great confusion.

The plan adopted, namely, the creation of an American army under command of American generals advised by French staf officers and a French chief of artillery, was probably the best one that could be improvised.

It suffered from the unavoidable inexperience and ignorance of the higher American officers, but this was being overcome by the promotion of veteran officers of the First and Second divisions to the high commands as the war reached its close.

Lloyd George has started a war of recriminations, but it will lead to a better knowledge of what went on in the war—so long held back by the censor.

FROM SEVEN TO NINE.

While the fall schedules of the eastern railways show a marked tendency toward increased speed with more frequent accommodation, the failure to change the running time of the "Century" and "Broadway" will produce keen disappointment. The New York Central and Pennsylvania have been nibbling at the records of these two crack trains for several years, so a half hour reduction in transit time could reasonably be expected, particularly as it is so well known that overnight service is inevitable.

It is proverbial of transportation that patronage is easily lost and difficult to recover especially when the agency that plans the revival offers nothing better than equalization. The airplane sets the pace and will continue to make inroads until the railways offer service that will leave the business day intact. A journey that begins at dinner time and finishes just after breakfast will offer serious competition to any air line schedule. The present voyage biting heavily into the afternoon will not.

Editorial of the Day

BUT THE DARN THING RAN.

[Commercial Appeal, Memphis, Tenn.]

Memories of other days, different customs and attitudes came crowding in on millions of Americans when newspapers brought word of the death of Edwin Ross Thomas, erstwhile maker of the "Thomas Flyer."

Mr. Thomas evolved into the automobile game. Born in Pennsylvania 85 years ago, he lived in Evansville in his youth and from 1865 to 1890 was in the transportation business in Memphis. From Memphis he moved to Toronto in 1895 to begin the manufacture of bicycles, a few automobiles, and the first motor bicycle practical for road use. In 1900 he went to Buffalo to make the "Flyer" until his retirement in 1911.

Those were the days when people yelled "Get a horse!" at the self-conscious motorist and when he usually had to take that advice before he got back home. The woods and cities alike were filled with people who shook their heads at the newfangled "horseless carriage," said it would never amount to anything, and would never risk themselves with any such nonsense. In 1900 4,192 cars were manufactured in the United States, 8,000 were registered, and of commercial motor vehicles there were none at all.

If a motorist took his life in his hands and ventured abroad, especially on a country road, dogs and chickens rushed shrieking to suicide, horses with bulging eyes reared up and ran away, and drivers feared and cursed. The sight, sound, and smell of the car considered, it was no wonder.

The Thomas car stood rather tall at the radiator cap, and it glistened everywhere with brass. Clamped on the running board was a gleaming Prest-O-Lite tank which sometimes meant lights at night. The motorist labored with a crank, and then, if he had not broken his arm, rushed to the side to pull down the spark lever before "she" died. Next, if the engine got going and while the car shook as with an ague and chuffed and panted asthmatically, the driver clambered in from the right. Set in the seat of uncertain power, he reached outside, released a so-called emergency brake, pushed the lever to the proper slot in the H-shift, let in his clutch, and was away. As he went he prayed devoutly that he would not have to try to change one of his clincher tires. Heavy leather straps ran from the top to fasten near the front, but nothing could control that vibration. Now and again he pressed the rubber bulb to make the horn give plaintive bleatings.

If cars were few and funny in those days, though, they meant something. They may have been constructed and caparisoned to resemble a sort of cross between a circus wagon and a circus elephant, but they conferred distinction, they marked progress. They may have smelled like the devil, jolted like a farm wagon, and all that, but they gave their owners and passengers the thrill that comes but once. The darn thing ran, anyway, and it was the noisy herald of the most sweeping changes in business and social life the world ever knew within the same length of time.

DESERVED REBUKE.

The stout gentleman we met in Michigan avenue at 12:30 of a sunny day asked: "Which way is south?" Hoping to interest him in solar mechanics, we replied: "At noon in Chicago, sir, the sun shines from the south and the shadows fall to the north." To which he replied: "Hell, I don't know what time it is."

SPIRITUAL COMFORT.

In Hometown [northwest Illinois] we once had a self-made veterinarian who did a little preaching on the side. He was a conscientious old soul and live stock owners liked him better than the college trained experts. "When you call in a college feller," said Jake Greete, "all he does is look the critter over and give you a prescription. But old Jeff, he looks her over and then stays right by her prayin' till the critter dies."

INTERPRETATION!

Drowsy roofs are waking, reaching up
Towards the sky to bring the brightness down
For an elixir in a loving cup
Of stimulant to rouse a torrid town.
Alleyways are animate with cats,
Mops are syncopated in a whirl,
Erasing dust of yesterday from flats
Inhabited by gentleman or churl.

A dreamer sees a myriad marigold
In lush celestial meadows he would harrow,
A miser senses Ophir in his hold,
A child is moved to feed a vagrant sparrow.
According to interpretation one
Is clarified or blinded by the sun.

A LITTLE PSYCHOLOGY.

As a child I lived for five years on a ranch in western Nebraska. I wore dungarees, which I despised then but adore now, rode the range in the annual roundups, and lived most of my waking hours in the open. I can hardly remember the time when one of my brothers, or a hired man, wasn't incapacitated with a broken bone. There were so many ways it could happen. I lived in horror of the day when I, too, must break a bone and wear that look of pain and misery the others had. Yet I prayed each night that it would happen soon, so I could get destiny paid off and begin to enjoy life. . . . My prayers were never answered, but after I came near to breaking a toe the other day when I stepped into a chair in my haste to turn the radio lower, I have changed my plea: may those prayers of the ranch days carry over in reverse and grant me, here in Chicago, immunity from broken bones.

CABBAGE HEADS AND STEM.

[Officer Guy Stem of Watseka halted an unlicensed truck loaded with cabbages. Go on:]

The officer got on the truck with the driver and proceeded through town, but the driver jumped off while the truck was running, and escaped. Trying to stop the truck, Officer Stem pulled the dumper instead of the emergency brake, and dumped all the cabbages in the street, near the corner of Fifth and Cherry. After reloading the truck he turned it over to Sherif Phil Brown.—Watseka Republican, via E. B. B.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

ATTACK TUBERCULOSIS PROMPTLY.

BECAUSE there has been a marked decrease in the death rate from pulmonary tuberculosis we must not become complacent or self-satisfied. The disease has not been conquered—far from it. It is still a menace to health, particularly during the period of life in which the individual exhibits the greatest activity. It may seem strange that after several centuries of study no panacea or specific remedy has been discovered. So far as is known no single drug or combination of drugs will destroy the tubercle bacillus and at the same time not prove injurious to the patient.

If early detection is possible—that is: before cavities have formed—recovery is the rule under a suitable program of enforced rest, fresh air, good food, and symptomatic treatment. Much depends on how readily the patient can be educated to manage his own case, for he is fundamentally the arbiter of his destiny. As long as disease exists we know that inflammation is present. This means REST if repair is to occur. Perhaps it is unfortunate that lung tuberculosis is unassociated with pain. If it were more attention would be paid to it.

All too often the word rest is but poorly understood. It is interpreted as anything from walking leisurely to confinement in bed. A fairly safe rule is that every patient should remain absolutely quiet for at least six weeks. Then, if there is no fever, if the heart rate is not raised, the patient may be permitted to take a few steps each day during the second six weeks. If no reaction follows—that is: no increase in temperature or other significant symptom—the amount of exercise [walking] may be increased—every second or third day—by a minute or two [not more] until a period of twenty minutes, divided into two equal parts [ten minutes each], is allowed.

The question of food is paramount. There is an old saying that the patient must eat once for himself, once for his germs, and once to gain weight. Lawrason Brown, in a recent article, calls attention to the statement which appeared in the London Lancet of nearly 100 years ago to the effect that if a certain well known British physician continued to feed his consumptive patients such food as beefsteak he would lay himself open to prosecution for malpractice.

The stuffing process, however, is neither necessary nor desirable. Plenty of good food is all that is required. There is some reason to believe that a diet that is high in vitamins C and D is of value. Air and sunshine are also factors of moment—the one [air] highly beneficial; the other [sunshine] definitly contraindicated.

A room with an adjacent open air porch so constructed that the bed may be rolled from one to the other, as circumstances demand, is an ideal arrangement. Sunlight is a circulatory stimulant and direct rays should not be allowed to contact the skin. Air baths are helpful and it is quite possible to acquire a fair tan from air exposure, even though not a single square inch of skin is reached by sunlight.

Disasters follow carelessness on the part of the victims of tuberculosis because of their failure to understand the nature of the infection. In fact, a large part of the physician's job is to explain over and over again, if need be, the behavior of the malady. Any one of good intelligence can prepare his own manual of conduct.

With more advanced cases, pneumothorax [collapse of the lung] enters the picture as an essential healing aid. But all of those afflicted will not respond equally well to this procedure, and surgery offers still further help in providing rest for the involved lung.

We must remember that tuberculosis is the most widespread of all infections. Each of us is exposed to it over and over again. If we do not harbor the bacilli we must thank—not our "lucky stars"—but the reserve fighting forces of our bodies which have been conserved through healthful living.

LUMP IN THROAT.

C. E. T. writes: I have been told that the feeling of a lump in the throat in the region of the Adam's apple is due to nervousness. There is no pain, but it is annoying and I must swallow often. I am tall, thin, and 29 years old.

REPLY.

Rule out all physical causes before you ascribe your condition to nervousness. This is important because an outpocketing of the esophagus [the tube that carries food to the stomach] may occur. Such an affair is called a diverticulum. The condition known as globus hystericus is nervous in origin and brings on repeated swallowing. One feels as though something had lodged in the throat that will not go down.

APPENDICITIS.

M. K. writes: Is it true that only acute and not chronic appendicitis is followed by rupture? Does chronic appendicitis eventually become acute?

REPLY.

Rupture of the appendix may occur whenever an abscess forms within it. A normal appendix may become inflamed and proceed to rupture. A chronic appendix may have suffered repeated attacks of irritation, no one of which was severe enough to be followed by pus formation. The very next attack may not quiet down as usual and may be followed by the gathering of pus and the breaking of the abscess into the abdominal cavity.

GOOD HYGIENE.

A. P. writes: I had tonsilitis about a year ago and since then I catch cold easily. I am 16 years old. Would cold vaccines help?

REPLY.

The best way to avoid colds is to maintain your resistance at a high level. This means plenty of rest, good food, avoidance of late hours, frequent bathing, careful attention to the bowels—in other words, good body hygiene.

Cold vaccine therapy is still in the experimental stage. It may help in your case if your tonsils are infected have them removed.

TWITCHING EYELIDS.

P. H. L. writes: For the past two weeks the lid of my left eye has been twitching spasmodically. I am subject to severe headaches when I am constipated. Could this have any bearing on the question?

REPLY.

This is probably a form of tic or habit spasm caused by a neurosis. Constipation is probably not a primary factor. One should think also of some irritation of the nerve governing the eyelid, which sometimes occurs with fatigue, strain, worry, overwork, etc.

PURE WATER.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—When Mr. Robert E. Garrigan states "the generally accepted standard for a public water is that it have a turbidity of less than one, according to turbidity tests used by water experts," is he trying to convince us that such a standard is required for water used for general purposes such as sprinkling our streets and lawns, or fighting fires? Or does he merely attempt to prove something we have known right along, namely, that Chicago water should be filtered for domestic use?

Certainly Chicago citizens desire a clear and clean water for these limited purposes, but many of them do not cherish the idea of spending some 20 million dollars only to start getting it within a restricted area. The plan of centralized filtration plants will cost millions upon millions in spite of Mr. Garrigan's unsupported statement that such water "will cost the taxpayer, as such, nothing, and will not increase rates more than 12 cents a month for the average family." The 12 cents a month estimate might possibly cover the cost of maintenance, exclusive of interest and depreciation, but where is the Santa Claus that will donate the plants, or the magician that will create them without cost?

Filtration of Chicago water is not a new problem. It is one that has been for years and is now being met successfully and economically by all those who really need or desire filtered water, namely, by the use of filtering equipment where it does the most good, right in the home or building, where it can be regulated and controled to meet individual needs. BROKEN PROMISES.

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 21.—Any man or woman who betrays a public trust forfeits the right to be reelected, whether it be for the presidency or any other public office.

President Roosevelt has betrayed a public trust. The people elected him on his promises to decrease taxes, to balance the budget, abolish useless commissions which he charged the previous administration with creating, and many other promises too numerous to mention.

He not only has not kept his promises but has increased taxes, created more commissions, increased the public debt over 12 billion dollars. And on this record he is asking the people to reelect him!

His defeat should be so overwhelming that it will serve as a lesson to future aspirants to any public office.

G. A. Althoff.

SUNNY JIM.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—I may only be a boy of 11 but I can tell you what I think of you. If you don't stop writing those awful things in your paper about the President I'm going to write President Roosevelt and have him kick you in your dirty slats. The only reason we take your paper is because we like to get news and yours is the only morning paper, and a darn sloppy one, too.

Jim Cummings.

WITHOUT BENEFIT OF WPA.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Today's Tribune carried a reprint from a Kane county newspaper under the title of "New Mill Stream." You should have told at the same time the story of the redemption of a foul stream in Fort Wayne, Ind., by civic minded citizens with the cooperation of the park commission, Men's Garden club, and other public spirited groups, without outside aid.

In Fort Wayne there was no WPA to crucify the city with their atrocities. A beautiful Japanese garden, now one of the show places of that enterprising city, rose from the banks of a foul, putrid stream which was not only an eyesore but an offense to the nostrils.

St. Charles, Ill., under the direction of a level headed mayor, made a charming trail leading from the main part of town to one of their naturally beautiful parks and other lanes along the Fox river, which would do credit to a master landscape architect.

Aurora, with WPA supervision and man power, has transformed the banks of the Fox river into a pretty picture with cemented cobblestones for accent, but has left acres and acres of giant ragweed growing profusely in and near its largest and prettiest park.

As has been aptly said, "Beauty is alone in the eye of the beholder," but boondoggling is boondoggling wherever it is committed. W. B. L.

IRONY OR OMEN?

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Walking to the street car from work every night I pass by the Julia C. Lathrop apartments-to-be at Diversey boulevard and Clybourn avenue.

These apartments, PWA project No. 1406, consist of a group of buildings on 33 acres of land, with altogether 975 flats supposedly to accommodate 3,900 persons and to be ready Jan. 1, 1937, for the new, happy tenants.

So far the area suggests an air raided section in war torn Spain, as only the concrete foundations, with their steel bar reinforcements pointing hither and thither, have been erected and are seen between the hills of excavated dirt and clay, now covered with weeds and thistles which have sprouted in profusion since the PWA gentlemen disappeared early in the summer.

The thing gives you a feeling of hopelessness——

But lo and behold! The other night when I passed by I noticed something which I had not seen before. Sunflowers, sunflowers by the million blanketed the dirt hills, peered through the cracks in the foundations, and mirrored their smiling faces in the pools of the flooded basements; sunflowers, the emblem of a "typical prairie state."

Is it the irony of fate or an omen, or both? John N. Rosen.

HIGH TAXES.

Plymouth, Ind., Sept. 16.—On account of high taxes on my property in Chicago they have taken about $35 out of an income of $75 a month on a store and flat at 6220 Cottage Grove avenue, thereby letting me live on about $1 a day, which is impossible. I am compelled to live out here.

As I am married and 65 years old and as that is my sole income, you can plainly see the injustice of the taxes to a Chicago family. W. J. Hayes.

THE MAP OF SQUANDERLAND.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 15.—I have copy of your Sunday issue of Sept. 13. The map, showing the amount of taxes paid by each of the forty-eight states and the amount of our money wasted and scattered as if by drunks, is the finest thing for educational purposes I have ever seen in the press.

Such a map and the explanatory page showing the distribution of the money for various AAA's and PWA's have required great work at much expense. Everybody ought to know it and take your paper. Send it to me daily for six months and give me the price by mail for it daily for a year. Fon Rogers.

MYSTERY UNRAVELED.

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 19.—I think I have solved the mystery of the slaughtering of all those pigs and hogs during this administration. It was to keep them from rooting up the green pastures which we are now living in. The imported barbed wire might not hold them.

TAX SALES.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Where and when are foreclosure sales held on Cook county delinquent 1933 taxes?

2. Is the property sold or only the judgment for the taxes involved?

3. Must the purchaser also pay the past due taxes for the succeeding years?

4. What is the procedure when there is already a judgment against the property for another debt of a business nature?

In the event the property is sold for taxes [5] what recourse is left for the original owner? T. J. L.

1. It is not clear whether you mean ordinary tax sales or foreclosure of the tax forfeitures. On the assumption that you mean the former, we suggest that you get in touch with the county clerk at the county building.

2. The purchaser does not automatically acquire a good title to the property, if that is what you mean to ask.

3. Yes, in order to acquire a title.

4. We advise you not to embark on such an enterprise without first employing an attorney.

5. He is allowed two years from a tax sale in which to redeem, if that is what you mean to ask. After the two years a tax deed will issue which will be a more serious cloud on the title. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

COUGHLIN FACES NEW REBUKE FOR ANTI-GOD SPEECH

Vatican Hits His Remark About Roosevelt.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A second Vatican "warning" to the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, American radio priest, was held a possibility tonight by prelates who pondered his public declaration that President Roosevelt was "anti-God."

Vatican prelates, studying Father Coughlin's remarks about the President of the United States, whose election he advocated in 1932, held they "could not be reconciled with the belief by authoritative Vatican circles that in every polemic, authorities should be respected."

The prelates recalled that the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, recently rebuked Father Coughlin after a political speech in which he termed the President a "liar."

Hits Destruction Policy.

Despite Coughlin's apologies after the "liar" appellation, Osservatore Romano held it was not proper for a priest to attack constituted authority in any nation.

Father Coughlin's "anti-God" definition of the President was made during a speech at Cincinnati last night, during which he said:

"The Bible commands, 'increase and multiply,' but Roosevelt says destroy and devastate, and therefore I call him anti-God and radical."

The priest also said he would urge "the use of bullets" if an "upstart dictator" voided the ballot.

The Vatican prelates said that although Osservatore Romano's previous rebuke of Coughlin was a newspaper criticism, nevertheless it reflected authoritatively the views of the Pope on the matter.

Continued personal attacks by Coughlin as a priest against the President of the United States were contrary to the pope's wishes, the prelates said.

Bishop Backs Coughlin.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Most Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Detroit, said today he agreed with Father Coughlin's advocacy of the "use of bullets" against "any upstart dictator."

"If Americans ever get to the point where they won't fight for their rights, they are doomed," said the white haired ecclesiastic, who is nearing his 70th birthday. "Father Coughlin was obviously answering a hypothetical question concerning a communist dictatorship — something which would be impossible here."

Bishop Gallagher, who is Coughlin's direct superior, made no direct comment on the priest's reference to President Roosevelt as "anti-God and radical," but said it was permissible for Father Coughlin to criticize the "policies" of the executive.

Criticism of the priest arises, the bishop said, because "somebody is looking for a chance to get Father Coughlin in bad."

"The Osservatore Romano has no authority over me," he added, asserting that the newspaper was not an official spokesman for the pope. That report must hvae come from that unnamed 'high American prelate' again. There never was a rebuke from the Vatican to Father Coughlin."

Coughlin "To Keep Going."

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Father Coughlin said tonight he expected no rebuke from the Vatican and planned "to keep going" the same as he has been.

"I'll keep on going just the same as I am," the priest said. "I am not going to call him [President Roosevelt] a liar. There are other words in the English language. I am not going to attack him personally, but objectively.

"I am not going on record as saying that he has done anything maliciously. I will say that I think he is a victim of those who have circumscribed him—Hopkins, Tugwell, and the rest of the litany of pinks."

Archbishop Flays Priest.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, archbishop of the Cincinnati archdiocese of the Roman Catholic church, issued a statement tonight condemning Father Coughlin's assertion that Roosevelt was "anti-God."

Archbishop McNicholas said "Father Coughlin knows the meaning of anti-God in its broad acceptation and the definite meaning now attached to it. I am making no statement for or against President Roosevelt, for or against the Republican, Democratic, or union parties, but I am insisting, as a public teacher of morality, that Father Coughlin transgressed bounds if he made the statement attributed to him—that President Roosevelt is anti-God."

He expressed a hope Father Coughlin would retract the statement.

6 Books with Their Locales Far from City

One Is a New Jalna Addition.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The African Witch," by Joyce Cary [Morrow, $2.50]. Published on Wednesday.

"Tare Harvest," by Eleanor Peters [Reynal & Hitchcock, $2.50]. Published two weeks ago.

"Balkan Monastery," by Stephen Graham [Stokes, $2.50]. Published in July.

"Madame Toussaint's Wedding Day," by Thad St. Martin [Little, Brown, $2]. Published in July.

"Midnight," by Julian Green [Harpers, $2.50]. Published three weeks ago.

"Whiteoak Harvest," by Mazo de la Roche [Little, Brown, $2.50]. Published yesterday.

HERE are six recent novels with backgrounds far removed from State and Madison streets. Darkest Africa, a Chilean valley, provincial France, Serbia, a gulf bayou, an Ontario countryside live in their pages.

Into the innermost depths of Nigeria the reader is taken in "The African Witch" and set down among a handful of white people and a country full of black. The whites are very colonial British, working hard at their games and their social life, the blacks very "ju-ju."

JOYCE CARY.

JULIAN GREEN.

The drama of colonial occupation is heightened by the presence in the town of a young Rimi prince, pretender to the emirship, the sole black man to have been to England and Oxford. He hopes to rule his people into civilization. His sister is the most powerful ju-ju priestess of the country. At a crucial moment she organizes a woman's war which would give a chuckle to any Sabine.

A Fertile Valley in Chile.

"Tare Harvest" takes the reader into a fertile valley in Chile, possessed [and as deeply possessing] by John Guilder and his sons and his daughter. He sees its lush beauties only as so much rich pasturage for his cattle. Its generosity breeds no open-heartedness in him. He is as cruel as the sharp peaked Andes in the distance.

The book opens with John Guilder's vigilante pursuit of Miguel, a Chilean peon who has stolen gold and then killed a man as he was being taken to the judge. Dramatically Miguel returns from his prison sentence to find his enemy the even more despicable thief of his neighbors' cattle, and when he is caught in the act of branding what is not his own the implacable Englishman kills Miguel with as little compunction as he would kill a tick.

When John Guilder's granddaughter falls in love with Miguel's son the plot becomes good mellerdrama. "Tare Harvest" is most interesting, not for the story it tells so much as for the picture it paints of a country most of us know only from guidebooks. Eleanor Peters [it is a pseudonym] was born in Buenos Aires of English parents and is now living in Australia. This is her first novel.

Wartime Serbia the Background.

Serbia in wartime is the background of "Balkan Monastery," primarily a moving record of the mind of children left to take care of themselves in those days of terror.

The heroine is a little girl of Bosnia, sent to school in Serbia—an orphan to all intents—during the war, who, with other children, are herded into a monastery. They finally are left to fend entirely for themselves and at last are kept alive by their nocturnal raids on the graves on which the peasants have placed food for the dead.

As one outlines the book it sounds almost unbearably grim. As one reads it, however, there is evident, vividly, the natural resiliency of the child in a crisis, the actual glee of children at certain upheavals, certain moments of strain unbearable to adults who realize the causes, results, implications, and connotations of the moment.

A Genre Book with a Chuckle.

Thad St. Martin's "Madame Toussaint's Wedding Day" belongs among the delicious "genre" novels. It chronicles a people and a background with a sort of tender chuckle. The people are the Cajuns of the bayous, the descendants of those dispossessed French immortalized in "Evangeline." Madame Toussaint's friends are the shrimpers of Le Chenlere Chien-Loup, where the houses are built on stilts to keep them out of the water and where only on a wedding day is a bath contemplated.

Madame Toussaint is the mother of seven lusty children, the owner of a shrimping boat, the Six Little Brothers [named a little hastily], and the widow of "défint" Toussaint, who was an old man when he married her, an orphan in service. To her, Toussaint was such a kindly and wise man that she feels sure that in heaven he must be "explaining to the Virgin things a woman should know."

This short, delightful book is the record of life on the bayou during her one forced day of idleness [for the women would gossip if she went shrimping on her wedding day]. The whole lusty life of the bayou lives in Thad St. Martin's pages. Probably no one day in any bayou's history could have produced so much drama and such varied scenes, but the device of picturing one day serves to record deliciously a whole "civilization."

Nothing Delicious About This One.

There is nothing delicious about Julian Green's "Midnight." It, like his previous books on strange psychologies in dour French provincial scenes, deals with a depressing, at times almost terrifying, physical background as well as black psychoses.

Julian Green has a genius for description of macabre subjects. He can invest the simplest scene with terror and make of horror a simplicity which is infinitly disturbing.

In "Midnight" he has chosen a group of half or wholly mad souls living strangely in a strange old house. The only apparently sane one of them all, the girl Elizabeth, is like a flower in a truffle field [constantly being uprooted by their little pigs of madness] until she falls in love and finally commits suicide.

The prose of "Midnight" is delicate and powerful and, just as writing, the novel is a remarkable setting down of words. But even less than in his previous books do the characters seem to be alive. They seem, rather, creations of a highly vivid and gifted imagination.

Characters Real and Alive.

The characters in "Whiteoak Harvest" are as real and alive as they have been in the six previous novels of the Whiteoak family which Mazo de la Roche began with "Jalna." Her record with these seven interlocking chronicles is almost unequaled in modern novel writing, for there is no one of them that is better or worse than the others. They preserve an amazingly even skill, proficiency, and reality.

There is a new Adeline in this book, a child of 4, who has all of the old Adeline's arrogance and lust for living that carried her into her 102d year as matriarch of the whole tribe.

A large settlement in Ontario, cut up in the course of time by the exigencies of debt but always dominated by the original vast house, Jalna, is the scene of "Whiteoak Harvest." The life is not unlike American farm life except that it combines, as few American farms do, the extravagances of an almost feudal life with vigorous farm work. Renny, nearing 50, again is the hero.

The quarrel between him and his wife, the dedication of young Wakefield to the priesthood, the return of Finch and his too possessive wife are the motivations of this last of the zestful Whiteoak chronicles. There is family fighting on every page, but family solidarity throughout.

The book closes with all difficulties conquered, which may be sad news for Miss de la Roche's countless delighted readers, for there seem to be no troubles left for the future. However, young Wake, who looks as if he ought to be in Hollywood and who doffs his monk's robe as the book closes, and the child Adeline are characters bound for trouble, so we may hope for other Whiteoak family chronicles.

Col. McCormick Details Press Freedom Fight

Reviews History from License Days.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The subject of a free press, from the earliest days of royal license in England through the code making era of NRA, is reviewed in a book, "The Freedom of the Press," to be published tomorrow. It is by Col. Robert R. McCormick, chairman of the committee on the freedom of the press of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

"Let it be plain to the uninitiated," Col. McCormick writes, "that newspapers have no rights, and claim no rights, not guaranteed to all citizens; that the freedom of the press is not a special privilege of the newspapers but a right of all citizens."

Col. McCormick explains that in early days newspapers were referred to as the "newspaper press." Usage abbreviated this to either "newspapers" or "the press," so that "in consequence, after censorship and its kindred evils had long been overcome, a mistaken impression arose that the freedom of the press applied exclusively to newspapers."

"Freedom of the press" is defined by Col. McCormick as "the freedom of that press which had been enslaved, and that was every press and every use of every press."

Summarizing the struggle to obtain and safeguard freedom of the press, Col. McCormick says:

"During the three hundred years from the invention of the printing press to our revolutionary war, every method that the ingenious mind of man could devise was used to suppress its freedom. First, licenses were required to operate printing presses. Then censorship was invoked. After that it was made a crime to criticize any function of government. Then power was put in the hands of the royal judges to declare any utterance by a newspaper a criminal libel and to punish the editor with torture or with death. And, when all these efforts had been overcome or had proven abortive, excessive taxation was imposed upon the newspapers of England, which suppressed them for more than one hundred years."

"In our own generation," he adds, "liberty of utterance has been attacked, and in its defense editors have been put in jeopardy of ruin, imprisonment, and assassination."

Construing some of the activities of the senate lobby committee headed by Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.] last winter as an effort to intimidate certain newspapers, the publisher says:

"The committee and its agents took forcible possession of the offices and houses of citizens, rifled their personal belongings, read their private correspondence, stole their telegrams, and, it is charged, opened their mail in the postoffice and tapped their telephone wires. The victims were haled to Washington and subjected to disgusting abuse by the senators, all the while standing in fear of assault by the plug-uglies paid from the committee's secret fund."

When directors of the American Newspaper Publishers' association condemned the acts and recommended civil suits for damages, Col. McCormick says, "after one or two hysterical speeches the committees have withdrawn into sulky desuetude."

Reviewing insistence of the publishers upon inserting into their code a clause specifically refusing to waive constitutional guarantees of freedom of the press, he says:

"If the press had surrendered its freedom it could not have exposed these tyrannies [of NRA] and rescued their victims."

DOCTORS STUDY PATIENTS CURED IN CANCER CLINIC

Success of Radium in Treatment Told.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

What radium or x-ray can do for cancer was demonstrated dramatically in the Exhibition hall of the Palmer house yesterday when twenty-three former cancer patients appeared in a series of exhibits before doctors, radiologists and x-ray department heads in general hospitals over the country. They were all attending a post-graduate course sponsored by the tumor clinic of Michael Reese hospital.

"This is the answer to the question, 'Can cancer be cured?'" a visiting doctor said to Dr. Max Cutler, director of the clinic.

On either side of the hall, in booths marked "skin," "brain," "floor of mouth," "tongue," and so on, indicating the location of the now absent cancer, sat the patients. The doctors went about, reached for tongue depressors, examined mouths, glanced at case histories illumined in shadow boxes near by and talked to the patients.

Coutard Remembers Patient.

Dr. Henri Coutard, noted chief of the division of x-ray therapy for cancer in the Curie institute, Paris, a lecturer during the week's course, showed interest in a 61 year old patient whom he remembered from a previous visit to Chicago more than a year ago.

The patient is Gust Economopulos of South Chicago, who received his last radium treatment in September, 1933, and can be considered definitly cured, doctors said. He had an advanced case of cancer in the epiglottis.

"Clinic patients always get the best of it," one of the doctors said to Dr. Cutler. "If he had been a rich banker you wouldn't have dared give such drastic treatment. And he wouldn't have been alive today."

Boy Lives to See Again.

Under the sign "Brain" sat a 9 year old boy, with his mother sitting by and beaming upon the inquiring doctors. The boy, William Germein, of 6746 South Sangamon street, is an unusual case, it was said. He was admitted to Michael Reese hospital on Dec. 4, 1935, in a state of coma. He was blind and near death, physicians said.

A surgeon explored his brain and found a tumor of the cerebellum, a cancer known as meduilobiastoma. It could not be removed because it involved vital organs. A tiny section was removed for examination to determine the exact type of cancer it was, the wound was closed, and William was treated with radium twice a day for eighty days. Meanwhile he began reading comic strips again, and now his eyesight has fully returned, he has been on a fishing trip, and is going to school.

Cured; He Cheers Others.

One of the most cheerful of the ex-victims of cancer was a vigorous white-haired man, a superintendent of a loop building, pronounced cured of what was a serious cancer of the mouth. He was treated by means of the recently perfected radium moulds for the interior of the mouth, with some radium "seeds" inserted in what appeared to be dangerous areas. He has been free of disease for almost two and a half years.

"I would travel across the country to tell some person who had cancer not to despair, but to hope with reason," he said.

The exhibit was arranged by Dr. Louis Rosenthal, Dr. Henry L. Jeffe and other members of Dr. Cutler's staf in the tumor clinic.

The course will be concluded today.

SIX BOYS HOME AFTER SURPRISE RIDE ON A TRAIN

Six boys accidentally locked in an Illinois Central railroad cattle car and carried to Rockford Thursday night were at home yesterday, grimy but none the worse for their adventure.

The boys told the police they were playing in the car Thursday afternoon when a switch engine in coupling the car bumped its door shut. The door locked automatically. At Rockford, on the train's run to Omaha, the boys attracted attention of railroad men, who liberated them and sent them back home on another train.

The boys are Daniel and Edward Spurr, 13 and 14 years old, 3300 South Damen avenue; Thomas Pawloski, 10 years old, 1857 West 31st street; Daniel McCleod, 14 years old, 3404 Archer avenue; Joseph Danihel, 12, who lives near 35th street and Ashland avenue but was uncertain of his address, and Earl Bray, 13 years old, 1834 West 31st street.

TWO MUSK OXEN ARRIVE TODAY AT BROOKFIELD ZOO

Two young musk oxen, a bull and a cow, which were captured by an expedition headed by Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, arctic explorer, in northeastern Greenland recently, will arrive from New York at the Chicago Zoölogical park in Brookfield today.

The expedition under Capt. Bartlett was undertaken in June after being commissioned by the Chicago Zoölogical society. Robert Bean, assistant director, who met the rare animals when they landed in the east from Greenland aboard the schooner the Morrissey, declared that they were not much bigger than good sized dogs.

A rare sickle billed bird of paradise, only one of which is now on exhibit in a zoo, will be among a large shipment of unusual birds to arrive at the zoo within a few weeks from the estate of Jean Delacour of Cleres, France, one of the world's most noted collectors of rare birds, Mr. Bean announced yesterday. Delacour will sail with the birds on Oct. 6.

DR. TOWNSEND CHARGES RADIO BARRED TO HIM

Plans to Attack New Deal from Mexico.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend will begin negotiations today with two Mexican radio stations for a series of "educational" broadcasts on his pension plan in which his purpose is to attack the Democratic national administration. He charges that the administration is preventing him from purchasing broadcasting time on Chicago stations.

Dr. Townsend yesterday canceled a broadcast scheduled for last night over WENR, which is owned by the National Broadcasting company. He said the station refused to allow him to mention politics or to appeal to his followers for funds. In an interview Dr. Townsend said he had been unable to meet the requirements of stations WLS and WJJD also.

"The attitude of WENR toward me and the Townsend national recovery plan was distinctly one which made me feel that I was not wanted," he said. "They were very touchy on my politics and particularly over any reference to Roosevelt."

Station Denies Charges.

P. G. Parker, assistant to the vice president of the National Broadcasting company and manager of station WENR, said that Dr. Townsend's speech was rejected because it contained a solicitation of funds.

"The solicitation of funds is contrary to the policies of the National Broadcasting company except in the cases of the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, and the local Community Chest," he said.

"The National Broadcasting company is willing to allow Dr. Townsend to speak over its stations providing that the speech conforms to the policies of NBC."

Townsend Blames Democrats.

Dr. Townsend said yesterday he believed the opposition from radio stations in this country to his speeches came from the Democratic national headquarters.

"I have made some speeches telling how I thought the situation was going in Washington," he said, "and apparently the Democrats thought if I kept going it would be very harmful."

He called attention to the fact that Earl Browder, communist candidate for President, has been allowed time on the air.

"But Browder favors Roosevelt, according to the newspapers," he said.

"Father Coughlin is having trouble getting radio time, too, but then he is also against Roosevelt," added Dr. Townsend, who returned yesterday from a two weeks vacation in South Dakota.

The Mexican stations which Dr. Townsend is planning to use, XEPN and XELO at Piedras Negras, have a total capacity of 150,000 watts. A letter was to be sent today from a Chicago advertising agency, representing Dr. Townsend, asking for rates on two half hour programs for fifty-two weeks on Sunday and Thursday from 8:30 to 9 p. m. central standard time. According to Dwight Bunnell, who is in charge of radio at the Townsend headquarters, these stations can be heard throughout the United States.

It is planned to make transcriptions of Dr. Townsend's talks in Chicago and send them to Mexico.

Farley Says "Ridiculous."

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Democratic Chairman James A. Farley tonight described as "ridiculous" a charge made by Dr. Francis E. Townsend in Chicago that a radio station refused to sell him time on the air because of opposition "from Democratic headquarters."

"We haven't tried to keep anybody off the air," Farley said.

Air Line Cuts Flying Time from Montreal to Chicago

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 25.—New schedules announced by Canadian Colonial airways today, effective Monday, will cut the flying time between Montreal and Chicago to just over 6 hours and between Montreal and Vancouver, B. C., to less than 24 hours.

MOST SUBURBS KEEP DAYLIGHT TIME; FEW CHANGE TOMORROW

Because virtually all of the suburbs and most of the surrounding towns in the Chicago area are maintaining their time schedules to conform to the city's daylight time until after the Nov. 3 referendum, commuters and businesses will be spared tomorrow the usual annual switch from daylight saving to central standard time.

The city now is on daylight time by order of the city council. To permit a popular expression on the question there will be a referendum at the November election to determine whether the citizens prefer to remain on daylight time the year round, to return to the combination of central standard and daylight time, or to adopt, permanently, central time.

All the suburbs of the north shore as far as Waukegan will keep their clocks set this year with Chicago's until after the referendum, as will the western villages and most of the towns to the south and southeast.

Some of the cities in the metropolitan area, notably Joliet, Aurora and Elgin, will return at 2 a. m. tomorrow to central standard time, but suburban trains will continue to operate on Chicago time schedules.

Beginning Monday, the principal commodity and security markets in Chicago will open and close an hour later than at present.

To conform to trading hours on the New York exchange, the Chicago Stock exchange will change trading hours from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. to 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

The Board of Trade will open at 10:15 and close at 2 p. m. The trading session at present is 9:30 a. m. to 1:15 p. m.

The Mercantile exchange will change trading hours from 9:15 a. m. to noon to 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Dr. Van Haltern Elected Head of Proctologists

Dr. Guy W. Van Haltern of Dallas, Tex., was elected president of the American College of Proctology at the organization's 13th annual convention in the Stevens hotel yesterday. Other officers elected were: Dr. John L. Mace, Hastings, Neb., first vice president; Dr. T. C. Brown, Osage City, Kas., second vice president; Dr. H. C. Montague, Muskogee, Okla., third vice president, Dr. Delmer L. Davis, Los Angeles, was reelected secretary and treasurer.

CURIE DAUGHTER RESIGNS POST IN FRENCH CABINET

Action Is Ascribed to Technical Dispute.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Mme. Irene Joliot-Curie, daughter of the discoverers of radium and herself a scientist, resigned today as undersecretary of scientific research in the French cabinet.

Her resignation was ascribed to "technical differences with the government." She was one of three women in the cabinet of Premier Leon Blum, the first to admit women.

As ardent a Socialist as she is a scientist, Mme. Joliot-Curie accepted the post because of her party affiliations and her conviction it would enable her to further her scientific work. She and her husband, Prof. Frederick Joliot-Curie, hoped to use the income in seeking an artificial substitute for radium.

Nobel Prize Winners.

The Joliot-Curies discovered a way to make atoms of inert elements radioactive by bombarding them with alpha rays projected in a tube by millions of volts of electricity and won the Nobel prize in 1935 for their discovery.

They are at work now with experiments seeking to make radioactive elements with strong enough rays to be used in medicine.

Though both are Socialists, they rarely attend meetings, being virtually recluses of science and frequently working many hours at a stretch in their modest laboratory.

Mme. Joliot-Curie, in her late thirties, avoids feminine thrills, but watches over the studies and play of their children, a girl aged 9 and a boy of 4.

Aided Mother in Work.

Mme. Joliot-Curie's parents discovered radium when she was a small child and she helped her mother carry on the work after her father's death.

Dr. Joliot went to work in the Curie laboratory, fell in love with his co-worker, and they were married. They combined their names so that their children could perpetuate the name of radium's discoverers.

DIES WHILE BUILDING COTTAGE.

Felix Zawistowski, 68 years old, 4111 Gunderson avenue, Stickney, died of a heart attack yesterday while working on a frame cottage he was erecting at 42d street and Scoville avenue in the suburb.

JURORS ASSAIL GOV. LEHMAN IN GEOGHAN TRIAL

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Members of the extraordinary grand jury in Brooklyn denounced Gov. Herbert Lehman today for his failure to remove District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Kings county on the charges that he demonstrated gross negligence in his investigation and prosecution of the Druckman murder case.

The charges were preferred by the extraordinary grand jury and dismissed by the governor after a fourteen day hearing at Albany.

In a scathing letter addressed to the governor and signed by seventeen members of the grand jury, it is charged that the governor "obscured the facts" in his decision dismissing the charges against Geoghan. Mr. Lehman also was severely criticized for failing to review the evidence in his decision, the grand jurors charging that in reaching his conclusions the governor neglected to mention the salient facts in the case, thus misleading the public.

The text of the letter, twenty-three typewritten pages in length, was made public this afternoon by Special Prosecutor Hiram C. Todd after the members of the grand jury had sat for two hours in Brooklyn.

The letter was signed by seventeen of the twenty-three members of the grand jury—all that were present today, it was explained. Mr. Todd, as counsel to the grand jury, presented the charges against Geoghan.

World Reaction to Britain's Sea Expansion Told

Oedipus Theme Again Rouses Comment.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON—[Special Correspondence.]—"The Fairest Flower in England's Garland" [Philip Allan] is the title given by Mr. G. E. Manwaring to a book which is as original in its theme as it is interesting in its treatment. Mr. Manwaring, delving into naval history, in which he is expert, has sought to show by reference to all sorts of old documents [including state papers] how other nations regarded the first rise of England to sea power under Henry VIII. and later sovereigns; and a very fascinating job he has made of it.

To essays upon this theme he has added others of kindred interest, including one, which has attracted much attention, upon Parliament Joan, an earlier Florence Nightingale, who tended the sick and wounded in time of war; and his book is really novel and informative.

While Mr. Priestley's "They Walk in the City"* and Mr. Brett Young's "Far Forest" lead all novels of the day in England, much talk has been aroused and will be aroused by the theme of Mr. Gerald Bullett's "The Snare of the Fowler" [Dent]. This theme is one familiar in Greek tragedy, and is nothing less than that of a marriage between a man and his own mother.

The book has been praised and attacked, the attacks being based upon the theme and the praise upon the author's skill; and discussion continues. Mr. Bullett is a sincere artist, long a critic and for some years well known as a novelist, first as a creator of the Wellsian character, Egg Pandervill, then as collaborator with Mr. Priestley in "I'll Tell You Everything," and lastly as the author of that ingenious novel of a murder, "The Jury."

"Roosevelt Red Record" Newest Dilling Volume

"The Roosevelt Red Record and Its Background," by Elizabeth Dilling [published by the author], assails the Roosevelt administration's acts, appointees, and aims as communistic in intent. In 1934 the author published "The Red Network," which listed as dangerous "Reds" many of the men and women whose work and words are discussed in this book.

JEWS ASSEMBLE IN SYNAGOGUES FOR YOM KIPPUR

Rabbi Mann Addresses Throng at Sinai.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The solemnity of Yom Kippur, or day of atonement, settled over Chicago's Jewish community last night as congregations quietly assembled in synagogues heard the devotional tones of the hymn of repentence, Kol Nidre.

But repentance to the Jew, according to Dr. Louis L. Mann, as he addressed a Yom Kippur throng at Sinai temple, 4600 South Park way, has unique social significance.

Means Moral Progress.

"Repentance means moral progress," declared Rabbi Mann. "With the exception of the Jew, the ancient world did not know of the idea of progress. The Greeks, with the exception of the Ionian physicists, left no trace of such an idea. The ancient Romans agreed with Lucretius: 'All things are always the same.'

"But the Jew believed in progress because perfectibility of man lay at the heart of Jewish ethics. The atonement is a moral goal. The idea of Messiah in ancient Israel was not a glorified past, as among the Greeks, but a transfigured future through progress."

Paradoxes of Progress.

Rabbi Mann then cited paradoxes produced by progress.

"Through science we live longer, but through maladjusted economics we make a living a shorter time.

"We have witnessed a multiplication of occupations, yet a doleful increase of unemployment.

"We crush children with labor, and crush adults because they have no labor.

"We have larger social units and less social unity. More protection in armament; less security for peace. The war to crush militarism resulted in crushing us by and through militarism."

Moral Development Lags.

Rabbi Mann declared that such paradoxes prove that society can go backward at the same time it makes progress. He explained that going backward and forward at the same time is possible because progress in physical power has not been paralleled by moral development.

More than 500 refugees from Germany attended special services in the Emil Hirsch center, next door to Sinai.

WILLIAM HORLICK OF MALTED MILK FAME DEAD AT 90

Long Known for His Philanthropies.

Racine, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—William Horlick, founder and president of the Horlick Malted Milk corporation, died at his home here today of heart disease. He was 90 years old.

The manufacturer had been suffering from a heart ailment for some time, but suddenly took a turn for the worse two weeks ago. A heart specialist from Chicago was called to his bedside last Saturday.

Surviving him are his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Mabel Sidley, and two sons, A. J. Horlick and William Horlick Jr., all of Racine.

Knighted by King Haakon.

Mr. Horlick was widely known for his philanthropies. King Haakon of Norway knighted him for the aid he extended to Norwegian explorers and scientists, particularly to the polar expeditions of Capt. Roald Amundsen, and the research of Dr. Carl Lumholz. He also aided Admiral Richard E. Byrd's polar expeditions.

He donated to Racine the site and adjoining grounds for the William Horlick High school, Horlick park, and Horlick athletic field. He set up scholarships to aid students and gave $150,000 to St. Luke's hospital for a maternity unit.

Born in England in 1846.

Born in Gloucestershire, England, on Feb. 23, 1846, Mr. Horlick came to the United States in 1869. He first settled in Chicago and came to Racine in 1875.

Although he engaged in the manufacture of food in Chicago, he did not originate his famous malted milk until he came to Racine. Then he founded his extensive plant which is a replica of an old English manor and is almost completely covered with ivy. Beautiful lawns, curving driveways and archways surround it.

WOMAN, 80, DEFIES BANDITS IN RAID ON HOME; GET $50

An 80 year old woman defied four bandits in her home at 7553 Calumet avenue last night and caused them to flee. She is Mrs. Catherine Nielson, 80 years old, and lives with her son-in-law and daughter, Mrs. Charles Amberg. Amberg's mother, Mrs. Lena Amberg Dewey, 82, and other relatives live on the second floor.

Mrs. Nielson was alone when the robbers appeared at the front door. One asked for Amberg and when told he was not at home forced his way into the apartment. He seized Mrs. Nielson, forced her into a chair, placed his hand across her mouth, and warned her she would be killed if she made an outcry. His three companions then came in and began searching the house.

Undaunted by the threats of the men, two of whom she knew were armed, Mrs. Nielson relied on a ruse. She pretended she was fainting. The robber holding her relaxed his grip. Then, with surprising agility, she leaped from the chair and ran out the door to the street, calling for help. Her cries were heard by Miss Elizabeth Amberg, 53, Amberg's sister, upstairs. She called police. The bandits hastily finished their search, getting $50, and then fled.

Y., in 1893, and the Chicago-Kent College of Law two years later. In 1896, after an appointment in the Chicago customs office, he was appointed assistant city corporation counsel. He later returned to the private practice of law.

In Chicago Mr. Shepard lived at 999 Lake Shore drive.

RELIEF WORKER SENT TO PRISON IN FOOD SWINDLE

Hector Pena, 37 years old, former supply clerk in the Lawndale station of the relief commission, was convicted of forging and cashing relief food requisitions yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Rudolph Desort. Judge Desort overruled a motion for a new trial and sentenced Pena, whose home is at 1305 South Central Park avenue, to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary.

The total of the peculations of Pena and two accomplices was about $500. Prosecutors charged Louis De Rose, a grocer now serving a Bridewell sentence for his part in the swindle, with falsely certifying that he had delivered goods to the persons named in orders forged by Matthew Mertz and Pena, and honored by Pena in his capacity as a relief commission employé. Mertz served a one year sentence in the Bridewell.

Pena was indicted in March, 1934, but was a fugitive until two months ago, when he surrendered for trial.

24th Powwow Planned Today at Onwentsia

Indian Bonnets Will Mark Traditional Event.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOR the twenty-fourth time in twenty-five years the members of the Onwentsia who are over 30 years of age will gather at the club this afternoon for the annual powwow. The only time since this "get-together" was inaugurated that it hasn't been held in the early fall was during one year when we were at war. It is a two day celebration and to carry out the Indian atmosphere the members and guests—each member may bring three guests—will wear war paint and feathers at the Feast of the Braves tonight.

The name of the club in Lake Forest, which for forty-one years has been a center of smart social activity on the north shore, was chosen by Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, who pored over the Indian legends of this part of the country to find something appropriate and out of the ordinary as a title for the second golf club in Chicagoland. The Chicago Golf in Wheaton was the first. Onwentsia is an Indian word for country, and all of the members today are glad that Mr. Chatfield-Taylor, who now lives in Santa Barbara, was able to persuade his fellow members to adopt the euphonious Indian title instead of a less distinctive and more stereotyped name such as some of the conservatives of that time wanted.

Golf and tennis will occupy the time of the powwow celebrants this afternoon and tomorrow morning and trophies will be awarded the winners of the events. Thomas A. Connors is chairman of the powwow committee, which is determined to make this year's a real "wow." And to make sure that the dinner tonight will be entertaining Mr. Connors and his confrères have persuaded Samuel T. Chase to be toastmaster and Wallace C. Winter to give a talk.

Most of the Lake Forest wives whose husbands will be powwowing tonight will have "hen" parties with bridge or the movies as after dinner entertainment, and among the hostesses will be Mrs. Donald Welles and Mrs. Champ Carry.

Debutantes to Attend Party at Shoreacres.

Some of the debutantes and their beaux and a few of the young marrieds will attend a gay party this evening at the Shoreacres club, where Mr. and Mrs. James B. Douglas are entertaining at a dinner-dance for their niece, Miss Anne Winston. Miss Winston, daughter of the Farwell Winstons, will be one of the season's most fêted buds, since many of her relatives and some of her parents' friends are planning parties for her.

Her cousins, the Hampden Winstons, are giving a dinner-dance next Saturday on the roof of the Sherman hotel. Their guests will be limited to members of the debutante set. Miss Winston and Miss Betty Keith are to be the special guests at a dinner-dance the Lester Armours and the Robert A. Gardners will give on Oct. 30 at the Racquet club. Just the debutantes and their beaux will be invited to this party, but no one who receives an invitation will refuse it, for Mr. and Mrs. Armour and Mr. and Mrs. Gardner are noted hosts and always give "bang-up" parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keith and their daughter, and the Winstons and Miss Ann will move into Chicago Nov. 1 to stay through the December debutante whirl. Each family has taken an apartment at the Ambassador East.

Miss Annie May Henry, debutante daughter of the Huntington B. Henrys, also will have many parties given for her during the fall and winter. Mr. and Mrs. Henry and their debutante are moving from Lake Forest to their town apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive on Oct. 5. Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne and their debutante, Miss Narcissa Thorne, will not move in from the country until the 10th or 15th of the month, depending on the weather. The Thornes each year give a Holloween party at their Lake Forest house, and this fall with a debutante for whom to entertain, if they carry out their usual program the party should be especially gay. Halloween falls on a Saturday night this year, the night after the Armour-Gardner dinner-dance.

Parties for Dorothy Bard and Mr. Derry Planned.

Their many friends and relatives are planning a number of parties for Miss Dorothy Bard and Joshua D. Derry before their wedding in Highland Park next Saturday. Miss Bard's two grandmothers, Mrs. Anna M. Decker and Mrs. George M. Bard, already have entertained for her, and so have Hugh Seyfarth and John H. Harmon Jr. and two of Miss Bard's bridesmaids, Miss Dania and Miss Mary Mavor, who gave a dinner last Saturday at the Exmoor club.

Yesterday Miss Jean Williams gave a pantry shelf shower at the Exmoor club, and this evening Miss Ann Mills will give a highball party before the harvest home party at the Exmoor club. Tomorrow evening Miss Madeline and Miss Mae Bliss will entertain at cocktails at their home in Highland Park.

Miss Elizabeth Archer will give a luncheon and recipe shower Tuesday at the Westmoreland club, and Wednesday evening Miss Marian Bard, the bride's sister, will be hostess at the spinster dinner at home.

The bridal dinner will be given by Miss Bard's parents, the Francis Norwood Bards, on Friday evening, also at home, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Bard, the bride's uncle and aunt, will give a luncheon for the bridal party and the immediate families at their home in Highland Park the day of the wedding.

F. P. Hamiltons Jr. Back from Honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Hamilton Jr. [Jean O'Brien] arrived in Winnetka last Monday to spend a week with her parents, the Howard Vincent O'Briens, on their way to their future home in Omaha from a wedding trip to Europe. They landed in New York on the Queen Mary on Labor day and visited in the east before coming here.

Many of Mrs. Hamilton's friends are entertaining informally at luncheons and dinners for her and her young husband. The Hamiltons went to see "The Night of January 16" night before last in a family party and Mr. O'Brien was chosen as a juror for the evening's performance. He and the other eleven men, among them Judge Richardson, Ralph M. Shaw, Nelson L. Barnes, Louis C. Sudler, Henry L. McIntyre, and William W. Miller, returned a verdict of not guilty. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Sudler, who are just at home from a European trip; his mother, Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler, and Judge Richardson dined with the Shaws before going on to the theater.

Mrs. McIntyre, the former Winifred Wheeler, now has returned to their Dearborn parkway residence with their infant son. The McIntyres have not made any plans for their son's christening, although it is not likely that the ceremony will be postponed as long as his mother's was, for she was not christened until a month before her marriage. Six or seven months seems the usual age now for the ceremony—Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Woods' daughter, who is just 7 months, was baptized on Thursday at St. Chrysostom's.

Honored at Dinner

Mrs. Robert R. McCormick gave a small dinner last night for Mme. Ivanenko, who is her guest, at her home in Wheaton and tomorrow night Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson will entertain at supper for the visitor at the Chicago Golf club, following the first formal hunt of the season by the Du Page Hunt, of which Mrs. McCormick is the M. F. H.

North Side Has 2 Interesting Art Exhibitions

Photographic Portraits and Oils Are Shown.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two most unusual exhibitions are current in the north end of town. Ingeborg Christiansen has a stunning group of portraits in oil hanging at the Drake hotel and Helen Balfour Morrison is showing a remarkable series of photographic studies of famous Americans in the O'Brien gallery, 673 North Michigan avenue.

Miss Christiansen is one of Chicago's most noted portrait painters. She has a delicious color sense and a feeling for composition that make her portraits delightful in themselves, aside from their likenesses. She paints children in fascinating fashion.

The little girl in the old fashioned gown and the little girl in her pink ballet dress will live long in the memory of those who see them. She is successful with older persons, too and many of her adult portraits are rarely fine.

Miss Christiansen has begun to paint a little portrait, one suitable in size to any wall, and this fresh approach to a serious canvas is being enthusiastically received. The several little portraits in the show are among the most charming things shown. A sketch, still unfinished, of Mrs. Jean Lloyd of Winnetka is amusingly like. It is a charming scrap of portraiture, enticingly alive.

The photographic portraits by Miss Morrison in the O'Brien gallery raise this type of camera work to a higher level than it has been our good fortune to meet with before. There is an imperative artistic quality about the studies that one feels immediately.

Miss Morrison has been fortunate in her subjects. She has captured most of the brightest lights which burn in and about Chicago. In the exhibit hang portraits of John Storrs, Dr. James Breasted, Frank Lloyd Wright, Dr. Frederick Stock, Director Robert B. Harshe, John T. McCutcheon, Ivan Le Lorraine Albright, the late Jane Addams, Helen Hayes [who was here last summer on an unpleasant errand], Amelia Earhart, Gertrude Stein, Ebba Sundstrom, Harold Ickes, and Carter Harrison.

The group of Negro prints from the "Sugar Hill and String Town" collection is splendid. The name of the collection is no finer than the photographs it includes. Miss Morrison has done a colored folk saga that every one should see. In fact, the entire exhibit is so good no one should miss it. It will continue to Oct. 3.

WEDDINGS

Mrs. Michael Rosenberg announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Hazel Bernice, to Dr. William James Tannenbaum, which will take place on Sept. 29. Dr. Tannenbaum and his bride will be at home at the Ambassador West after Oct. 20.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Cara Masland Kesser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wister Kesser of Germantown, Pa., to Edward James Pomfret of Overbrook, Pa., on Sept. 25 in Philadelphia. The bride, who is a graduate of the Gardner school in New York, is a direct descendant of John Kesser, one of the early German settlers in Cook county, and a large land owner in Chicago and Joliet.

Good Morning!

Somebody loves us!

This nice, warm, comfortable assurance will accompany American movie fans as they leave the theater where they have been watching "My American Wife" unreel, arousing the most cordially reciprocative feelings toward inhabitants of lands across the sea.

Many films of the sort would be bound to increase international amity. Which is, possibly, a thought for patriotic producers to browse over.

"My American Wife" adapted from Elmer Davis' original story, has a rich, "Ruggles of Red Gap"-ian flavor. It is the tale of a western heiress who, egged on by her socially ambitious mamma who is tired of being snubbed by the elite of Smelter City, gets herself a count and who, to quote from a press sheet "finds she's roped a cowboy."

Count Ferdinand "von und zu" Reidenach is handsome. His manners have a continental polish. But at heart he's just a yearner for the great open spaces and devoutly grateful to the little woman who has made it possible for him to become a prairie flower.

And so the young man comes west with his bride, to the delight of the new countess, her mamma, her papa and her uncles—and the disgust of her grandfather, "Old Timer" Lafe Cantillon, who thinks it's a dang disgrace that Mary couldn't have picked herself a local boy.

But what a surprise Ferdy hands Grandpa! He may be a turriner, but to all intents and purposes he's just a chip off the old Cantillon block, and it's not long before he and Grandpap are cronies of the first water with Old Timer aiding and abetting the newcomer to avoid an irritating rash of social events that has broken out in his honor.

This sly collaboration, plus the fact that the new and flourishing prairie flower grows wilder every hour, sets the marital kettle boiling furiously—and I hope I've interested you enough in the Reidenachs "von and zu" to send you skedaddling over to the Chicago—where further insight into their affairs is to be had.

Seldom will you see a more intelligently assembled cast.

Fred Stone, looking most unlike Fred Stone in his luxuriant mustachios, gives a highly human and amusing portrayal of Old Timer Cantillon. Ann Sothern is an adorable Mary. Francis Lederer fairly piles on the cnarm as Count Reidenach. I love his exuberance—don't you? And he does have such a sensitive "feel" for the demands of any rôle he plays.

Billie Burke contributes a characteristic study of the fluttery mamma. Ernest Cossart plays Ferdy's valet with sense and a nice twinkle. You'll like all of the players I'm sure.

If you don't get a real kick from "My American Wife," I declare I won't know what to think of you.

See you tomorrow.

Nonwrinkling Velvet Thrills Fall Shoppers

Opens New Possibilities to Travelers, Workers.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Crush resistant velvet . . . the smash hit of the new season. Velvet in every imaginable color, in lovely midnight blacks and deep blues, velvet in luscious wine red tones, in tawny molten gold, in prune, mustard, green, dreg of wine, in cold clear blues, perfect for blondes or redheads, in subtle off-shade of green, gray, purple, and yellow, and every inch of the stuff fully guaranteed to pack in the tightest bag without a wrinkle.

Good practical magic this, and even the scoffers remain to add their praise to the storm of plaudits. Now every one can dress in velvet. Tailored street clothes, simple but knowingly cut and designed, use this trick new uncrushable velvet.

Definitly new and dashing two piece suits, the jacket with the snappiest of flaring short peplums is made of this new velvet. It wears like the wool of a small boy's suit. And what fun it is to wear velvet at last without any hint of the former objectionable qualities. Travel sedately but distinctively in stone gray velvet in either two or three piece ensembles. They stay unruffled, unwrinkled after hours on a train or weeks of sightseeing. Business girls wear this new stuff for the starkly unadorned dresses that are almost a daytime uniform, for it comes in brown [a dozen different tones], in handsome greens, in deep rusty hennas, and the usual selection of navy sapphire blues and black.

Swagger street coats also steal spotlights when made of anti-wrinkle new velvet. There are bright, vivid shades to contrast wool frocks and suits.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

How to be as dainty in the wool frocks of autumn as you were in the crisp linens of summer? It's easy, if you use a vanishing cream that stops perspiration.

The smell of leaves burning and the sight of sumac bursting forth in its scarlet glory are all very well if you're inclined to get poetic about the approach of autumn. If you're inclined to be a stickler for realism and the facts of life you'll consider that fall means, among other things, wool dresses, warmer coats, and tons and tons of tissue cream.

And, speaking of wool dresses, we're reminded that the end of summer doesn't mean that you can cease to guard your daintiness as you would your reputation.

Don't be tempted to put your antiperspirants, your dusting powders, and your deodorants up on a high dark shelf for the winter. Keep them right at hand and use them as religiously as ever you did when the temperature was soaring.

You'll want to be as fastidious, as band-boxishly dainty in wool frocks as you were in cool linens. There's a new cream out to help you in this respect—a vanishing cream that stops perspiration completely. It's nonirritating and most efficient. You can use it in a jiffy any time.

Wool dresses are great little perspiration encouragers. They're just about ruined by it too, since they're hardly tubbable and only the rich can afford to toss them airily into the hands of the dry cleaner after each wearing. Use of a cream such as this prevents the appearance of dingy, stained patches under the arms and across the shoulder blades. It foils odor, too—and surely you know that perspiration odor is positively fatal to your charm!

This cream is blessedly inexpensive, you'll be glad to know.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

The Black Automatic

By William Byron Mowery

SYNOPSIS.

After 13 years with the Canadian Mounted, Inspector Noel Irving, at 33, finds himself without relative, friend, or career. Noel, in his Winnipeg apartment, receives a midnight call from an engaging young stranger, who will only give his name as Jimmy, and who is being pursued by a gang of desperadoes. Noel tells Jimmy of his discharge from the mounted because of dynamiting the hideout of Frank Rocco, master criminal, not knowing two women were with him. Rocco, as a result, becomes a glorified legend, while Noel is disgraced. Jimmy asks Noel to become his partner in a secret prosperous enterprise. Jimmy is shot and killed while telling his story to Noel. Noel and his friend Sergt. Spencer search for clues as to Jimmy's identity, but find none except a small picture of a beautiful girl, resembling Jimmy. At the inquest Noel is suspected of knowing more about the murder than he admits. Noel determines to avenge Jimmy's death.

INSTALMENT VI.

LIVE BAIT.

"Where the devil have you been these last three days?" Spencer greeted him. "I drove around to your place a dozen times, and rang your phone bell off."

"I've been busy, Herm. If you've got a cup of coffee to spare, let's go back to the kitchen, where we can talk."

He stepped across to the couch, snapped off the reading light that was shining in Eleanor's face, and followed the sergeant back to the little white tiled kitchen.

It was seldom he visited the Spencer home. The pleasantness of it, the very evident affection between those two, always gave him a bad twinge in comparison with his own isolated existence.

"I found your note under my door," he said, as Spencer poured two cups of coffee. "So Ostrand is riding you, is he?"

"Worse than that. He's greasing the bamboo slide for me, Noel. Wants one of his Ottawa men in my place. My days with the police are numbered. Look, he saddled me with this Jimmy case and told me to get results or else' . . . It looks like 'or else' for me. I've worked day and night, I've got nowhere, and the trail's cold now. If you don't help me get started I'm sunk."

Noel stirred the sugar in his coffee. "I'm glad you are stalled. You've got no business on this case. It's dangerous. It's tender dynamite. You've no right to take chances." He motioned at the living room, where Eleanor lay asleep. "You're married, Herm. Before snow flies you'll be a daddy. get off this case and stay off."

"How can I? If I put up a kick, Ostrand'll bust me down to a buck cop."

"Let me tell you what to do. Go to Ostrand tomorrow and inform him that you've struck a hot scent. Ask him for six or seven weeks on the loose, with plenty of expense money. Then slip off somewhere, with Eleanor, and have a real vacation. You rate one. You haven't cashed a furlough in three years."

Spencer scowled. "You needn't joke. This is no joking matter."

"I mean exactly what I said. If you stick on duty here you'll have to produce some results, but if you're gone——"

"But I'd have to come back sometime, wouldn't I—and what would I have to show for my time?"

"You may have plenty. I hope to nail this outfit in the meanwhile, and if I do I'll see that you get part credit for the job."

Spencer's eyes popped open. "Are you going to start on this?"

"I've started! In the last three days I've dug up a lead, such as it is. I'm leaving Winnipeg tonight. I came around here to ask if you'd give me a little ride in your car. Just north of town. I'd taxi except that it's healthier to slip away on the quiet."

"Why, I'll—sure I'll take you, but—but d'you really mean that you've pried the lid off this case already?"

"Miles from that. I've merely uncovered a promising lead. I'll tell you about it on our drive. Swallow your coffee and let's be traveling."

Along the shore of a little resort lake a few miles north of the city, Spencer stopped the car and switched off the lights.

"Keep your gun handy," Noel warned, as they stepped out. "I believe those slinkers left Winnipeg four nights ago, but if they didn't, they're on the lookout here."

Silent and alert, they crept down to the lake edge, where a small pier jutted out into deep water.

Though it was not yet three o'clock, the stars were beginning to dim, and the first gray of dawn was reaching up into the eastern sky. A light morning wind was rippling the lake and lap-lapping the wavelets against the boats at anchor in the shallows.

"How'd you find out that Jimmy was a flyer?" Spencer asked, glancing around for lurking shadows.

"His boots. The wear on his boots."

"I saw that wear myself. Thought it was auto pedals."

"No, no. With an auto there's extra wear on the right foot. With the rudder bars of a plane the wear is the same on both feet."

They started out upon the pier. At the far end of it a dark object, larger than the boats, slowly took on outline and resolved itself into a small monoplane, securely anchored and moored.

Noel pointed. "Jimmy came to Winnipeg in that plane, Herm. It has his fingerprints all over it."

"How'd you ever locate it, out here?"

"Hard work. I visited all the air fields and landing lakes within striking distance of town."

"What a little beauty!" Spencer remarked eyeing the craft. A trim swift Diomede, with tiny three place cabin, ruddered pontoons, and canvas hood drawn over its radial. It was rocking on the wavelets like a creature asleep. "With a plane like that a fellow could go strange places and do tall things. What luck did you have tracing its registry?"

"Mighty little. It was bought in Seattle eighteen months ago. It dropped out of sight then and it's never been heard of since. It's what the air bureau calls a 'ghost plane'—unregistered, unlicensed, its whereabouts unknown. If Jimmy carried any license or papers, they were faked. He kept this plane as anonymous as he kept himself."

With Spencer following, he stepped down upon a pontoon, unlocked the little cabin, climbed in and snapped on his pocket flash. Leaning across toward the left rear window, he pressed on a silver colored button which looked, at first glance, like an ordinary upholstering brad. A panel beneath the window dropped down and exposed a small compartment roughly the size of a briefcase.

From the little niche Noel drew out a pair of silver fox pelts. Beautiful Keewatin furs, perfectly matched, with long king hairs and soft rich pelage. The pelts were so exquisite and lovely that Spencer unthinkingly reached out and stroked them.

"Jimmy bought these two silvers," Noel stated, "for that girl in his watch, but he had no chance to give them to her before he was killed. But what I wanted to show you is this." He rolled back one of the pelts to the "raw" side and pointed to a red and blue stenciling. "These are stamped furs. Royalty stamp. Those serial numbers gave me my lead on Jimmy. He bought these six days ago, at McMurray."

"Fort McMurray? That little jumping off place over northeast in the Athabasca?"

"Yes. He was there at McMurray last Thursday. That's all on earth I know about him, and I don't know anything about these outlanders. I'm flying over there in hopes I can pick up his trail and back track him. Wherever he came from, there I'll find these men."

"You're using this plane?"

"Yes."

"Heavens! Why, it's a dead give away. Those men know this ship. They'll know you're after 'em. They'll hop you."

"That's what I want. That's how it's got to be. I don't know who they are. I'm using this plane deliberately, to lure them into some overt act."

"It'll be overt, all right," Spencer agreed. "You'll lure 'em, all right. Man, you're using yourself as live bait!"

"I've studied it over. I've got no other way of contacting them."

As they stepped back upon the pier Spencer burst out: "Look here—I'm going along on this job! If you go alone you'll get killed."

Simone's Quite a Gal—but So Unappreciated

Studio Gets a New Bundle of Temperament.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 24.—[Special.]—Simone Simon, who is the studio's newest package of "temperament" from abroad, makes more than her directors and wardrobe woman gasp. One of the staf at Twentieth Century-Fox studio, which employs this volatile brunette, had arranged for her to lunch with a reporter from one of the larger American news syndicates.

SIMONE SIMON.

The idea was that the young man would gain a clear and "constructive" idea about the lively girl who soared to recent sudden prominence in "Girls' Dormitory" and that the reporter then would present his impressions for readers all over the country.

But when the young man arrived at Simone's studio she was not there.

"O, her," said one of the feminine attendants in the tone people use for discussing the contradictory but unrevisable moods of the weather. "She went out to the tennis club."

Thither sped the reporter, accompanied by a guide from Simone's studio. They found her playing tennis with Vic Orsatti, one of Hollywood's handsomest actors' agents but formerly a football quarter back at the University of Southern California.

"Hullo," said the studio representative to Mlle. Simone, trying to make talk that would set the reporter at ease. "You see, we found you here."

Mlle. Simone frowned.

"Yes," she agreed with no enthusiasm.

Luncheon was served on the clubhouse balcony, with Simone still clouded up. The studio representative talked fast and cheerily. At last mademoiselle broke into the conversation. Addressing the man from the studio and not the reporter, she observed that interviews "annoyed" her.

"I expect to pay for this luncheon," she said, apropos of nothing. The reporter, a young man, reared with some of the punctilio that comes from an old family in Louisiana, pondered this in silence, although he eyed Mlle. Simone curiously. "I'll pay for the lunch myself," the studio representative said. "No you won't," said Simone. [Writer's note—He finally did.]

Soon the studio man had a happy thought. "Ask her a question," he told the reporter.

"You must have had an interesting life in Europe," that young man remarked in a mild tone.

"You speak of my life in Europe!" Simone blurted with her eyes flashing. "He knows I never speak of my life in Europe," she said, turning to the man from the studio. The latter gulped. It was news to him. The newspaper visitor looked bewildered.

"No offense," he muttered. Simone gave him a steady look.

The three of them toyed with their lamb chops.

The young man tried again.

"Do you like Hollywood?" he ventured.

"You know I don't publish my thoughts about Hollywood," she shot at the hapless studio guide. "It would not please the French people if I should approve," she explained. "My thoughts might not please the people here either."

The visitor returned to cautious silence.

But Simone had a new idea.

"You are unfriendly to me," she challenged. "I do not wish to answer your questions further."

"Me unfriendly?" the young man gasped. "How do you figure that?"

"I read it in your eyes," Simone rolled out with scorn. Sure enough her dark eyes were prodding the depths o his own. He blinked. "I don't dislike you," he ventured. This brought a quick change of mood. The one time tomboy daughter of a Madagascar official said, "Well, then, you must prove it."

"What do you want me to do?" the interviewer asked.

"Get a second spoon and help me eat my ice cream."

And she wouldn't talk to the young man until he did.

In another talk to another newspaper man Mlle. Simone broke in on the poor fellow while he was trying to put her at her ease with her slightly inadequate although forceful English [she has spoken the language only several months] by telling him: "Why don't you ask me some original questions?" When that interview had concluded in a somewhat stormy manner Mlle. Simone's last word was, "I wonder why people in Hollywood do not like me."

To a woman reporter this tempestuous 26 year old daughter of France confided that she hadn't yet found an American young man whose company she enjoys.

"American men talk too much about themselves and their work and ambitions," she complains. "They bore me."

She amended this later to admit she had met "some" interesting men. The hitch to that was, however, that "they are married."

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THE FORCING PRINCIPLE.

At the start of the bidding the partners are in the situation of two allied armies groping in total darkness. Partner's [and opponents'] honor strength and distribution or suit lengths are unknown. Almost any opening bid is a leap in the dark. The responding hand, though better off after receiving the first message from his ally, will as a rule need much more information before completing the maneuvers for the final position, or bid at which to give battle. Hence the strategy of cautious advances by both partners, the scouting approach bids pushed out ahead of the main body of hands as "feelers" to reconnoiter for game possibilities or to fall back on defensive positions.

It will at times happen that a glance at the hand will suffice to see a game and even the prospects of a luscious slam. Such a hand bristles with aces and kings and usually contains two or three suits with untold possibilities—untold because success will usually depend upon the selections of the right bid out of several bids available.

In all cases, without exception, it is important not to spurt wildly toward the goal like an untrained horse smelling its stable, but to double your caution. It is the purpose of the forcing principle scientifically to approach a game or a slam by the utmost economy of rounds, and yet to banish the fear that partner will prematurely abandon the bidding.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump
Pass	Pass	Double	Redouble
Pass	Pass	Pass

South's two no trump was the not unusual type of bluff bid based on a "runout" to a long suit. While I easily might have made the same bid, I will confess freely that I would have run like a startled fawn from the three no trump redouble!

South admitted, after the hand was over, that he, too, had quailed at the thought of what might happen to him, but, half through stubbornness, half through irrepressible hope that his club suit would bring in seven tricks, he had determined to stick by his guns.

West opened the three of spades [the correct lead on the bidding] and dummy played the ten. East took the king, and, after a long huddle, returned the queen of clubs.

Declarer now did a thing that few players would have the courage to do. He ducked without the slightest hesitation! He was sure of one thing: that with all the low clubs in his own hand, West's follow suit card would have to be a high one. And on that fact he built the hope that East would continue the club suit, having apparently located West's strength.

East should have been "leery" of a long club suit in declarer's hand—on what else could he have predicated his obviously "phony" two no trump bid? But East did not analyze that closely. He saw his partner's seven of clubs, jumped to the conclusion that declarer feared the suit and followed up with the club jack! Curtain!

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Is a six card suit without honors rebiddable?

Answer: Yes.

Shirley Temple Gets Into 'Who's Who' at 7 and Sets New Record

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Shirley Temple has made Who's Who in America. At 7, she is the youngest person listed in what the publishers, in a preface to vol. 19, for the years 1936-1937, described as a tabulation of "Life-sketches of 31,434 outstanding men and women of the country, for a net increase of 353 over the edition for 1934-1935."

Shirley tops the lineage devoted to two of the presidential candidates, Gov. Landon and William Lemke, who have 16 and 14 lines, respectively. Shirley has 19. Another candidate, Earl Browder, is missing from the volume. Father Coughlin receives 14 lines.

President Roosevelt has just twice as many lines as Miss Temple. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., tops the president by five lines.

"Baking the Perfect Cake," a 56 page booklet containing directions and recipes for 48 cakes, frostings, and fillings, along with causes and remedies of cake failures, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 20 cents. By mail, 23 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Today the regular Saturday "children's column" undergoes a change and becomes a "request corner," a column which will concern itself with printing, each week, a popularly requested recipe. However, these recipes will be given step by step, as before, since so many of our readers find them easier to use that way.

Two reasons brought about this change, which really is a minor one after all. One is that our youngsters have returned to school and school books. The other is that we have a strong suspicion, indicated by our "fan mail," that many of our Saturday cooking class students are grownups, anyway! Our recipes, however, will be given in a form which will make them simple for either child or adult.

Drop us a postcard if there's some particular recipe for which you'd like complete and detailed instructions.

Several weeks ago we described angel food and sponge cake making somewhat in detail, but we didn't offer any recipe. There really wasn't room for one when we finished our dissertation on method of mixing, baking temperature, and all the rest. Many of you wanted a recipe for one or the other. Here's a step-by-step sponge cake.

Sponge Cake.

1 cup sugar
1 cup sifted cake flour
6 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
½ teaspoon salt

1. Separate the eggs and let them stand at room temperature until you are ready for them. They will whip to a better volume if they are not cold.

2. Sift the sugar once. Sift the cake flour once before measuring and three or four times afterward. Use squares of white paper upon which to sift the flour back and forth.

3. Grate the lemon rind and measure the lemon juice and have it handy.

4. When the egg yolks have warmed to room temperature, beat them slightly. Then add ¾ cup of sugar, the water, lemon juice, and rind. Continue beating until the mixture is light and creamy. It is important that this mixture be beaten well if the cake is to be light.

5. Beat the egg whites until foamy, add the salt, and continue beating, sifting in the remaining ¼ cup sugar gradually. Beat until the whites will hold a point.

6. Fold the flour gently into the egg yolks with a spatula, being certain that it is all mixed in.

7. Fold the beaten whites in carefully with the spatula, being sure they are completely blended.

8. Pour the mixture into an ungreased 10 inch tube pan, turning the pan so that the batter will be evenly distributed.

9. Bake in the center of a moderately slow oven [325 degrees] for 55 minutes. Do not open oven door during baking unless necessary.

10. Remove cake from oven when done, and invert pan carefully on a cake rack. Let it hang until the cake is cold.

Tunic, Buttons and Braid

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Tunics are the rage. Buttons ramble all up and down the latest frocks, and cire braid is prominent in the fall fashion picture. The frock illustrated today has all three style points incorporated to create one of the smartest models yet to come into anybody's life. What's more, the directoire influence is apparent in the sleeves, and the directoire period is having a lot of fun putting pep into our modern styles.

The original of this dress is created of dull black crêpe as background for shiny buttons and the glistening surface of cire braid. The latter trims the convertible neckline and runs the length of the princess tunic. The separate slender skirt beneath the tunic has a "swing" hemline, youthful and smart, and in chic contrast to the pencil slimness of the overblouse.

There is a practical feature to this model, too. The tunic may well be worn over some other skirt, and the skirt itself may serve as foil for various other blouses in your wardrobe.

Style No. 3361 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 5⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with 3¾ yards of braid trimming.

Child Between One and Two Is at Active Age

It Is Wrong to Restrict Him Too Much.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"There is a tremendous amount of 'leg work' connected with my job," said a friend of mine who is a writer of special articles for which material has to be collected.

There is a tremendous amount of "leg work" connected with the job of being a mother when the "material that has to be collected" is a small thing between the ages of 1 and 2!

The age at which the baby merges into the little child who is eternally on the move and able to navigate from place to place depends somewhat upon how early a child learns to walk, learns to manage his body in other ways, and acquires deftness. Your child may be 16 months old when he begins to keep you on the run, your neighbor's may be 20 months old. But there should be a time somewhere along between 1 and 2 when your baby is filled with curiosity about everything his hands touch and his eyes see, and when his activity is incessant.

You must be glad that he is this way because it's as it should be. So, instead of being irked by this perpetual motion you must coöperate by giving your young child-explorer as much physical freedom as possible.

You're not indulging him if you do this, you're merely giving him what is a necessity to him, in addition to being a source of pleasure and satisfaction.

It's hard for us to realize that to the little child learning the use of his muscles is an absorbing experience in itself. And repetition of an act which he seems to have learned is a characteristic of this age. Over and over and over again he will do the same thing.

One complaint I often receive from mothers about their small ones at this stage is that they do not play with the toys provided for them. Naturally they don't, because they are not ready for what we call play. Trotting about the house, climbing up and down, picking things up and laying them down, constant doing and investigating are more natural at this age than play in the ordinary sense of the word.

The freedom of his house is what the small child should have at this time. Give that to him to a reasonable degree and you won't have the whining, discontented cry baby about which we hear so much. In addition, you'll find an endless interest in him as you watch him through his busy, hard-working days.

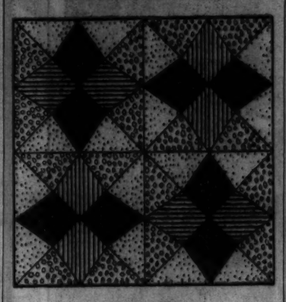
Stars Glitter in Profusion on This Novel Quilt Block

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.



Mill and Stars.

BY NANCY CABOT.

One of the most unique quilt patterns to date is the "Mill and Stars" pieced block. The stars shine in abundance, with a windmill forming the center of each design. When the quilt is set together to form an all-over pattern the effect is more amazing than a whole field of those windmills about which Don Quixote had much to say. The individual blocks are easy to piece, and measure 14 inches square when completed. Blue might be called the foundation color, with blue and tan print forming the windmills.

If Husband Is One Who Yells, Outholler Him!

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The charming housemate Mrs. B. drew for herself has developed a hollering habit that has the woman nerve-ridden. He can't call for a towel but he does it in an ear-splitting voice. If the dinner isn't ready the minute he gets in the door, he raises his trumpet voice to the high heavens. If the youngsters get under foot, he frightens the wits out of them with a thundering blast.

Outside of this habit the man appears to register as a pretty fair sort of husband. He turns his money over intact, about which he reminds his wife when she protests about his hollering. A recent incident occurred in which the neighbors were ear witnesses of the loud-pedaled vocal strain. They were playing bridge and, at a poor play on his wife's part, Mr. B. let go all claim to Emily Post behavior in one loud blast.

"It's getting worse all the time," the woman reports. "What can I do with the man?"

Outholler him, woman! Outholler him! Yell worse than he does! Beat him to it and begin your defense yell before he catches his breath for a big noise. Let the neighbors hear, if they can't escape the noise. If they protest, just tell them your man is deaf and you've got to make him hear at the top of your voice. Explain to them that that's why he talks so loudly himself. That'll cure him, we'll wager.

He's a bully, encouraging himself with every yelp to be a bigger bully, and the one sure way to treat the species is to beat him at his own game. One thing the type can't take on the chin is to be made ridiculous. He will appear so under the treatment prescribed.

There's a possibility that the man's health is being undermined and the yelling an exhibition of jangled nerves. Maybe it would be more human to trot him off to a doctor for an examination first. If there's nothing wrong physically, then our suggestion might be tried.

Cultivation of Poise Is Real Goal to Seek

Woman Who Has It Also Is Well Bred.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The first impression you make on a gathering naturally is delivered with your entrance on the scene. We are speaking of charm now, that intangible gift of grace that, from all accounts, is the world still left to be conquered.

Let's discuss two young women making their descent upon a group of people. The front door is opened to the first one by the butler, maid, or by the maidless hostess. There's a clamor in the hall before the figure appears to the guests. A loud voiced greeting, maybe, or a hectic, out of breath explanation of how the train was missed or some other incident of delay is reported. Then into the room with a dash. Some one is seen and recognized over at the far corner. A lunge toward her is made with, perhaps, a high-pierced screech of so-called joy at seeing the old friend.

A dart to the other side of the room, where a second face is recognized, the hostess meanwhile patiently waiting for a chance to introduce the guest around. Still excitement, disturbing the entire gathering, reigns in the person of the breathless guest. Giggles. "Fancy-you-heres." You know the sort of thing. No poise. No grace. No charm of manner.

Then there enters the girl of the other school. The entrance and greeting to her hostess are done with feeling, warmth and poise. If explanation is to be made for delayed arrival, it is done in quiet tones. More likely this girl is on perfect time. Then her drawing or living room entrance is done with a charming dignity and grace, best accomplished by that familiair finshing school training, a moment's pause in the doorway to spot and place those known to her and those still to enjoy that pleasure. If the hostess is in the room, she makes a graceful way directly toward her and permits her to introduce those immediately nearby, picking up the threads with old acquaintance as she makes the rounds. The charmer neither darts here nor there. She's not in a dither of excitement. She's not creating a noisy spotlight for herself with a wisecrack at an old acquaintance several seats away. She's a poised, well bred person and acts like one.

Saxony Finished Suitings in a Captivating Collection of Soft Toned Plaids

$34.50

It's probably the Scotch in us that's responsible for the interest we take in fine fabrics, and the way we warm up to plaids. At any rate, it works out to your advantage, and the proof of it is in these handsome and comfortably fitting Single and Double Breasteds tailored in a manner befitting the softness of the material. But to get back to the plaids. The pattern that's formed in the weaving is as authentic as the plaids that first saw the light of day in the Scotch highlands. It's the rich, mellow tones of the ground colorings enlivened with a fine line oversquare pattern in a brighter color that makes these different and capable of changing your mind about plaids being too bold for you.

Crocodile Grain Leather Makes Its Appearance in Oxfords for Town Wear

$6.75 pr.

To find crocodile grain leather in shoes for town wear will be just as much a surprise to the Britishers who started the idea of crocodile leather shoes for sports wear, as it will be to you. Tanned to a deep reddish brown and highly polished, it is one of the best looking leathers for fall wear that has been seen in many a season. And like the Scotch grain and cordovan leathers, also shown here, it's more than a match for whatever winter has in store to make rough going underfoot.

Misses' Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

$12.95

Miss "12 to 18" will be a "Slim Princess" in this moire taffeta weave frock, which nips its waist to almost nothing and flares its skirt crisply full. Back fullness draws into shirring at the waist, and in front there's a big, flat flower at the high waistline. Puffy sleeves grow tight toward the elbow. In black, brown, or wine. 12 to 18.

Misses' Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

All silk, and made every stitch by hand! That's a lot to be able to say about a blouse that is priced as moderately as $6.95. The satin blouse is tailored in line, with dressy details—tagoting on collar and cuffs, pearly buttons, a little shirring below the yoke. In rose, aqua, brown, white. The pure dye silk blouse has a tagoted vestee and fine tucks over the shoulder and in the center back. It comes in green, gold, aqua, white, or brown. Each $6.95.

$10.95

The "picket-fence" collar is a novel note on this Teenya frock—and it's repeated in inverted form around the bottom of the skirt and the sleeves. The gilt flower and belt trimming hint of coronation influence. It may be had in black, brown, new blue, new green, and ruby. Sizes 11 to 17.

Teenya Frocks, Fourth Floor.

$29.75

Warm colors in a warm fabric—that's the story of this fleecy Teenya coat, in green, rust, or black. The natural skunk collar frames the face in flattering cream color, spiked with dark. The coat has jaunty swagger lines with below-elbow fullness in the sleeves. 11 to 17.

Teenya Coats, Fourth Floor.

$59.75

The new youthful shawl collar of Persian lamb, short and square, trims this coat for women. The lines, too, are new—flaring slightly from a gently nipped in waist. A coat designed with the shorter woman in mind—in sizes 33½ to 47½. In black with Persian lamb; also black with kolinsky.

Moderate Price Coats, Fourth Floor.

$12.95

One of the soft, hairy woolens so important in fashion is used in this broad-shouldered two-piece dress with the astrakhan knit collar. Buttons stream down the front of the jacket, which has a belt to stress the slim waistline. In black, brown, gray, or Kelly green. Sizes 12 to 20.

BIG 10 TEAMS OPEN FOOTBALL SEASON TODAY

SOX STILL EYE 2D PLACE; PLAY BROWNS TODAY

Stratton, Kennedy to Pitch.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox will reassemble this afternoon for the purpose of just about cleaning up their season's chores. Today their labor involves a double header with the Browns and tomorrow's final will see the same troops, recently so rough with Jim Dykes' hopefuls at St. Louis, in a single battle which will conclude the 1936 race. After that the Sox will have nothing to do except worry about the Cubs, but just now the Cubs don't concern them. The Sox have enough to consider in the shape of percentages.

JIMMY DYKES.

Today and tomorrow the Sox will have to keep in mind the fact that money is just ahead of them. They still have a mathematical chance for second and third, where the financial return is somewhat better than for fourth place, their present station. But they have no reason to fret about tumbling into the second flight. Even three straight beatings couldn't knock them out of the money division. And they haven't finished there since 1920.

Has Load to Carry.

Luke Appling, the Sox shortstop who this season plummeted into the rôle of No. 1 man in that particular position, will have a load all his own to carry through the three remaining battles. Luke is almost elected as the season's leading hitter in both majors, but he mathematically is not a certainty. Only a complete washout in three games and a boom in the same number of battles for Earl Averill of the Indians, his closest pursuer, could rob Luke of the honor of being the first White Sox as well as the first shortstop to top the American league hitters.

If Luke does win the title he can thank the second game at Cleveland on Wednesday. He ripped off a homer, a double and a two singles in four trips to the plate, raising his season's mark to .388.

Stratton, Kennedy to Pitch.

Today's pitching for the Sox will be handled by Monty Stratton and Vernon Kennedy unless Dykes gets a better idea. By working them today he is sure to have them fresh by Wednesday when the city series with the Cubs gets under way. However, there is a chance that Ted Lyons, who treated the north siders to a swell exhibition when the last series was played in 1933, will be reserved for the opener of the municipal post season event.

Pick Giants to Win 1st Game, Yanks Series

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The New York Yankees are favorites to win the world series, but the prospective appearance of Carl Hubbell on the mound has made the Giants the choice for the opening game in the Polo grounds next Wednesday.

With Hubbell pitching, Jack Doyle, Broadway bookmaker, today quoted 6 to 5 against the Yankees in the first game and 3 to 5 against the Giants. For the series, however, Doyle quoted 11 to 20 against the Yankees and 13 to 10 against the Giants.

While the betting commissioners reported a lively business, the midtown offices of the Giants and Yankees were deluged with ticket requests. Stafs of both clubs were working a 24 hour day trying to fill mail orders and still keep any great number of tickets from falling into the hands of speculators.

Attendance Mark Expected.

Maximum capacity for the two ball parks will be 71,767 for Yankee stadium and 51,856 for the Polo Grounds.

Assuming capacity every day and a six game series, a new world series record for attendance and receipts will be assured. The total attendance in that case would be 370,869, compared with the record of 328,051 set in 1926, when the Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals were rivals. The present record of $1,207,864 for receipts also set in 1926 likewise would be eclipsed.

President to Attend.

Giant officials would not reveal the roster of any boxholders, but Ed Barrow, secretary of the Yankees, disclosed two names, President Roosevelt and George Herman Ruth.

President Roosevelt will attend the third game of the series Friday, the first game scheduled in the Yankee stadium.

Cubs Open Final Series of Season Today at St. Louis

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs are in St. Louis today to wind up the National league season with single games against the second place Cardinals this afternoon and tomorrow. The Cubs are confronted with a negative goal. They can't finish better than a tie for second, but they can drop to fourth if they lose two games and the Pirates take two from Cincinnati.

The Cardinals may not be quite so ferocious as usual, seeing as they can't rise to first. But they will be tough enough, what with Joe Medwick seeking to change his new National league doubles record into a major league record. And you can't count on gents like Pepper Martin and others who will be thinking either about their next season's contract or, indeed, their employment.

Everybody May Pitch.

Manager Grimm says he will use his entire pitching staf, if need be, to keep out of fourth place, a berth the Cubs have not occupied at the finish since 1927. Then the gent among his big five who comes out best in the also-ran week-end doings will get the first start in the city series.

Despite this talk of Mr. Grimm's, however, it is probable that it will be Lon Warneke vs. Vernon Kennedy in the city series opener at Wrigley field next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Then the Big Fellows.

On the entire season record Kennedy has a much better record than Warneke. But if the two face each other Wednesday the fans doubtless will see a great pitchers' battle. On the basis of recent starts the revived Warneke should have a shade on Kennedy in pitching form, leaving out the difference in the hitters backing up the two able performers.

If you prefer to do your doping on the season basis, however, we give you Vern's and Lon's 1936 records to date:

	W.	L.	I.P.	H.	R.	B.B.	S.O.
Kennedy	21	9	274	282	167	147	99
Warneke	15	13	231	234	106	75	105

Neither Manager Jimmy Dykes nor Manager Grimm has indicated his selection for the second game, but the rotation employed by each in important series during the regular season indicates it will be Bill Lee against John Whitehead.

Thus will the biggest men on each staf be pitted against each other. And here's what they've done in their league to date:

	W.	L.	I.P.	H.	R.	B.B.	S.O.
Whitehead	13	13	231	254	137	98	70
Lee	17	11	250	235	101	89	97

The veteran, Ted Lyons, probably will celebrate his first experience as a first division ball player by pitching the first game at Comiskey park. He probably will be opposed by Larry French. Here's the way those two fine lads stack up in the season statistics:

	W	L	IP	H	R	BB	SO
Lyons	9	13	173	218	112	44	46
French	18	9	254	263	104	55	103

You can pick your own in contemplating the fourth game. The choice probably will come from the following, unless weather interruptions enable the managers to come back with some of their earlier starters:

WHITE SOX.

	W	L	IP	H	R	BB	SO
Cain	15	11	212	248	125	84	51
Dietrich	8	11	163	197	116	82	77
Stratton	4	7	88	111	60	43	35

CUBS.

	W	L	IP	H	R	BB	SO
Carleton	14	10	197	204	85	67	89
Davis	13	13	213	216	97	47	71
Henshaw	6	5	129	151	67	56	68

Both teams have able relievers—Root and Bryant for the Cubs and Clint Brown and Italo Chelini for the Sox.

Gophers and Huskies.

In picking Minnesota to win over Washington at Seattle today in the foregoing prognostications, The Wake is influenced in part by sectional loyalty and in part by the theory of sticking with a champion until the champion is dethroned. In advance, the game actually looks like a tossup. Gopher adherents think their line will prove superior while Washington reports its forwards expect to hold their own with the visitors. Unless Minnesota's line outplays its rivals, the result might be just too bad for that string of 17 straight victories, for the Huskie back field is a senior quartet, probably smoother at this stage of the season than the Northmen.

Temple University Squad Beats Centre College, 50-7

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Temple university's football squad rolled up a 50 to 7 victory over Centre college in the Owls stadium tonight before 15,000 spectators. Temple scored in every period. Centre scored only in the last quarter when Jimmy Geerman, sophomore half back, circled left end for 25 yards and Lawrence Maghee place kicked the extra point. A brilliant 61 yard return of a punt by Calvin Gaines led up to the score.

IOWA FANS SEE TITLE, BUT THEY MAY BE FOOLED

It's a Good Team, but Not That Good.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 25.—The corn country will preview the Iowa football team tomorrow afternoon when the Hawkeyes meet Carleton. But extremely partisan fans really are waiting for the opening of Western conference hostilities at Northwestern next week.

Iowa wants a conference championship. Despite last season's excellent record, which saw the Hawkeyes defeat Illinois, tie Northwestern and Indiana and lose to Minnesota and Purdue by a touchdown each, there were rumblings that better results should have been obtained.

The opinion this fall, despite denial by Coach Ossie Solem, is that Iowa is stronger than in 1935. Rival conference coaches, always willing to praise the other fellow's squad while disparaging their own, have been eager to agree.

The Club Is Weaker.

The truth as we see it is that Iowa now is weaker than when it finished last year's campaign. There are twe reasons. So far no back field candidate has indicated he can replace Dick Crayne. Perhaps Sophomore Frank Balazs of Chicago will make a fair bid. But why would you expect an inexperienced 18 year old youngster to match the performance of a three year veteran? No one will equal Crayne's kicking. Iowa's punting this fall will be average instead of superior.

But the second reason is all important in rating Iowa inferior to last year. Iowa didn't have offensive strength at tackle in 1935. On occasion, these strategic posts were undermanned. Add to this the loss of four guards and the weakness of this setup is apparent.

Iowa now does not have a championship line at the tackle and guard positions.

Opponents Are Stronger.

Iowa does have a splendid football team. Given a high percentage of the breaks, and the Hawkeyes might surprise. But three of Iowa's foes, Indiana, Purdue, and Illinois, definitly are stronger than in 1935. Northwestern may not be as potent, at least for next week, as it was last year on closing day. Minnesota may not match last year's unbeaten title crew, but no one is willing to write this down.

Thus, Iowa's total opponent strength is greater while her own forces have been depleted.

Farroh at Guard.

The tackle and guard situation is now as follows:

Floyd Deheer, giant Oskaloosa junior, who finally crashed the starting lineup last year, and Corney Walker, who was displaced in midseason, are the tackles. Ruddy Leytze, most competent of the 1935 tackles, has been graduated. Frank Gallagher, minor letter winner; Walter Olson, a sophomore, and Fred Lindenmeyer, moved over from center, are the substitutes.

At guard, Bill Secl, Jack Gallagher, Floyd McDowell, and Jim Kelley are gone. Remaining are Gene Liggett and Don Nelson, the latter a senior who apparently will be replaced in the starting lineup by a former minor letter winner at half back, Shipley Farroh, of Michigan City, Ind. This indicates desire for speed in blocking as well as scarcity of guard material. It also indicates Iowa has enough half backs so that Farroh can be spared for play in the line.

Center will be well protected by Ted Osmaloski of Toledo, O., senior and two year regular. Next in line is Dick Anderson, a junior, who might handle the job alone if necessary.

End Material Plentiful.

Iowa has splendid ends, the best in many years. Homer Harris and Bob Lannon proved their merits as sophomores. They are supported by Don Simmons, the best defensive end on the squad, and Gordon Matson, a senior who won a major letter in 1934 but who did not play last year

KICKING THE SEASON OPEN

Heavier Maroons to Play Lawrence Eleven Today

Collegiate football gets its opening whistle locally today at Stagg field. Chicago's Maroons, fourth in the line of Clark Shaughnessy, 45th in the line of Midway teams, clash with Lawrence college of Appleton, Wis., in the season's sendoff.

Without the glamor of a Jay Berwanger, but possessed of a quietly workmanlike spirit, these new Maroons will seek to show how far close knit team work will go toward replacing an individual hero. Some 24,000 spectators, more than half of them youthful guests of the university, will witness the exposition.

The Maroon squad is not much more numerous than that of Lawrence, but Chicago's boys will have a weight advantage at nearly every position, and should wear their opponents down. Coach Shaughnessy expects the Lawrence team to score.

Omar Fareed, Persian lad who caught the fancy of Maroon followers with his gallant play last season, faces the difficult task of filling Berwanger's spot at left half. There are others ambitious for the starring rôle, but three of these, Sophomores Morton Goodstein and Harvey Lawson, and the veteran, Ned Bartlett, probably will be unable to get the physician's approval for today.

Fareed will be supported by three huskies in the back field, the reliable veterans, Warren Skoning and Fred Lehnhardt, who seem headed for a fine season, and Sophomore Lewis Hamity. Sure to see action as a ball carrier is Sollie Sherman, former scoring ace for Marshall High.

The Lawrence squad of thirty arrived in Chicago last evening and was quartered on the Midway campus in Judson court, which adjoins the quarters of the Maroon varsity. A special wire from Stagg field will carry a verbal description of the contest to Lawrence students gathered in Memorial chapel at Appleton.

Relies on Veterans.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher will rely on veterans for at least 10 positions when he sends his first Wisconsin team on the field. Roy Bellin of Milwaukee, a left half back, is the only sophomore conceded a chance to break into the starting lineup, and his eligibility will not be determined until a few hours before the game. Bellin took a conditional examination this afternoon.

Coach Stuhldreher sent the squad through a long signal drill this afternoon, after which he took the players to Maple Bluff Country club for the night.

High school students of the state will be guests of the university at the game. Probable lineup:

PURDUE IS READY

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Ohio university, one of the nation's few undefeated and untied elevens last fall, will oppose Purdue's hastily rebuilt football team here tomorrow in the opening game of the season.

Ohio, which put a dent in Big Ten prestige in the opening game last fall by defeating Illinois, 6 to 0, is expecting to duplicate the feat against a Purdue squad striving to rebound from the accident of two weeks ago that cost the lives of two oustanding players.

Veterans and last year's reserves are apt to dominate in the hastily revised Boilermaker lineup, with William Vergane, giant 232 pound, 6 foot 5 inch right end, the only sophomore likely to start.

Guards, Tackles Set.

Purdue's remodeled back field, crippled by the death of Tommy McGannon and the loss of Lowell Decker, probably will be Fred Stalcup, former quarter back, at left half back, with John Drake moving from full back to right half back, and Cecil Isbell taking over the full back duties. Wayne Gift, senior veteran, will start at quarter back.

Forrest Burmeister, erstwhile tackle, appears the most likely choice to fill the guard vacated by the death of Carl Dahlbeck, with Andy Grant, last year's reserve, at right guard. At tackle two stalwart veterans of known ability, Klem Woltman and Martin Schreyer, appear to be fixtures, while Don Powell, last year's reserve, is slated for left end.

BADGERS SEEK REVENGE

Madison, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—With brand new uniforms and a brand new coaching staf, the University of Wisconsin football team will open the 1936 season against South Dakota State at Camp Randall tomorrow afternoon.

The Badgers do not regard the game as a soft touch. A year ago South Dakota State defeated Wisconsin, 13 to 6. The Badgers never recovered from the setback and lost six of their seven remaining games.

Coach Red Threlfall today brought to Madison a South Dakota team every bit as strong as last year's, a team that will start six seniors and five juniors. The team is fast, heavy, and rugged, according to reports. The Badgers have been warned to keep an eye on Walter Rouseff, left half back, and Mark Barber, a hard hitting full back.

Relies on Veterans.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher will rely on veterans for at least 10 positions when he sends his first Wisconsin team on the field. MINNESOTA TO GET FIRST TEST AT WASHINGTON

Illinois Sophomores Tackle De Paul.

The college football season opens today with a schedule of games that includes most of the major elevens in the United States. Six Western conference teams begin their campaigns against nonconference members.

Purdue meets Ohio university, one of the outstanding secondary teams in the country, at Lafayette, while the Big Ten champion, Minnesota, begins its quest for a fourth consecutive undefeated season at Seattle against the University of Washington in the outstanding game on the day's schedule.

At Champaign Illinois will send a sophomore team against the strong and experienced De Paul university eleven. Wisconsin, launching its first season under a new coach, Harry Stuhldreher, former Notre Dame star, seeks revenge for the defeat administered to it by South Dakota State in the opening game last year. Chicago is host to Lawrence, and Iowa opens with Carleton at Iowa City.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Enthusiasm bordered on hysterics tonight as the Minnesota and Washington football teams awaited tomorrow's engagement before a capacity crowd of 37,000 in one of the most important opening games ever played in college football.

The Washington stadium is sold out. The weather is ideal for football with the temperature at 60, and fair skies predicted.

Antil Replaces Reed.

One important change was made in the Minnesota lineup after the practice on the Washington field this afternoon. Bierman decided to start Ray Antil at left end in place of Reed.

It was decided definitly this afternoon, too, that Andy Uram would start at left half with Tuffy Thompson and Bill Matheny in reserve. Vic Spadaccini will be the full back.

The Gophers arrived here from Missoula this morning to be greeted by thousands of fans and the Washington band. The Gophers, completely recovered from their experience in the Missoula hotel fire, found themselves 2 to 1 favorites in the betting.

Bierman Predicts Defeat.

Coach Bierman was more pessimistic than usual. He said a two touchdown licking was in store for his boys. There seems to be no doubt in either camp that the game will be one wide open. Both teams, respecting the opposing line, plan to take to the air.

Both squads are reported in excellent physical condition, although Uram isn't as fully recovered as Bierman would like. Antil has taken over Reed's left end position only because he has shown more ability in practice.

ILLINI VS. DE PAUL

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Expecting the hardest kind of a struggle against De Paul in the opening game here tomorrow, Illinois was prepared tonight to stake its fortunes on untried sophomores.

The tentative starting lineup announced by Coach Bob Zuppke today included five new players, and eight out of the 11 men most likely to get the first call as substitutes also are inexperienced.

LINCOLN STAKE TODAY LOOMS AS WIDE OPEN RACE

14 Fast Horses Named for Handicap.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Rousing pep talks were made last night in the stables of those 14 horses which will run in the Lincoln handicap over the mile and a sixteenth course at Lincoln Fields this afternoon.

To win the Lincoln is no small honor and for a horse to have his name added to the list of such famous Lincoln winners as Chance Play, Sun Beau, and Lady Broadcast is something for him to write back home to his old sire about.

The Lincoln is the oldest sweepstakes event of this turf era in Chicago. It was run for the first time ten years ago soon after the Lincoln Fields course was opened.

Mucho Gusto Well Liked.

Mrs. Kirby Ramsey's Mucho Gusto's victory in the Peabody Memorial handicap a week ago naturally has made him the favorite for the Lincoln. Yet he is not an outstanding choice. Lots of folks believe the extra five pounds he will pick up may dull his speed, so considerable support went to the Tranquillity farm entry of Captain Cal and Songmaker, and there also was stout backing for the Rosedale stable's entry of Silk Mask and Bandalore.

An impressive victory which Crowning Glory scored at Lincoln Fields earlier in the week also caused him to catch on with quite a few folks who last night were attempting to pick the winner of the Lincoln.

Here's Starting Field.

The others didn't come in for much consideration in the early speculation.

The lineup for the race in the order of post positions is as follows:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds
Banish Fear	108	R. Detter	15-1
†Capt. Cal	114	B. James	4-1
Billbo	104	J. Cowley	15-1
Noble Count	100	G. South	8-1
Prince Torch	105	No boy	20-1
*Bandalore	101	No boy	7-1
Spanish Babe	102	J. McCoy	20-1
Mucho Gusto	116	L. Haas	3-1
Salaam	102	No boy	20-1
Crowning Glory	109	G. South	5-1
†Songmaker	106	No boy	4-1
*Silk Mask	114	H. Louman	7-2
Blessed Again	104	J. McCoy	20-1
Fra Diavolo	105	J. Marinelli	15-1

*Rosedale stable entry. †Tranquillity farm entry.

Mucho Gusto is the horse that's in the middle. He is a middle distance performer, and his job in the mile and a sixteenth stake today will be to keep the sprinters from gaining too long a lead, and to hold the routers safely back there when the stretch drive comes.

Is Better at a Mile.

The Kentucky horse would be more at home at a mile, the distance over which he conquered much the same field in the Peabody Memorial a week ago.

Today, with Jocky Buddy Haas again in the saddle, he must turn back the best field he has faced this year. The fourteen named overnight include such possessors of early speed as Capt. Cal, Crowning Glory, and Billbo. It should be these three out in front fighting for the lead as the field goes by the clubhouse into the turn.

Capt. Cal hardly ran his race last week, and may be expected to show improvement. As for Crowning Glory, his victory at a mile this week proved conclusively that he's ready for his best effort now.

Has Keen Opposition.

But should Mucho Gusto use himself up too much in keeping up with these front runners he may not have much left when the sturdy stretch runners start moving toward him.

These must include Silk Mask and Noble Count, which raced two-three back of Mucho Gusto a week ago, both making up ground. They must also include Fra Diavolo, usually the slowest of them all to get away and the fastest to finish, and Capt. Cal's running mate, Songmaker, also must be listed as one that can come from behind and win.

South Bend's Riley High Defeats Laporte, 18 to 0

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Riley of South Bend opened the eastern division football championship race of the northern Indiana High school conference with an 18 to 0 victory over Laporte tonight. Riley scored in the first period, Wagner going over from the three yard line.

Winner trained by J. A. Kirk. Went to post at 2:16. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving, pike same.

CHARMING SIR, bustled into command on the inside and saving ground throughout, gamely stood off the persistent challenge of CHEROKEE RED. Latter, well up from the start, moved up to force the pace approaching the turn, challenged gamely under strong riding in the final quarter, but could not get up. PEGGY'S PEGGY, away slowly and raced wide, improved her position gradually, bore over badly in the stretch and shook off SPARKLING ROSE in the last thirty yards.

Went to post at 2:47. At post 5½ minutes. Start good, for all but Ariel Gold, from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

BETH MACAW took command easily after reaching the turn, had to be shaken up to withstand DENBIGH'S bid soon after entering the stretch, but holding on well came away fast as latter weakened in final sixteenth. DENBIGH had speed from the start, was under light restraint for a half mile and weakened after offering a mild challenge in the stretch, but outstayed others. STAR BESS, forced to lose much ground and slow to respond to strong urging, came with good speed and determination in the last three-sixteenths and was strongest of all at the end.

THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs. Claiming. Chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $800; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. [Daily double 2d and 3d races paid $18.60.

YANKEE WATERS shook off FULL UP in the first three-sixteenths, opened up a good advantage approaching the turn and, shaken up briskly soon after reaching the final quarter, continued well to the last sixteenth where she was assailed by the stall off TERRIER. Latter, jostled about early, came between horses when moving up fast in the stretch and hodling on well was wearing down the winner, FULL UP, taken under mild restraint, when unable to outrun the pace, lost ground on the stretch turn and weakened in the drive, but outfinished CAPTAIN RED.

Winner trained by C. C. White. Went to post at 3:47. At post 1¼ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

AMNERIS, much the best and losing much ground the first half mile, raced into command with a rush after reaching the stretch and continued to draw out to the end, but had little left. HONORED MISS, away slowly and rushed to the leaders on the inside, was in close quarters briefly as winner raced around her on the stretch turn, held on fairly well after coming out in the stretch and wore down SOLAR MAID. Latter, receiving a thrilling ride, displayed good speed where the start was aided by a big saving of ground, but weakened badly after five-eighths.

OTTOMAN, taking command easily and greatly benefitted by absence of early opposition, drew into a long lead approaching the stretch then held away to win with something left. ROYAL CHARM, raced wide throughout, wore down APTINE soon after reaching the final quarter and holding on well, outstayed BARANCA. Latter saved much ground and closed with determination in his good effort.

BUSY SPAIN, rated under restraint for five-eighths and shaken up on the stretch turn, came to outside in the stretch and closing resolutely under strong handling slowly wore down MASTERPIECE and appeared ready to draw out. MASTERPIECE took command with a rush, was steadied along to the stretch and after going wide on the long turn, drive, put in a long drive, but was not good enough. CRESTLE, on inside throughout, moved up fast entering the stretch, but faltered badly in the final eighth.

WEE EMMA, saving much ground early, took a short lead easily after reaching the backstretch, increased her margin when approaching the stretch, swerving out in final eighth, could not be hard ridden, but held INDIAN HEAD safe. Latter saved ground on the second turn, came out in stretch and after moving up went slightly to inside as winner swerved out and held on well, but could not get up. BLACKTHORN, allowed to remain far out of it for three-quarters and brought to outside in stretch, closed stoutly.

CURB BIT, under strong restraint for three-quarters, swerved out when entering stretch and, continuing well when straight, held JERRY S. safe. Latter improved his position gradually and stood a long drive handily, but could not endanger the winner. TUMBLE IN saved ground throughout and weakened in the final quarter, but outstayed TREK.

AMNERIS WINS JUVENILE RACE AFTER PLUNGE

Smart Money Beats Down Price to 3-1.

Two year old fillies clashed in the best race on the Lincoln Fields program yesterday. The winner was the Rosedale stable's Amneris. She beat Ald. Coughlin's Honored Miss by three lengths. The odds-on favorite Solar Maid from Valdina Farm stable in Texas was a faltering third. A last minute plunge on Amneris sent the odds tumbling to 3 to 1.

Another upset came in the six furlong third race, when stoutly backed Jubilee Jim, shipped here from New England, so the stories go, for a killing, finished out of the money. Jocky George South had Ottoman at $15.20 in front all the way to win easily from Royal Charm and Baranca.

The two upsets in the feature races followed two straight victories the favorites had scored in the second and third races. The choices to romp home were Beth Macaw and Yankee Water. The long shot Charming Sir had won the first race at odds of 22 to 1. The favorite Cherokee Red was second in that number.

The placing judges called the camera eye into action no less than four times yesterday to decide the finishes. Those close ones kept the crowd on edge all afternoon.

When Jocky R. Dotter got Busy Spain home in front in the Kankakee claiming purse he turned in one of the most finished rides of the season. He sent his mount to the lead on the turn, then took the veteran back for a breathing spell. He came again in the last furlong to win by a length from Masterpiece, favorite.

Peaches Davis Holds St. Louis in Pinches.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds kept the St. Louis Cardinals from assuring themselves second place in the National league today by winning their only victory of the present series, 3 to 2.

A three run attack in the second brought the victory that seemed slipping in the ninth when Pinch Hitter Rip Collins, first up, doubled, and a typical Gashouse rally, seemed imminent. But Ray Davis snuffed out the next three batters on two infield blows and a foul fly.

W-G-N Will Broadcast World Series

The world series, which starts Wednesday in New York, will be broadcast over the three major networks with three Chicago stations as outlets, it was announced yesterday. The city series between the Cubs and White Sox, which are to be played simultaneously with the world series, will be broadcast on two Chicago stations.

W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station, will be the local outlet for the world series broadcasts over the Mutual Broadcasting system. Bob Elson of W-G-N will describe the play. He is the only Chicago baseball announcer assigned to the world series. Gabriel Heatter of WOR, New York outlet of Mutual, and Tony Wakeman of WOL, Washington, will assist on the programs.

The National Broadcasting company's world series broadcasts will be handled by Ty Tyson of Detroit, Tom Manning of Cleveland, and Warren Brown, Chicago sports editor. France Laux of St. Louis, Bill Dyer of Philadelphia, and Boake Carter, Philadelphia news commentator, have been assigned by the Columbia Broadcasting system.

The city series will be broadcast over WCFL, which has not yet selected its announcer, and by Russ Hodges over WIND at Gary, Ind.

INDIANS, BROWNS SPLIT.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians lost their last mathematical chance to finish in the American league's first division today when they divided a double-header with the St. Louis Browns.

The Indians won the second game, 7 to 6, after the Browns took the opener, 8 to 2.

Roy Weatherly, Cleveland's hard-hitting rookie outfielder, collided with the right field wall and was knocked unconscious when he caught Clift's foul. He revived and walked unassisted from the field.

Earl Averill, Cleveland outfielder, hit his 28th homer of the season with two on base in the third inning of the second game.

De Saible and Roosevelt Win in High Games

Three games opened the 1936 Chicago Public High School league football season yesterday. Eleven more first round contests will be played today in the four sections of the league. The outstanding game will bring together Lindblom, 1935 city champion, against the strong Harrison Tech eleven at Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue.

Roosevelt and De Saible made auspicious starts, the former routing Sullivan, 34 to 6, at Loyola stadium and De Saible overwhelming Kelly, 38 to 0, at Normal park.

McKinley and Farragut fought to a 6 to 6 tie at Mills stadium. Quarter Back Furlong led Roosevelt to victory, scoring three touchdowns, two of them on runs of forty-five yards.

Smith, right half back, scored three touchdowns for De Saible against Kelly. Full Back Tyler shared individual honors with Smith by crossing the Kelly goal line twice. Wagner, quarter back, scored De Saible's other touchdown.

Two of the games on today's schedule, Hyde Park against Tilden Tech and Hirsch against Morgan Park, will be played under the lights at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue, tonight.

LEWIS ARRIVES; OPENS TRAINING FOR RED BURMAN

John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight boxing champion, arrived yesterday morning from Pittsburgh for his ten round nontitle bout with Red Burman at Chicago Stadium next Friday. He was accompanied by his trainer, Larry Amadee, and a middleweight stablemate, Honeyboy Jones.

The champion appeared to be in excellent physical condition. Nevertheless he started training at Trafton's gymnasium in the afternoon, sparring several rounds with Jones, who expects to fight on next week's card. Burman, who has established training quarters at the same gymnasium, took a layoff yesterday. He will resume drills today at 1:30 p. m., about an hour before Lewis appears. John Henry will box again today, but his rival from Baltimore, Md., will not don the gloves until Monday.

The international welterweight title bout between Barney Ross and Jack Carroll, scheduled for fifteen rounds at Sydney, Australia, Dec. 8, is in danger of being canceled following announcement yesterday by Sam Pian, co-manager of Ross, that Promoter Charles Lucas had failed to deposit a $50,000 guarantee in a loop bank as per their agreement. The deadline for the deposit, which includes $5,000 for expenses, was Sept. 1. The promoter was given until Monday to forward the expense money, with the promise that the balance would be available at Sydney before the champion enters the ring. Failure to meet these terms will force cancelation of the impending contest, Pian said.

Max Marek yesterday laid off training for his scheduled eight round contest with Max Zona at Arcadia gardens next Tuesday to go to Joliet and join Red Burman, Promoter James C. Mullen, and hundreds of other members of the boxing fraternity at funeral services for Commissioner Packey McFarland. He will resume drills this afternoon at C. Y. O. center.

Max Chowaniec, Milwaukee light heavyweight protégé of Ritchie Mitchell, and Johnny Brown of Portage park have been signed for an eight round scrap at Marigold gardens Monday. The match will share feature honors with an eight rounder involving Edwin Waling and Pat Robertson. Henry Huerta, Peoria lightweight, has been selected to oppose Pete Lello, Michigan City, Ind., fighter, in a five round engagement. Nick Peters, San Antonio, Tex., 135 pound slugger, and Tommy O'Loughlin, Peoria, will be opponents for four rounds.

Rowdy Pocane, Milwaukee wrestler, and Young Hackenschmidt yesterday were matched in a supporting encounter to the windup between George Dusette and Mike Kilonis at White City Monday. Walter Sirosis will face Frankie Hart, Pat McCleary is paired with George Mack, and Johnny Silvy will encounter Lefty Pacer. . . . Bill Weidner, claimant of the light heavyweight mat title, and George Dusette or Mike Kilonis will meet in the headline match at Arcadia gardens Wednesday. Mike Gorski will make his Chicago debut in a supporting bout. F. M.

Brewers Beat Bisons, 7-5, in Little World Series

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Two big innings, the fifth and eighth gave the Milwaukee Brewers a 7 to 5 victory over Buffalo Bisons tonight in the first game of the little world series. Forrest Pressnell, yielding only one hit in three and two-thirds innings in a relief rôle, received credit for the victory. Gullic hit a home run for Milwaukee and Mulleavy and Boland hit one each for the losers. Score:

Yanks, Giants Don't Have to Be Ashamed of Catchers

[This is the fourth of a series of articles comparing the New York Yankees and New York Giants, opponents in the approaching world series.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Yankees, American league champions, don't have to be ashamed of the gentleman who will do their catching in next week's world series strife with the Giants.

William Dickey, six feet one and one-half inches of Louisiana citizen, will do the catching and Bill can take care of himself. He's been taking care of himself as well as the catching for the Yankees since 1928 when he first became a regular and this season has been better than ever.

Against him the Giants will match Gus Mancuso, another veteran, and, while the Texan has his good points, he hardly stands out well enough to entitle the National leaguers to a belief that he is Dickey's superior.

Mancuso Good Mechanically.

Mechanically Mancuso probably is the equal of Dickey. Both are good throwers, a feature that in these days of the jack rabbit ball doesn't mean a great deal. Neither could win any medals in a race of sprinters. One knows as much as the other about handling pitchers, although mention of this feature in connection with pitchers never should be taken too seriously. Good pitchers don't need instructions from a catcher.

So with the two about even in the handling of the mechanics of the job, the difference, if any, between them will have to be found in their

New York, Sept. 25.—Bond prices moved to lower ground today as selling, brought about by uncertainties surrounding the immediate future of the French franc, swept the list. Virtually all sections suffered declines.

Volume picked up sharply with turnover amounting to $17,049,000, par value, compared with $12,880,000 the preceding day. The total was the largest since last July 15.

French Issues Break.

A sharp break occurred in obligations of the French government. The unstamped 7s lost 12 points to 160 and the stamped bonds dropped 9⅛ to 163. The decline was accomplished on a small turnover. Sharp swings in these issues are explained by the fact that few of the bonds are actually held in this country.

United States government loans lost as much as 7-32 point. Most of the trading centered in the 2¾s of 1956-59, which sold below 101 for the first time before support appeared. The issue ended the day with a loss of 2-32.

Rail Loans Decline.

Domestic rails also felt the weight of selling and losses were recorded throughout the list. In the low and medium priced group, Frisco 4½s were set back 1¾ points to 27⅛, St. Paul 5s, 1975, dropped 1¼ to 21⅜, Alleghany stamped 5s reacted 1⅝ to 63, and Alleghany 5s of 1949 sank ⅝ to 94¾. Erie 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s, and Southern Pacific 4½s also moved off major fractions to a point or so.

New Haven issues lost ground following an intimation by counsel for the Reconstruction Finance corporation that it might require two years to complete reorganization of the road.

Utility and industrial bonds closed fractions to more than 3 points lower, with the widest losses suffered by convertible issues. Among few exceptions was Colorado Fuel and Iron 5s, which gained 1 to 85 following publication of initial earnings for the reorganized company showing a substantial profit for the first 6 months.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Saturday, September 26, 1936.

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Graham-Paige Motors.

Investors' Guide: Kindly send me a report on Graham-Paige stock.—D. F.

Answer: Graham-Paige Motors corporation has had a difficult time during recent years, suffering severely from both the depression and competition of its larger competitors. It has operated profitably in only three of the last ten years.

Formed in 1909 as one of the earlier auto companies and making medium priced cars, it recently has entered the low priced field.

Drastic economies have been put into effect to reduce overhead in the face of shrunken sales. Factory operations have been consolidated in Detroit. The Evansville, Ind., plant was sold last year, and an extensive program of plant and machinery rearrangement was undertaken this summer to increase production facilities 50 per cent and save $400,000 annually in manufacturing costs.

With surplus almost wiped out, working capital seriously impaired, and $600,000 in notes due in 1937, stockholders last April voted an offering of 600,000 additional common shares to present stockholders at $3 a share to raise funds. The Grahams and associates underwrote 400,000 shares.

Giving effect to sale of 400,000 shares and sale of the Evansville plant for cash, current financial position was much improved on June 30, 1936. Current assets were $2,435,000 and current liabilities were $1,593,000, compared with $2,486,000 and $2,383,000 on Dec. 31, 1935. Both notes and accounts payable were substantially reduced.

Factory sales the first half of 1936 totaled 12,599 cars, compared with 14,127 in the corresponding 1935 period, but sales of the second quarter alone were 7,549 against 5,479 in the second quarter of 1935.

Loss for the first six months this year was $217,000 against $191,000 last year. Loss for all of 1935 was $1,701,000, compared with $475,000 in 1934, though ales were up to $14,622,000 from $11,595,000. The company sold 22,704 cars in 1935 and 15,877 in 1934.

Giving effect to the recent sale of stock, capitalization consists of 2,791,385 common shares of $1 par on which no dividends have been paid since 1926, and 4,965 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred stock on which no dividends have been paid since April 1, 1932. Funded debt stood at $1,686,000 on May 31, 1936.

Until operations can be placed on a definitly profitable basis the stock must be considered extremely speculative.

WORK, WAGES RISE IN ILLINOIS DURING AUGUST

Gain Over July More than Seasonal.

Reports from 4,745 business enterprises in Illinois for August showed increases of 2.4 per cent in employment and 2.8 per cent in pay rolls over July, a greater than seasonal increase, and 11.5 per cent in workers and 18.2 per cent in wages over August, 1935, the Illinois department of labor announced last night.

Peter T. Swanish, chief of the division of statistics and research, pointed out that in the thirteen years from 1923-'35 the average July-August changes were increases of 1.2 per cent in employment and 2.5 per cent in pay rolls.

Employment Index Advances.

The index of employment for all reporting industries rose from 72.9 per cent—based upon the monthly average from 1925 to 1927 as 100—in August, 1935, to 81.3 in August, this year, and the index of pay rolls rose from 57.2 to 67.6 per cent.

The 2,292 manufacturing companies submitting reports for August showed increases of 3.2 and 4 per cent in employment and pay rolls, respectively, over July. The employment index rose from 73.6 in August, 1935, to 84.7 in August of this year, while the wage index advanced from 63.5 to 66.4.

The firms in the nonmanufacturing field, totaling 2,453, showed gains of 0.9 per cent in employment, and 0.5 per cent in wages during August over July.

Weekly Earnings Reported.

Weekly earnings for August in all reporting industries averaged $23.93, or $26.83 for men and $15.68 for women. In the manufacturing industries average weekly earnings were $23.93, or $26.50 for male and $15.16 for female employés. The nonmanufacturing industries showed average weekly earnings of $24.14, or $28.01 for men and $16.71 for women.

During August the department of labor received reports of 51 wage increases affecting 6,263, or 1.1 per cent of all employés reported during the month. One report of wage reduction affecting 54 employés was received.

REPORTS GENERAL UPTURN.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Factory employment and pay rolls increased more than seasonally during August, the federal reserve board reported today. Substantial upturns were recorded in textile and wearing apparel manufacturing lines, while smaller gains were registered in other classifications. The board's monthly review said totals were adversely affected to some extent by the automobile industry, which reduced operations preparatory to the introduction of 1937 models.

The report also said that principal increases in bank credit during the month occurred in loans to agriculture, trade, and industry. The total rose to the highest level since early 1933. Loans to security dealers also increased, due in part to preparations for the flotation of a 400 million dollar issue of treasury bonds in September.

NORTH WESTERN PLAN MUST MEET U. S. TAX CLAIMS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The treasury department will not sanction the proposed plan of reorganization for the Chicago and North Western railway unless a clause is inserted to the effect that the railroad as reorganized assumes and agrees to pay in full federal tax liabilities running back to 1921, according to a letter written by Wayne C. Taylor, assistant secretary of the treasury, to Chairman Mahaffie and Director Sweet of the finance division of the interstate commerce commission.

The letter did not state the total the treasury estimates as due as some of the alleged deficiencies are still a matter of negotiation, but made it plain that the department would seek to halt present reorganization proceedings unless its claims were protected.

FIRST 1937 NASH AND LAFAYETTE MODELS MOVED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 25.—The first driveway of 1937 Nash and Lafayette models moved from the automobile plant here today, and it was described by company officials as the largest driveway in Nash history.

Dealers and distributors throughout the country closed a three day convention by starting home behind the wheels of the new cars. Salesmen drove one car with another in tow.

Orders left at the factory topped volume of any previous year, it was announced. Formal announcement of the new cars is scheduled tentatively for late next month.

C. & E. I. Authorized to Buy 500 New Box Cars

Authority to purchase 500 new 50 ton box cars at a total cost of $1,350,000 was granted yesterday to Charles M. Thomson, trustee for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railway, by Judge John T. Barnes in federal district court. Under the order the road is to supply 20 per cent of the total in cash and finance the balance—$1,080,000—through the sale of 15 year 3½ per cent equipment trust certificates.

Ask Receiver for Utilities Power-Light

The Utilities Power and Light corporation, 91 million dollar holding company with offices at 327 South La Salle street, yesterday became involved in the second suit within two days, and the third suit since the company proposed to sell its interest in a British utilities concern.

Officials here had hardly issued a statement in reply to a suit filed on Thursday at Freeport, Ill., which asserted the company was insolvent, when word came from Richmond, Va., that five Philadelphia owners of Utilities Power and Light securities had asked and Richmond Circuit court to appoint a receiver for the company and restrain it from selling its interest in Greater London and Counties Trust, Ltd.

Charge Sale Is Fraudulent.

The petition charged domination of Utilities Power and Light by the Atlas corporation, New York investing company, and contended that the sale of the British holdings for $25,000,000, negotiated through Floyd B. Odlum, president of Atlas, is a "fraudulent and illegal scheme" by which Atlas corporation will realize a profit of approximately $8,000,000.

It is understod in financial quarters that some of the large stockholders in Utilities Power and Light have been opposed to sale of the British holdings on the grounds, pointed out by the petition yesterday, that about 50 per cent of the Utilities Power and Light's annual income for the last three years has been derived from the British concern.

Clarke Comments on Suits.

Reached by telephone last night at Indianapolis, Harley L. Clarke, president of the holding company, commented:

"I am very much disturbed by the suits, which apparently were precipitated by the sale of our English properties. As president of Utilities Power and Light I must remain impartial until all the facts are presented. Since the matter is now before the court, I am not free to discuss it."

The Freeport action filed on Thursday asked that the company be placed in bankruptcy until a reorganization could be effected under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act. The petition charged that present earnings were not sufficient to cover dividends, and that the company's assets, placed at a reasonable value, would not equal liabilities.

Denies Company Is Insolvent.

In reply to this suit, R. R. Monroe, executive vice president of the company, issued the following statement here yesterday:

"The company is neither insolvent nor in any danger of insolvency or of being unable to meet its obligations. The company and its wholly owned subsidiaries have approximately $30,000,000 of cash on hand.

"Under these circumstances there is not the slightest justification for the filing of any petition in bankruptcy or alleging that the company is insolvent. The officers view this as another attempt by certain individuals to embarrass the company, and are now investigating the facts and circumstances surrounding the filing of this petition in Freeport."

The petition filed at Richmond yesterday termed the transactions leading to the sale of British interests as "all in pursuance of a scheme to profit the Atlas corporation at the expense and injury to the other creditors and stockholders" of Utilities Power and Light. The court set Oct. 5 for another hearing on the petition with a reply by the defendants to be made by that date.

BUTTER IMPORTS SOAR; CHICAGO PRICES FALL TO LOW SINCE JULY

Domestic butter prices have been on a toboggan slide this week as a result of imports of foreign butter which so far in September have been four times the total for the month last year, the Chicago Mercantile exchange announced yesterday. The Mart commented that the arrival last Tuesday of 100,000 pounds from northern Europe, Lithuania, and Cuba was too much for the domestic market to absorb, resulting in the lowest cash prices since early July.

Butter and egg futures weakened sharply on the Mercantile exchange yesterday after being slightly higher in the early trading. November butter closed ½ cent lower at 32¼ cents per pound.

Egg futures closed unchanged, with October contracts at 25¼ cents per dozen. An early advance of ¼ cent had been recorded on reports of smaller midwest collections and a heavy out of storage movement.

Potato futures were 2 cents lower to 1 cent higher, the gain on January which closed at $2.28 per 100 pounds. Sales of butter futures totaled 118 cars; eggs, 138 cars; potatoes, 18 cars. Prices follow:

WORLD'S WHEAT PRICES FALL ON FRENCH CRISIS

Futures Sold Freely by Speculators.

Uncertainty regarding the French financial situation dominated the action of the world's wheat markets yesterday. Speculative holders of future contracts were free sellers, both in American and foreign markets.

While closing trades were somewhat above the day's lowest prices, net loses in Chicago ranged upward to 2 cents per bushel. Winnipeg prices list 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents. Liverpool declined a fraction, due largely to the lower rate for sterling exchange used in figuring the American equivalent.

At no time yesterday were wheat prices in Chicago above the close on Thursday. Winnipeg and Liverpool, however, advanced fractionally early into new high ground for the season but weakened rapidly later when rumors predicting that France would abandon the gold standard were circulated. Buying of futures in leading markets lacked the snap which had prevailed earlier in the week.

Hedges Removed at Winnipeg.

Removal of hedges against export sales of one million bushels of Canadian cash wheat to Europe tended to restrict the decline on the Canadian exchange. There also was free buying credited to American mills at Winnipeg. Omaha reported that Minneapolis millers had entered that market and bought 100,000 bushels of hard winter wheat.

Trading in September grain contract on the Chicago and Kansas City boards of trade will cease at the close today, and there was considerable buying and selling of the expiring delivery by speculative interests yesterday. As a result, September corn soared 2¾ cents to close at $1.15⅝ to $1.16 per bushel. New crop deliveries of corn closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, with the decline in the May option. Oats and rye futures lost major fractions. Barley gained ⅛ cent.

Cash Rye at New High.

A new high price for cash rye since January, 1930, was paid here, a car of fancy Illinois grain selling at $1 per bushel. Cash barley was firm, with sales of fancy malting at $1, equalling the highest price since 1920.

Closing prices on the December delivery of leading grains in Chicago, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Thurs.	Wk. ago.	Month ago.
Wheat	$1.15⅝	$1.17⅛	$1.12⅝	$1.07⅜
Corn	.95⅜	.95⅝	.95⅞	.92½
Oats	.42½	.43⅛	.42⅝	.42⅜
Rye	.83	.84	.80¼	.79⅛

Arrivals of foreign grain at American ports have become routine, and they now attract little attention from the trade. Baltimore reported that small lots of Argentine corn and Latvian rye were unloaded there on Thursday.

Report Canada Lifts Duty.

Reports that Canada has removed the import duty on corn for three months, when the grain is to be used for feeding purposes, attracted widespread attention from the American grain trade yesterday. The communication had no effect on the Chicago market, although according to some cash grain handlers it may result in diverting Argentine corn from Canadian ports to live stock feeders in that country. Normally, the grain would have found its way into New England and the east.

"The action of the Dominion government," said a cash grain man, "means that Canadian cattle feeders will be able to purchase Argentine corn at 25 cents per bushel less than American interests, and they will put more weight on their cattle before shipping to the United States."

Argentina exported approximately 4,000,000 bushels of cash corn to the United States and Canada this week, making a total of more than 17,000,000 bushels shipped since Aug. 1. A cargo of Argentine corn arrived at Montreal yesterday. Buffalo was understood to have received a moderate amount in the last few days. About 100,000 bushels are due to arrive at Chicago early in October.

TWO CANADIAN PACIFIC TRAINS WILL CUT TIME

Reductions in running time of two Canadian Pacific trains operating out of Chicago will become effective tomorrow, it was announced yesterday.

Thirty minutes will be lopped from the schedule of the Soo-Dominion. It will leave the North Western station daily at 9:30 a. m., instead of 9 a. m., and arrive at Vancouver, B. C., at the same time as at present, 9 o'clock on the third morning.

East bound, to Toronto and Montreal, the Overseas will leave the 12th street station at 10:10 a. m., instead of 9:25 a. m., arriving in Toronto at 10:25 p. m. and at Montreal at 7:45 a. m. the next morning, the same as at present.

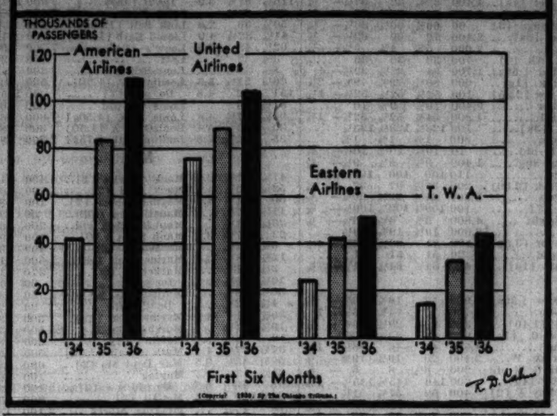
TWA Plea for Additional Western Air Line Rebuffed

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Denial of an application of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., for permission to operate passenger and express schedules between Albuquerque, N. M., and San Francisco, Cal., was recommended to the interstate commerce commission today. Examiners George A. Keyser and Lucian Jordan reported to the commission that the permit should be refused "because the proposed service would be competitive in some way with services upon the route of another airmail contractor."

Life Underwriters Elect Chicagoan as President

Boston, Mass., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The National Association of Life Underwriters elected today as its president Alexander E. Patterson, general agent at Chicago of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company, of Philadelphia. Denver, Colo., was selected as the 1937 convention city.

Number of Passengers Carried by Leading Airplane Companies First Six Months of Each Year



Freight Trafic Largest Since Fall of 1930

Movement of freight in the United States during the week ended last Saturday was the heaviest since the fall of 1930, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

A more than seasonal increase sent the week's trafic total to 789,510 cars, a gain of 89,651 cars, or 12.8 per cent, over the preceding Labor day week. Trafic increased 82,690 cars, or 11.7 per cent, over a year ago and 145,012 cars, or 22.5 per cent, over two years ago.

All classifications of freight showed substantial gains. "Miscellaneous" freight, less than carlot shipments, and loadings of coal recorded the most substantial increases.

Reflect Industrial Gains.

An expanded movement of ore reflected the preparation of basic industries to meet the larger demand for their products, while larger lumber tonnage indicated building and construction upturns.

The rise in fall business was clearly reflected in the 34,000 car gain shown by the miscellaneous group and the 22,000 car gain in less than car lot trafic.

Loadings by classifications follow:

	Week Sept. 19.	Change from Prec. wk.	Change from Yr. ago.

Report Larger Earnings.

The Illinois Central system yesterday reported combined net railway operating income for August amounted to $1,160,328, an increase of $632,990 over August of last year. Railway operating revenues were $9,455,328, up $1,578,423 over the corresponding month last year.

For the first eight months of this year the railroad reported net operating income of $8,310,202 against $5,865,421 in the like 1935 period. Operating revenues were $72,530,532, an increase of $10,423,158 compared with last year.

The Missouri Pacific railroad reported net operating income of $1,078,798 for August, the largest for the month in five years and an increase of $570,292 over the corresponding month a year ago. Net operating income for the first eight months this year totaled $6,236,168, a gain of $3,903,404 over the corresponding period in 1935.

Southern Road Earns More.

The Southern railway reported $1,924,043, against $1,239,006. The Western Pacific had August operating net of $47,524, against $57,573 in 1935.

The Lehigh Valley, principal eastern coal carrier, had $777,919 net operating income for last month, contrasted with a $115,588 deficit last year. The Frisco's $551,551 income compared with $371,458 in 1935. The Alabama Great Southern reported $103,705 against $46,839.

OFFER NEW PLAN TO REHABILITATE PACIFIC MUTUAL

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—A revised plan for rehabilitating the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company which is differing in several particulars from reorganization plans previously offered in court was filed with Superior Judge Henry Willis today by Samuel L. Carpenter, state insurance commissioner and conservator for the insurance corporation. The court set Oct. 19 as date for hearings.

Carpenter proposes ultimate complete mutualization, coupled with continuous full protection of life policyholders, and a new scheme for handling the noncancelable income policies, so that they may eventually be fully realized. It was trouble over the noncancelables which brought the company to a court ruling of insolvency three months ago.

CONSOLIDATED EDISON TO SPEND 500 MILLIONS ON PLANT IN 10 YEARS

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The Consolidated Edison Company of New York, Inc., will have to provide an additional $500,000,000 for new plants and distribution systems for its electric business in the next ten years if its present rate of growth continues, Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of the board of directors, asserted today at a public hearing before the public service commission.

Carlisle was a witness in proceedings arising from the Consolidated Edison's pending applications for permission to merge with itself a number of subsidiaries, including the New York Edison company. He admitted the corporation's corporate structure was unnecessarily complicated and at the same time disclosed that one of the prime factors behind the move for a merger was the company's desire to avoid the 15 per cent tax imposed by federal law upon dividends received by a company from its subsidiaries.

As the Consolidated Edison system is now organized, Carlisle said, the parent company, under the law, can receive only 85 per cent of the earnings of its subsidiaries. The company, he said, depends almost entirely upon the dividends from its subsidiaries to meet its own debenture interest and its preferred and common stock dividends.

DIVIDEND RATE RAISED BY DRUG STORE CHAIN

Economical-Cunningham Drug Stores, Inc., Chicago, yesterday announced an increase in the dividend rate on the common stock from 25 to 30 cents quarterly. The 30 cent payment and a regular quarterly disbursement of $1.50 on the class B preferred will be made on Oct. 20 to stock of record Oct. 3.

Consideration will be given to additional dividends if earnings continue at the present level, said Nate S. Shapero, president. He said sales for the eleven months ended Aug. 31 amounted to $7,316,434, against $6,318,981 in the like period of last year.

Directors of the Celotex corporation voted a dividend of $5 a share on the 5 per cent preferred stock, representing unpaid accumulations from Nov. 1, 1935, the date the new corporation began operations following reorganization, to Nov. 1, 1936. The dividend is payable Nov. 10 to stockholders of record Nov. 2.

Spicer Manufacturing company declared the first dividend since 1920 on its common stock, voting a payment of $1 to be made Oct. 15 to stock of record Oct. 5.

PIONEER LEAVES RADIO FIELD FOR DUTIES WITH RKO

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Merlin H. Aylesworth, one of the pioneer figures in commercial radio, today announced the severance of all direct connection with that field, although he remains with the same group of companies.

Aylesworth resigned as vice chairman of the board and as a director of the National Broadcasting company because, he said, he expected to be too busy with the approaching reorganization of Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation to have time for anything else. He is chairman of the board of R-K-O and its affiliated theater operating company, Keith-Albee-Orpheum.

Aylesworth is credited with having founded hook-up broadcasting, which made commercial radio on its American scale possible.

American Air Lines Claims Record for 1 Hour's Trafic

American Air Lines, Inc., yesterday claimed a new record for one hour's passenger and express business at Municipal airport, when the line carried 71 local passengers and 3,000 pounds of air express from the field between 12 and 1 p. m., bound for New York, Detroit, Buffalo, Cincinnati, and Washington.

Illinois Coal Output Higher than Year Ago

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Illinois coal mines produced 3,262,884 tons during August, an increase of 975,336 tons over the same period last year and the highest output for that month since 1931, James McSherry, director of mines and minerals, reported today.

STOCKS BREAK; DEVALUATION BY FRANCE FEARED

Mild Rally Follows Flood of Selling.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—A severe case of nerves, brought on by worry over what might happen if France quit the gold standard and devaluated the franc, affected stocks badly today as speculators tossed heavy offerings on the market. The list of stocks dealt in numbered more than it had for several months and total sales for the session amounted to approximately 1,514,000 shares.

After a slightly higher opening, selling for outside account began to filter into the list and, rapidly gaining momentum, developing into a climax just before midday. Orders poured into the market so quickly that at one time the high speed ticker tape lagged three to four minutes behind actual operations on the floor of the exchange.

Selling Hits All Groups.

All divisions of the market were hit by the force of the selling, and at the worst the prices for leading equities showed losses extending from 1 to 4 points. After the passing of the noon hour the excitement had largely faded and mild recoveries took place, accompanied by slower trading.

Closing prices generally were slightly better than their low marks of the day, but the final table revealed numerous losses of 1 and 2 points, and some of the more volatile issues suffered even larger reverses.

Stocks that had been acquired most heavily in recent dealings proved to be particularly vulnerable to the selling. Steel shares, chemicals, rail equipments, and carrier issues moved into the center of the drive. Metal shares also fared badly.

Steel Shares Are Lower.

At their worst Bethlehem was off more than 2 points, U. S. Steel sold off almost 2 points, and Youngstown wound up near its lowest price for a loss of 2⅝ points. Crucible and Jones and Laughlin each lost at least a point. A little recovery took place in late trading, but not enough to produce any appreciable effect.

Allied Chemical and Dye turned out to be the softest spot in the list, finishing with a loss of 9 points. Finding no support, du Pont dropped 2¾ and Columbia Carbon lost 4 points in a thin market.

Chrysler found fine support. After being off more than 2 points, it recovered strongly to finish with a slight fractional loss.

Railroad Group Slips Back.

In the carrier section, despite good reports on earnings and car loadings, losses ranged from fractions to almost 3 points. Atchison stumbled in the rough going to lose 2⅞, and losses of a point or more were recorded by Delaware & Hudson, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, New York Central, and Great Northern.

Financial observers agreed that the action of the market was mainly due to outside influences, although brokers reported no heavy selling for foreign account.

Stocks to move ahead were few. This group included Colorado Fuel, American Shipbuilding, Acme Steel, Marshall Field, Anaconda Wire, General Mills, and Holland Furnace.

AUTO OUTPUT LOWER; CHANGE TO NEW MODELS

Automobile production in the United States and Canada approached a standstill this week as most manufacturers closed their assembly lines while changing tools preparatory for launching output of new models.

Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., estimated total assemblies of the industry at 20,567 cars and trucks, the lowest of the year, compared with 26,640 in the preceding week. Reporting five more plants engaged in 1937 model assembly work, the agency said the industry passed its low point of production during the week.

Cram's Reports, Inc., estimated the weeks total at 15,680 units, compared with 33,600 last week and 15,994 during the same week of 1935.

CHICAGO AREA STORE SALES UP 17½% IN AUGUST

August department store sales in the Seventh Federal Reserve district expanded 17½ per cent over July, somewhat above normal, but the increase over August, 1935, was smaller than in preceding months, the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago reported yesterday in its monthly survey. With one less trading day this year average daily sales were 14 per cent above 1935. Chicago stores recorded the largest increase—14 per cent—while aggregate sales of stores in smaller cities showed the least improvement—4 per cent.

Retail furniture sales increased 20 per cent over both July and August, 1935, said the survey. The bank said that sales showed contraseasonal declines of 3 per cent in drugs and 10 per cent in groceries.

Montgomery Ward Delays Common Dividend Action

Directors of Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday took no action on a dividend for common stockholders. It was indicated, however, that such action would be taken soon. The company has paid 20 cents in each quarter this year, although the stock is on no regular dividend basis.

Bankers Full of Kindness as Meeting Ends

BY HOWARD WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 25.—Once a year some five thousand bankers from New York, Muncie, Whatcheer and other financial centers who are fortunate enough to be named delegates to the annual convention of the American Bankers' association find surcease from such troublous matters as excess reserves, interest rates, and bank examiners in the hospitality that goes with conventions.

On these occasions the local boys in the city where the convention is held spread themselves to show the visiting deposit and loan men from all over the country such a rousing good time that maybe they will want to come back again some time.

Unless They Forget to Remember.

San Francisco is no exception to the rule. Today this city packs the boys back on their homebound trains confident that for a long time to come many of the bankers will hold vivid memories of their visit here, and the credit rating of this western seaport will be a triple A as far as entertainment is concerned.

"With the knowledge that all fun and no play makes a dull boy of Johnnie," boasts a local newspaper, "a hard working local entertainment committee headed by J. S. Curran scheduled a recreation program that is leaving no doubt in the minds of the 3,300 outside delegates, as well as the 1,200 local participants, that 'San Francisco knows how'."

At least ten big parties, it is pointed out, have been staged for the visitors, each one costing no less than three to four thousand dollars.

See Everything—If They Can See.

The delegates have been shown San Francisco's new golden gate bridge and the 77 million dollar bridge over the bay to Oakland from the water on specially chartered steamers and from the air in a squadron of transport ships. They have been wined and dined on land and sea. They have been given breakfast, luncheons, dinners, and cocktail parties that last from 5 to 9. They have been given orchids, cases of wine, and entree to all the best clubs. They have eaten rice with chopsticks in Chinatown.

But the high point in San Francisco's hospitality has been the game of "chickadees."

To be able to play this game you must be invited by a generous host who practically takes over for the evening the facilities of San Francisco's most publicized night clubs down in the old Barbary Coast district.

Seems Like Quite a Game.

Arriving in this spot you are whisked past tables already loaded with choice foods and rows of proper glasses to the basement bar to get acquainted. The local edition of Tex Guinan brings in her blonde entertainers, doing away with the formality of introduction by announcing heartily that nobody remembers names anyway, and so "everybody will just be chickadees." The visiting delegates are "big chickadees" and the entertainers—just a group of debutantes waiting for their chance in opera, you are told—are "little chickadees."

And so the "big chickadees" and the "little chickadees" have a grand time, and if a "big chickadee" gets a little joyous and lets a "little chickadee" perch on his lap—well, after all, isn't this a convention and hasn't the management of the American Bankers' association been spending a lot of money to cultivate public good will and take the mystery out of banking? "Sweet Ad-o-line."

PLAN TO ADJUST CAPITAL OF OTIS STEEL OFFERED

Cleveland, O., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The Otis Steel company today announced plans to eliminate back dividends totaling $37 a share on the preferred stock through issuance of lower dividend paying new preferred stock and to readjust the capital structure. The plan will be submitted to stockholders at a meeting on Nov. 2.

Under the plan holders will have the right to exchange each share of 7 per cent prior preference stock for 1.28 shares of new 5½ per cent convertible first preferred stock and half a share of common. The new preferred will have priority over all other stock and bear cumulative dividends from March 15, 1936.

The statement issued by the directors explains that the 1.28 shares of convertible first preferred received in exchange for each share of 7 per cent prior preference stock will produce annual dividends aggregating $7.04.

FRENCH ACTION MAY END WORLD MONEY MUDDLE

Britain Holds Key to Stabilization.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The decision of France to leave the gold basis that it has occupied alone among the great powers since Great Britain and the United States whittled down their financial yardsticks is believed to represent the final step necessary toward an international stabilization of currencies.

For more than a year it has been felt France would eventually be forced to take the step although its gold reserve is the second largest among the nations of the world. The latest official figures of the Bank of France showed a reserve of 52,691,000,000 francs [$3,467,000,000] on Sept. 18. The United States, with upward of 50 per cent of the total world supply of monetary gold has $10,786,000,000 of the metal.

Britain Key to Future.

The exact nature of the "understanding" reached by France with Great Britain and United States is the key to future developments. It is yet to be definitly determined that Great Britain is ready to enter into an iron clad agreement with France and this country for permanent stabilization of the pound. This country has indicated on several occasions that it is ready to join in any movement to bring about a stabilization. The British, however, have been careful to avoid any definite commitment and have heretofore let it be known that they would take no action which would prevent them from "protecting" their foreign trade.

Without British participation, stabilization is out of the question. With France forced to abandon its fight to maintain the old par for the franc it is now likely that Great Britain will be more inclined to coöperate.

Hope for End of Muddle.

Bankers expressed the hope last night that the French action marks the final chapter in the money muddle in which the world has wallowed since the historic day in September, 1931, when Great Britain announced its abandonment of the gold standard. The significance of that event was slow in dawning on the world. It set in motion influences which finally caused the United States to take similar action.

The action of France is not comparable to that of England. More than half of the world's trade is financed by British or related currency. Little of the world's trade is financed by French currency but its devaluation is looked upon as effecting a final and probably unavoidable realignment.

One of the immediate effects may be an improvement in France's foreign trade. An argument of the inflationist bloc in the French parliament has been that France was unable to compete in international trade with other countries with cheaper currencies.

See Little World Effect.

Economists and financial experts do not believe that the French action will cause any serious economic disturbance outside of France. If any early stabilization is effected it may lead to a repatriation of French bank balances now held in this country as well as a more gradual withdrawal of the French capital which has sought refuge from inflation in the American securities market in recent months. It may also bring about some reduction in American exports to France.

Markets were nervous yesterday because of the expectation that some drastic action would be taken by France. Stocks fell sharply on the New York exchange. Speculators, however, were not unprepared for the announcement. Since the heavy movement of gold from France began more than a month ago it has been felt that France was heading for devaluation and that only the matters of time and method remained to be decided upon.

Effect on Prices Here.

It is not expected that the American price level will be materially affected, although French goods should be cheaper. Our price structure is more closely allied to that of the sterling bloc countries than to the continental European gold bloc, of which France has been the keystone.

Should French stabilization result in the reversal of the gold movement to this country it is not believed that

FLEMING FLAILS FEDERAL ACT TO CONTROL PRICES

Tells Coal Dealers Law Menaces Business.

The Robinson-Patman act to control prices hangs over the heads of business men, impairing their security and serving as a constant menace, Joseph B. Fleming, counsel for the American Bituminous Retail Coal Merchants' association and member of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis, asserted yesterday at the association's convention in the Stevens hotel.

With the possible exception of the national recovery act, Fleming said that never in our history has there been placed upon the statute books an enactment with more vital bearing on business transactions.

Act Passed Under Pressure.

"It was enacted in the closing hours of the last congress, under pressure, and without the consideration the importance of the subject merited," Fleming asserted. "The result is a complex, ambiguous, loosely framed, ill considered piece of legislation. The bill may have enacted a law; it has enacted a world of doubt and confusion; it will certainly enact interminable litigation. Law suits reside in every sentence."

Fleming said that the law in practical effect contains involved and detailed prohibitions applicable to daily transactions in every kind of business, and in general it purports to regulate every branch of industry, every business, and every individual engaged in every branch of commerce.

Rap Federal Competition.

The association adopted a resolution condemning governmental competition with private enterprise by the establishment of corporations or agencies such as the Tennessee Valley authority. Resolutions in favor of economy and frugality in the conduct of national and state governments and in private enterprise also were adopted.

George I. Methe, president of the Methe-Wolfe Coal company of Chicago, was reelected president of the association, as were other officers.

INDUSTRY SETS QUICK PACE AS TRADE HOLDS UP

Plants Making Heavy Goods Show Best Gains.

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—With retail and wholesale lines maintaining their high levels, industry, with the possible exception of automobile builders, continues to set a vigorous pace, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

The major evidence of strength is found among the heavy industries, the survey showed, with many plants operating near capacity. A most encouraging observation was that which stated that producers generally are engaged in meeting current demands rather than in accumulating inventories.

Backlog of Orders Large.

Orders on hand in many plants, it was found, are sufficient to maintain production for several weeks, with indications that any change in rate of operations probably would be in the direction of further expansion.

The motor industry continues in the grip of the normal slackness which accompanies the period of transition from old to new models.

In distributive lines it was found that retail sales were uniformly satisfactory, despite the retarding effects of heat in some areas.

Major industrial indexes, it was pointed out, attained new high positions, well above comparable figures for 1935 and above the preceding week, if calculated on a daily basis, with allowance for holiday adjustment.

Coal, Steel Rates High.

Bituminous production topped the same week last year by more than 11 per cent, while the steady production of steel mills at the best level in several years emphasized the shortage in scrap and necessitated an increase in pig iron production, which enlarged demands for coke.

"Reorders last week, resulting from nation-wide retail activity, maintained wholesale gains over the corresponding period for 1935, most frequently estimated at about 15 per cent," review continued. "Shortages developed in some staple commodities and wholesalers advised buyers to order ahead to insure prompt delivery. The active movement of shoes and fall clothing at many points brought increased volume in these items."

PORK AND HOGS POINT LOWER; DEMAND LIGHT

Pork and hogs sold steady to lower again yesterday, cooler weather and recent declines having little effect on the demand. Most of the better grades of hogs weighing 160 to 290 pounds brought about steady rates, but underweights were off as much as 25 cents in spots, while the bulk of the butchers over 300 pounds and all packing sows declined 10 to 15 cents. The top, $10.35, paid for prime 240 pound butchers, was unchanged. The average showed a loss of 5 cents at $9.35, a downturn of 40 cents in the week.

Improved demand for slaughter lambs raised prices mostly 25 cents, packers giving the $9.50 top for both native and western stock, as compared with a peak of $9.25 on the preceding day. Most of the fat lambs sold at $8.75 to $9.50.

Not enough slaughter cattle arrived yesterday to warant a change in quotations, but there was a wide selection of stockers and feeders available that met narrow country demand at prices sharply under a week ago.

'Am. Hair-Felt Injunction Suit to Be Decided Today

A ruling upon the motion of certain stockholders of the American Hair and Felt company for a temporary injunction to restrain the company from calling its common stock will be made this morning, Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward indicated yesterday in taking the case under advisement.

NET EARNINGS OF BEATRICE CREAMERY RISE

The Beatrice Creamery company yesterday announced net income for the three months ended Aug. 31 of $828,189, compared with $598,261 in the corresponding period of 1935.

After preferred dividend requirements this is equal to $1.74 a share on common stock outstanding, against $1.10 a share in 1935 quarter. C. H. Haskell, president, said tax deductions include provisions for surtax on undistributed profits but that accurate estimates of this requirement are impossible until the end of the year.

Sales for the period amounted to $16,071,199, a rise of 11.13 per cent over 1935. Earnings for the balance of the year will depend on production and market conditions in the butter, milk, and egg business, Haskell said. He added that September indications point to an improvement over the same month last year.

REMINGTON ARMS PLAN TO CHANGE STOCK APPROVED

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A special meeting of the stockholders of the Remington Arms company today approved a plan of capital reorganization.

COTTON PRICES DECLINE AS FRENCH TRADERS SELL

Brokers with French connections were aggressive sellers of May and July cotton contracts in leading American markets yesterday. After a higher opening losses in the deferred deliveries and in intermediate contracts ranged as much as 8 points, or 40 cents a bale.

October cotton on the Chicago Board of Trade finished with a 7 point advance at 11.95 cents per pound, while the nearby month in New York and in New Orleans was up 1 to 3 points.

The opinion was expressed within the trade that devaluation of the French franc would result in sharp curtailment of cotton imports of that nation, which is the fourth largest of all cotton importing countries.

Spot prices closed unchanged to 5 points lower, with New York at 12.25 cents per pound, New Orleans at 12.15, Houston at 11.95, and Galveston at 11.90. Range of futures follows:

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today for both spot and forward positions with sale confirmed of 40,000 bags of overquota Porto Ricos for October shipment at 3.40c per lb. Refiners generally were inclined to hold off although it was believed that they would pay this price for this year's quota. Nothing was firmly offered below 3.45c. Futures declined 2 to 3 points early in the more active positions, under commission house liquidation which appeared to have been promoted by nervousness over the French monetary situation, but rallied later on covering and trade buying. The close was net unchanged to 1 point lower. Sales were 8,450 tons.

Raw sugar prices in cents per pound:

	Prev.	High.	Low.	Close.	close.
November		2.49	2.53	2.49	2.52
January		2.45	2.47	2.45	2.47
March		2.43	2.44	2.41	2.43

Refined was unchanged at 4.75c for fine granulated with moderate withdrawals reported. Another local refiner announced its price would be 4.75c on Monday for prompt and thirty day contracts with a special discount of 3 cents per hundredweight on sugar actually shipped within ten days from date of contract and 1½ cent per hundredweight on shipments from the 10th to the 20th day.

HIDE FUTURES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Hide futures closed 13 to 15 points lower today on sales of 54 lots of 40,000 pounds each. Prices of futures at the close follow: December, 11.81 cents per pound; March, 12.11 cents; June, 12.43 cents; September (1937), 12.73 cents.

FRENCH ACTION MAY END WORLD MONEY MUDDLE

International Stabilization Likely Result.

it would be of great consequence. The United States gold supply has swollen by approximately a billion and a half dollars in the last year and has resulted in a big expansion in the huge reserves of the American banking system. This vast increase in reserves recently caused the federal reserve board to make an arbitrary boost in reserve requirements of banks to cut down the excess.

CHEAPER FRENCH GOODS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—French devaluation, foreshadowed by tonight's international monetary agreement, tends for the present to make French wines, laces, and other goods from that nation cheaper for the American purchaser. Likewise, it tends to make American automobiles cost more for the French buyer.

Here is the way Americans may get cheaper wines and laces:

A dollar will now buy 15.2 francs, or a piece of lace that costs that much. If France devalues the franc to the point where a dollar will buy 20, then an American purchaser may get a piece of lace or a bottle of wine worth 20 francs, or pay less than a dollar for a 15.2 franc article.

How Stabilization Helps.

Here's the way international stabilization would help world traders:

An American importer today may purchase wine costing $1 in France, figuring he can sell it in this country for $1.25. A sudden change in the relative value of the two currencies, while the wine was crossing the ocean, might make it cost him the full $1.25 when it arrived here, wiping out his profit.

With stabilized currencies the importer has the assurance that when the goods reach this country he can pay for them what he originally planned, because the $1 will still buy the same number of francs.

LARD PRICES UNCHANGED TO 7½ CENTS OFF AT CLOSE

Easiness in corn during the early part of yesterday's session led to selling of lard futures attributed to commission house longs. On the break covering by shorts in September contracts developed and the market quickly rallied. Cash interests were credited with selling on the advance. Closing trades were unchanged to 7½ cents lower. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed nominally unchanged.
